REGARD GARNER LEADER IN RACE FOR NOMINATION

Backers Say He's in Receptive Mood.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 2.—[Special.]—Vice President John N. Garner is a sure enough candidate for the Democratic nomination for President next year. He is in that state of mind termed by the politicians "receptive"—"damned receptive," said one of his friends in a burst of confidence.

John Nance Garner.

Developments of the last few days have convinced the political leaders that "Cactus Jack," just turned 70 and "feeling fit as a fiddle," according to his own testimony, is eager for the nomination, expects to achieve it and is in the fight until the last roll call of the convention.

Garner is far and away the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination. According to the Gallup poll he is running like wildfire, polling 42 per cent of the straw votes, compared with Postmaster General James A. Farley and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in second and third place with 10 per cent each.

Pilgrimages Begin.

Already the pilgrimage of Garner admirers to Washington has set in. The Vice President finds himself pleasurably engaged a large part of every day in receiving delegations from all parts of the country desiring to pledge their support and get his blessing as Garner missionaries.

To every delegation the Vice President says that he is not seeking the nomination and is not going to turn his hand over to get it, that he would prefer to retire to Uvalde, Tex., after his present term of service and go fishing, but that if he should be nominated, of course, he would consider it his duty to accept.

So far the Garner boom has developed spontaneously. There is no formal Garner for President organization. But one is in the making and also a Garner for President national headquarters. The Garner boom is centering at the moment in a suite of rooms at the Raleigh hotel which has been maintained for years by Roy Miller, former mayor of Corpus Christi, Tex., who is the lobbyist for the Texas Gulf Sulphur company, the intracoastal waterway system and allied interests.

Qualifications Praised.

Miller, ruddy faced, white haired, jovial, good mixer and Garner enthusiast for thirty-five years, receives callers, descants upon the presidential qualifications of the Vice President, breaks off every few minutes for long distance talks with Democratic leaders and writes thousands of letters on his favorite subject.

All objections that Garner is too old for the presidency Miller answers with the asseveration that the Vice President is as vigorous mentally and physically as a man of 50, that the only thing old about him is his old fashioned notions of the functions of government, rights of private enterprise, thrift, etc.

It was Miller who launched the Garner boom in Texas several months ago with an old home gathering at the log cabin in which the Vice President was born with commemoration of the Coon Soup Hollow baseball team on which Garner played shortstop. Miller's speech on that occasion was inserted in the Congressional Record and is being franked to the four corners of the country.

Believe Roosevelt Will Run.

Many New Dealers are wringing their hands over the onrush of the Garner candidacy, complaining that Roosevelt has been asleep at the switch, that there will be no more stopping Garner now than there was stopping the Landon nomination boom in 1936 once it got a good start. The New Dealers, however, who are perhaps closest to the President, are not getting excited. They are confident that Mr. Roosevelt will find it necessary to run for a third term to save the New Deal and that once he becomes a candidate the supporters of other aspirants, including Garner, will fall away and leap for the Roosevelt bandwagon.

MAYOR, GREEN REST CASE WITH CHICAGO VOTERS

Sum Up Campaign in Radio Talks.

Kelly :-: Green

BY PARKE BROWN.

Closing city-wide appeals to the voters of Chicago were made yesterday by the rivals in tomorrow's election, Mayor Kelly and Dwight H. Green. Each delivered a radio address summing up his campaign. Green is to deliver a final broadcast tonight. The mayor has no further speeches scheduled.

Green's address was an appeal to independent voters to join in the fight against the Democratic organization. He asserted that this election will determine whether Chicago is to have good government or is to continue to have a government interested only in the personal profits of political bosses.

Ridicules Questions by Green.

Mayor Kelly again omitted all direct reference to his opponent. After once again reviewing the accomplishments of his administration he ridiculed the questions shot at him during the campaign which he has left unanswered. The talk was the nearest approach to bitterness heard from him during the campaign.

Both party headquarters were silent during the day. Their leaders were busy in their wards. Each stood by its earlier forecasts. The Democrats continued their assertion that Mayor Kelly will win by a ratio of 3 to 2, whatever the size of the total vote. Green's managers stood by their predictions that he will win, but no figures were used.

Recalls Defeats of Machine.

"This is not my personal fight," said Green in concluding his radio speech, "nor the fight of the Republican party alone. This is the fight of the people of Chicago.

"In 1936 Gov. Horner started to fight for good government and against the ruthless political machine that has taken hold of this great city. You helped to defeat the machine in 1936. In 1938, with the election of County Judge Jarecki, you again administered a smashing blow to the unprincipled efforts to seize the election machinery.

"Independent voters and many Republicans joined with Gov. Horner and Judge Jarecki in their fight for decency and good government. This campaign for mayor is a continuation of those fights."

Mayor Stresses His Record.

Throughout his talk Mayor Kelly stressed the record of the last six years. He concluded:

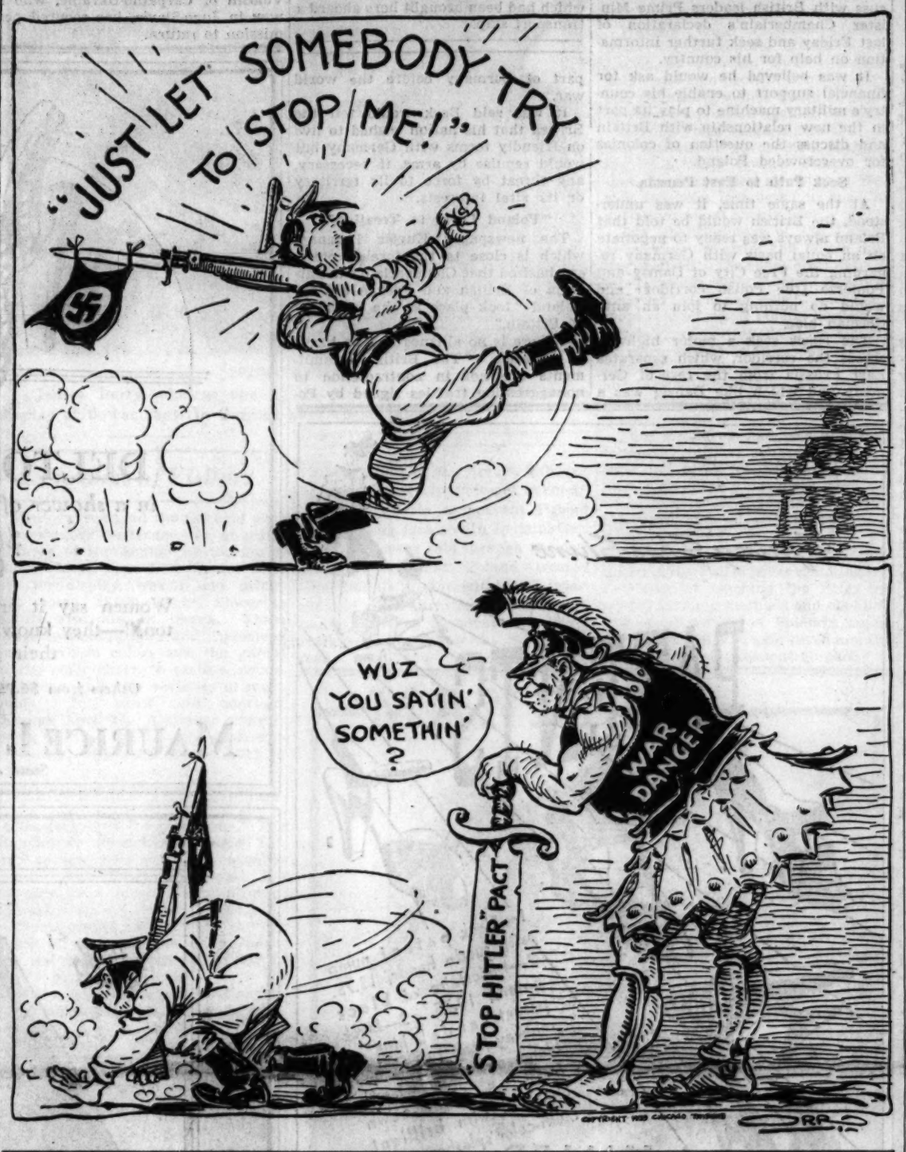
"Thank God Chicago is the heart of the nation's democracy. Thank God that the right thinking people of Chicago who are thinking of Chicago's betterment in homes and schools and citizenship are on guard in these final hours.

"I have kept faith with you, the people, in my stewardship. My hands have not been tied nor my spirit beaten down by vicious propaganda of hatred and abuse.

"I come to you again with clean hands, hands that have helped to work out the destiny of Chicago, hands that have been building. You and I go to make up Chicago's shirt-sleeve brigade who have had our coats off in the fight to reclaim Chicago and bring her to her present place in the sun."

Each of the candidates addressed several meetings during the afternoon. The largest was a meeting of colored voters in the 8th Regiment armory, where Mayor Kelly received a declaration of allegiance from Ald. W. L. Dawson, a Republican, and his 2d ward organization.

THE BIG BROADCAST THAT WAS INTERRUPTED



Spring--She'll Take Her Own Sweet Time

BY MARCIA WINN.

Chicago may expect its tulips to bloom the first week in May, its lilac buds to burst around May 20 and its first roses on June 8. But it should not expect spring for a good three weeks. It is not due until April 28.

This is on the word of August Koch, chief horticulturist for the Chicago park district. And he stands firmly by it despite the report of S. A. Colliver that he saw the first purple martin, harbinger of spring, at his home, 13422 Chatham street, Blue Island, Saturday. Spring, says Mr. Koch, is not here until the cherry and crab apple trees are a foam of bloom. Even then, he said dourly, it may freeze.

Earliest Spring on April 28.

Mr. Koch has been a park horticulturist for twenty-seven years. In that time, he says, the earliest spring was April 28, the latest May 4. Only twice did tulips bloom in April; they froze then in May.

Few persons, anxious as they are for winter to be gone, realize, he said, that Chicago's spring is a world unto itself. Sixty miles east of here, he said, the climate is akin to that of Tennessee; sixty miles north, climatic conditions are those of Alaska. Between the two is a growing difference of six weeks—and Chicago.

Chicagoans who like to grow a few flowers have been calling Mr. Koch frantically for the last ten days, asking him when they can start planting, and what they can plant. His answer is to start now on all hardy annuals.

Time to Plant Poppies.

Poppies, for instance, should be planted now, as should larkspur and candy tuft [alyssum]. That is, seeds should be sowed, but never deeper than twice the size of the seed. Plants should not be set out until the first half of May.

A little later, in ten days or two weeks, marigolds, snapdragons, gallardias, and coreopsis may be sown. Petunias should be sown in two weeks [from April 15 to May 10], but phlox, morning glories, hyacinth beans, and zinnias, Chicago's most popular annual, should be kept in the seed packages until May. Cosmos can be sown any time and nasturtiums in late May.

NAZIS ISSUE FIRST ORDERS IN MOVE TO MAKE GERMANY DRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 2.—The first steps toward introducing prohibition into Germany and thus compelling Germans to try to emulate Reichsfuehrer Hitler, who does not drink alcoholic beverages, were taken today. Manufacturers of brandy and liquors were ordered to reduce the alcoholic content of their beverages after May 1. Orders to curtail the production of candy filled with liquors also were issued.

Manufacturers and dealers will be allowed to sell their old stocks, but they cannot replace them. If this measure is accepted without too much friction authorities intend to prepare further prohibition measures, including the manufacture of near beer.

Wine prices, which are set by the government, have risen in recent months and as a result less wine has been consumed.

NEW JERSEY BARS PHONEY DRINKS TO HELP SALES

Newark, N. J., April 2.—(AP)—New Jersey saloonkeepers are forbidden to bamboozle a treating customer by drinking cold tea out of a private bottle. State Commissioner D. Frederick Burnett made this ruling in reply to a lawyer who made the query in behalf of an ailing saloonkeeper client.

"For your client in his delicate condition," wrote Burnett, "I suggest soda pop, or else refrain until he recovers. I am sure his importunate friends will understand if he pleads 'doctor's orders.'"

Praying Railroaders Hold Special Church Services

New Harmony, Ind., April 2.—(AP)—Religious railroaders took part today in a "railroad day" service at the Little Brown church here. The Rev. E. Snodgrass, pastor, is an Illinois Central switchman. The speaker, the Rev. R. Harper of Allenville, Ill., is a conductor. The singers were all railroad workers.

Mexico Guards Secret Spanish Treasure Chest

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, April 2.—Spanish treasure—presumably gold worth millions—and secretly borne by yacht, train, and truck, was unloaded here early today under the eyes of Mexican government men.

Mystery surrounding the shipment had not cleared tonight. This much was indicated. It has to do with the expected arrival of thousands of Republican [Loyalist] refugees from Spain.

The yacht that originally carried the cargo was the Vita, said to be owned by Marino Gamboa, a rich Filipino who sympathized with the Loyalists. The Vita dropped anchor at Tampico. It flew an American flag. Mexican soldiers were waiting at the docks. They kept sightseers away.

General Acts as Host.

Soon afterward men began unloading the Vita. In all 160 packing cases were removed. Some were so heavy they required the combined efforts of five stevedores to handle them. It was said that the Vita rose two inches in the water after the unloading had been completed. The crates were put aboard a Tampico-Mexico City train. Yacht officials also boarded the train. Their host was Gen. Manuel Nuñez, who had been sent by President Cardenas to greet them.

The train, delayed an hour by the Vita's shipment, pulled into Mexico City early this morning. The car, containing the 160 crates, was switched to the railroad yard. The crates were unloaded from the train and into the trucks.

Believe Crates Contain Gold.

No one would say where the cargo had come from, nor where it was consigned. The belief is that the crates contained gold, and that the gold is intended as a guarantee of the solvency of Loyalist refugees soon expected in great numbers.

The importance of the cargo was emphasized by the fact that Gen. Nuñez greeted the Vita's officers and escorted them here on the train, and by the further fact that President Cardenas was waiting at Nuñez' home when the train arrived. The government issued a statement saying that the Vita "came to Mexico solely to arrange for Loyalist refugee colonization."

Mexican sentiment is split on the government's avowed plan to make Mexico a haven for Spanish Loyalists.

Expect Turkey to Join 'Stop Hitler' Front

BULLETIN.

LONDON, April 3 (Monday).—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain was said in informed quarters to have offered Rumania a pledge of protection and to be likely to announce the offer in the house of commons today if he receives Rumania's reply in time. It was believed almost certain Rumania would accept immediately. Turkey also was expected to join the "anti-aggression" bloc being built by Britain.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Diagram on page 2.)

LONDON, April 2.—The nature of Prime Minister Chamberlain's "Polish guarantee" and what effect it may have on future European affairs will be put to the test tomorrow when Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, arrives in London for a three day visit.

Col. Josef Beck.

Some misunderstanding apparently arose over the weekend as to the precision of Britain's pledge to support Polish independence. This was reflected in the inquiries which Count Raczynski, Polish ambassador, directed at Viscount Halifax at the foreign office yesterday afternoon.

The Poles were reassured as to Britain's intentions and Beck will be able to begin his negotiations without any doubts about what Chamberlain's announcement to the house of commons Friday meant. The decision as to whether an effective pact will be signed therefore seems to be up to Poland.

To Discuss Form of Aid.

The Polish foreign minister will discuss with Chamberlain and Halifax what assistance Britain will give Poland in the event of attack. He also will give a mutual promise of support to Britain. In political quarters it was suggested that Beck will be advised by the British that a settlement with Germany regarding the Free City of Danzig and the Polish corridor may be to Poland's "best interests" in the long run.

[The Danzig territory was taken from Germany after the world war to give Poland an outlet to the Baltic sea at the head of the corridor.]

It is possible that a 100 million dollar loan to Poland to buy arms to defend herself against the Germans, if necessary, will be taken up with the British ministers.

While this country seems to feel that the British army will be ready to help the Poles should they call on it for defense against Adolf Hitler, the entire matter will be debated tomorrow in the house of commons.

Chamberlain Faces Questions.

It is indicated that a growing sense that all political parties must get together during European tension will not prevent several searching inquiries being directed toward Chamberlain from opposition members.

Diplomats are particularly interested in studying the extent of British success in lining up a bloc of nations against Hitler. It is considered significant that the American, British, and French ambassadors are at least temporarily withdrawn from Berlin. This, however, may have disadvantages for if an accident should happen there would be no diplomats available to minimize its importance.

Efforts are being made by diplomatic writers to revive interest in whether Rumania and other east European states will be included in Chamberlain's policy of protection.

In winding up his visit, Beck is scheduled to visit King George VI. of Britain at Windsor castle Wednesday and to inspect British warships at Portsmouth Thursday.

The British government is preparing to introduce the budget for 1939 in parliament immediately after the Easter holidays. The budget of $6,375,000,000 is a record for peace times. Of this sum the nation will borrow $1,750,000,000.

MADRID HAILS 'DAY OF PEACE'; TROOPS PARADE

Churches Crowded; Food Flows In.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 2.—Today was Nationalist Spain's victory day, the first day in thirty-two and a half months that the entire nation officially was at peace, and it seemed that every person in Madrid turned out to celebrate.

The war officially ended last midnight when Generalissimo Francisco Franco announced from Burgos:

"La guerra ha terminado"—the war has ended.

Actually the war ended when Madrid fell last week and it was merely a question after that how long it would take Nationalist troops to occupy the rest of surrendered Republican [Loyalist] territory.

55,000 Fascists March.

Fifty-five thousand Falangists [Fascists] in seventy banderas, or battalions of about 800 each, paraded through the city to the cheers of big Sunday morning crowds.

Falling on Palm Sunday, victory day found reopened churches packed with crowds that reached into the street for lack of room inside. Bright spring weather brought thousands of persons into the streets and everywhere there were Nationalist flags, streamers, bunting, and posters.

Twelve hundred squads of workmen were busy tearing down Republican posters and cleaning buildings marked with slogans. They also dismantled ponderous barricades at the end of every street. The barriers had been made with stones ripped from the pavements.

Eggs Now, Bacon Tuesday.

Cafés, which officially reopened two days ago, really had enough supplies for large scale service to customers for the first time today. All were packed. Madrid always was one of the world's most enthusiastic café cities, and the lack of them was one of the hardships Madrilenos felt most during the war.

Eggs were added to the rations of famished Madrilenos and they were told there would be bacon to go with them on Tuesday. A fleet of trucks last night brought 200,000 dozen eggs along with 20,000 gallons of milk, considerably improving the city's food situation.

The Auxilio Social, Nationalist relief organization which is handling all food distribution, began allotting small quantities of pork, mutton, and beef to families with food cards. Those with children received preference.

Lacks Only a Bull Fight.

All that was lacking to give Madrid a perfect Sunday was a bull fight. That was promised for the near future. The bull ring must be repaired. During the war it was used as a park for trucks, then as a slaughter house and, during the recent communist uprising, as a fortress. All the seats and woodwork were burned and part of the ring was plowed up as a garden.

All movie houses except the eleven showing official propaganda films were closed for Holy Week. It was announced that book stores would be allowed to reopen next Saturday on the condition that they first report to the propaganda department for instructions on what they would be allowed to sell.

Newspapers were ordered to refrain from publishing anything—even official announcements—until official approval had come from Nationalist headquarters. Another order directed that all letters be posted unsealed to permit quick censoring, or, better still, that postcards be used.

Round Up Continues.

Hundreds of women wanted to mark the double occasion of victory day and Palm Sunday with a pilgrimage to the University City battleground within the city where their menfolk fought and died. But the way was barred for public safety after another child was killed today as two had been killed on Wednesday by the explosion of an old grenade found among the trenches.

There were plenty of Spaniards for whom this was not a day of rejoicing—those imprisoned as responsible for alleged crimes of the last two and one-half years. The cleanup of anti-Nationalist elements is going ahead quietly but efficiently.

A prison official revealed there were 2,000 persons jailed in Madrid of whom 300 are communists locked up after last month's revolution. Republican soldiers who will be freed if not convicted of criminal responsibility beyond mere army service continue to pour into concentration camps.

It is estimated there are 400,000 in such camps all over Spain and that about 150,000 of them are here. There was little need to guard them. They are quite ready to surrender and only want to get clear of the army and war as soon as possible.

One of the policies of the Franco government is to allow crimes to be worked off by labor on public works. The problem of what to do with the Republican soldiers probably will be solved at least in part that way.

Few May Leave City.

Nobody can enter or leave the city without a safe conduct pass issued by military headquarters. Only five roads out and five roads leading into the city are allowed to be used.

During the day a series of heavy explosions marked the work of salvage crews blowing up barricades on railroad lines so they could be restored to use.

As the latest legislative step toward replacing the Republican régime by the Nationalist, all labor legislation passed by the Republicans since the war began formally was annulled and also all contracts based on it.

It was replaced by Franco's "labor charter" guaranteeing laborers and employers rights and submitting disputes to labor courts. A minimum wage for common labor was fixed at 10 pesetas [about $1] a day.

Money Situation Eases.

The Nationalists have determined that labor relations be regulated by the state and unions will not be allowed to regain the position of power and political dominance they held when the war began.

The money situation eased, and hoarded silver began reappearing in quantity. One street car conductor at noon had a handful of one, two and five peseta pieces—rarely seen during Madrid's twenty-nine month siege.

However, gold and silver, which the Nationalists demonetized, must be surrendered tomorrow along with all foreign exchange. The Bank of Spain announced the peseta exchange rate would be nine to ten to the dollar and 42 to 45 to the pound sterling [$5].

Report Town Razed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, April 2.—Gen. Franco's Nationalist Spanish troops which are effecting military occupation of surrendered Republican [Loyalist] territory found the town of Andujar in southern Spain completely razed, it was disclosed today.

It was reported that prior to abandonment of the town the Republicans destroyed the principal buildings by dynamite and fire. Residents of the town declared that Republicans killed more than 300 rightists in Andujar during the civil war. It was alleged that in one case 109 rightists were put to death in the Church of Santa Maria Cabeza.

The important mercury mines at Almaden will be expropriated, the Franco government has announced, and in the future will be operated by the Nationalist government instead of the former French company.

ITALIANS ADVISE POLAND TO SHUN BRITAIN AS ALLY

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

ROME, April 2.—The Italian press today featured Adolf Hitler's speech at Wilhelmshaven Saturday. Newspapers placed great emphasis on those passages reasserting the solidarity of the Rome-Berlin axis and Germany's intention not to be outstripped by the democracies in the armaments race.

At the same time Poland was advised not to entangle herself in an alliance with Great Britain, which, in the words of one editorial, brought bad luck to all those countries she sought to protect.

To prove this contention it was pointed out that Britain lent her support to the Ethiopian, Czecho-Slovak, and Spanish Loyalist governments and in each case the result was the same—complete defeat.

FORMER POLISH PREMIER SHOOTS SELF; MAY DIE

Col. Walery Slawek.

WARSAW, April 2.—(AP)—Col. Walery Slawek, three times premier of Poland, was in a serious condition tonight from gunshot wounds which police said were self-inflicted. A hospital announcement that he had died was changed later to say Slawek was near death.

Slawek was leader of the government party for many years during the régime of the late Marshal Josef Pilsudski, with whom he had worked for Polish independence in the years before the world war.

After his last cabinet resigned in 1935 Slawek was elected speaker of the sejm [lower house of parliament]. Last fall the sejm was dissolved and Slawek was defeated in ensuing elections in November. Friends said he has been despondent since his election defeat.

MANY VISITORS TO ROME TAKE PART IN PALM SERVICES

VATICAN CITY, April 2.—(AP)—Thousands of pilgrims, attracted to Rome by the elaborate Holy Week ceremonies, took part today in Palm Sunday services commemorating Christ's entry into Jerusalem.

At St. Peter's a magnificent mass was sung and several cardinals and lesser prelates participated in the traditional procession of the palms through the great doorway and around the basilica. Great processions were held also at St. John Lateran and others of the more important churches. In all, as throughout the Roman Catholic world, fresh green palm leaves were blessed and distributed to worshipers.

Pope Pius XII., who will be the central figure in the passion ceremonies later in the week and on Easter Sunday, when he will give his blessing from the balcony of St. Peter's, did not take part in today's ceremony in the basilica, but said mass in his private chapel.

POLAND TO VOICE COLONIAL NEEDS IN LONDON TALKS

Beck Carries to England Hopes of His Nation.

WARSAW, April 2.—(AP)—Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, and three aids left for London today, carrying with them hopes that Poland's new solidarity with Great Britain might bring favorable consideration for the nation's colonial problem.

With British-French military aid pledged in event Polish independence should be threatened, Beck will discuss with British leaders Prime Minister Chamberlain's declaration of last Friday and seek further information on help for his country.

It was believed he would ask for financial support to enable his country's military machine to play its part in the new relationship with Britain and discuss the question of colonies for overcrowded Poland.

Seek Path to East Prussia.

At the same time, it was understood, the British would be told that Poland always was ready to negotiate on an equal basis with Germany regarding the Free City of Danzig and Pomorze [the Polish corridor] and would do nothing to join an anti-German bloc.

The Nazis seek a motor highway across the corridor, which separates East Prussia from the rest of Germany and which like Danzig was a part of Germany before the world war.

It was said Beck would tell the British that his nation wished to live on friendly terms with Germany but would repulse by arms, if necessary, any threat by force to its territory or its vital interests.

"Poland Loyal to Treaties."

The newspaper Kurjer Poranny, which is close to the foreign office, emphasized that Chamberlain's declaration of British and French aid for Poland "took place at the initiative of Britain."

"There is no alliance and no bloc," it declared. "The British commitments are not in contradiction to nonaggression treaties signed by Poland with Germany and Russia. Poland is fulfilling these two treaties with all loyalty. Poland always tries to conform not only to the formal side of these treaties but also to their spirit."

This was interpreted as a warning that Poland, as government leaders have reiterated, has no intention of aligning herself openly against Germany.

The government, acting to break up anti-German demonstrations, ordered the imprisonment of a group of Poles who raided a German club at Swietochlowice, in Silesia.

17 SPANISH WARSHIPS, NOW UNDER FRANCO COMMAND, SAIL HOME

BIZERTE, Tunisia, April 2.—(AP)—The Spanish Republican [Loyalist] naval fleet sailed for Spain today after being handed over to the Nationalist [Franco] government by French authorities to whom its former Republican commanders surrendered on March 7.

Two cruisers, eleven destroyers, one submarine, two transport ships and one tanker filed through the canal from Bizerte's lake naval base to the Mediterranean, their crews standing at salute. The destination of the fleet was not announced. Under Republicans, it had fled to Bizerte from Cartagena, former Republican naval base, during an uprising against the fallen Madrid régime.

Most of the crews voted to return to Nationalist Spain and left concentration camps yesterday to board the vessels with Nationalist skeleton crews which had been brought here aboard a transport ship.

Amnesty Proclaimed for Ruthenians by Hungary

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 2.—The government has proclaimed a general amnesty for Carpatho-Ukrainians [Ruthenians] who had anything to do, either by spreading propaganda or by actual fighting, with resisting Hungarian troops during the occupation of Carpatho-Ukraine. It was reported that former Premier Augustin Volosin of Carpatho-Ukraine, who is now in Jugo-Slavia, has secured permission to return.

DEMOCRACY GETS A TEST IN DANISH ELECTION TODAY

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, April 2.—The general election tomorrow is being fought on the constitutional changes that were voted for at the last session of parliarment. If approved, these will make the Danish government one of the freest and most democratic in the world.

The changes would reduce the power of the generally conservative landsting, or upper house, and place full power in the hands of the folketing, or lower house.

The folketing now has 149 members and the landsting 76. According to the new constitution, 210 members would be elected to a "rigsdag," or diet, of which a landsting would have 70 members and the folketing 140. The more important issues, such as the budget, would be handled jointly by the two houses.

GERMANY FIGHTS TO AVOID BEING RINGED BY FOES

Hopes Poland Will Reject British Pledge of Aid.

BERLIN, April 2.—(AP)—German attention was centered today on nipping in the bud what Nazis call Great Britain's effort to surround Germany with enemies.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler's warning to Britain Saturday in his speech at Wilhelmshaven and to all others, especially Poland, who ally themselves with the French-British policy, was considered the opening gun.

Hope existed that the Fuehrer's answer to Prime Minister Chamberlain's declaration to the house of commons Friday that Britain and France would help defend Polish independence would intimidate Foreign Minister Col. Josef Beck of Poland.

Beck Pauses in Berlin.

The effort, apparently, was to force a noncommittal attitude on Beck when he visits London, where he is scheduled to arrive tomorrow for three days of consultations. Beck paused only about five minutes in Berlin tonight on his way to London. An undersecretary of the German foreign office boarded his train briefly for the usual courtesy call.

Hitler on Saturday declared his intention not to repeat the mistake of pre-war Germany in knowing that she was being encircled, yet doing nothing to halt the process.

"The régime of pre-war days," he said, "had but one fault—it knew the devilish plan of encircling and attacking us yet it lacked the power or will to ward it off. It permitted things to advance to a catastrophe. No power in the world can ever again force us to our knees."

Hitler spent today making his second inspection tour of the fortified North Sea island Helgoland, which figured heavily in world war fighting. The island's fortifications were dismantled under terms of the Versailles treaty but have been rebuilt by Nazi Germany.

Eyes Turn Toward London.

The Fuehrer's lieutenants meanwhile kept a sharp watch on world reaction to the Wilhelmshaven speech, which Nazis said was one of the most important Hitler has made.

Their eyes were turned particularly toward London. Hitler was expected to return to Berlin by tomorrow night because here he can be in closer contact with reports from England on the forthcoming conferences between Chamberlain and Beck.

The Nazi press hailed Hitler's speech as "a clear warning." The Fuehrer's own newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter, warned that powers which participated in any "encircling" maneuver were putting themselves in a "danger zone." The Hamburger Fremdenblatt said Hitler's speech, well worthy of wonderment, is, in the last analysis, the warning of a peace loving people," addressed to the British people.

Chamberlain's statement to the house of commons was described as the last straw that caused Hitler to decide to get into action.

Hitler yesterday also issued an implied warning to Poland without naming her.

"He who is willing to pull the chestnuts out of the fire for others," he said, "must expect to get burned."

Despite efforts to prevent Poland from joining forces with Britain, Germans have been told through the controled press that Poland treated Chamberlain's offer with mild interest and with no intention of accepting at sacrifice of her policy of remaining on good terms with Germany.

Lilies on Display in Garfield Park

Janice Perry admires one of the thousands of Easter lilies on display at flower show in Garfield park conservatory.

Throngs of Visitors

Visitors thronged the Garfield park conservatory yesterday for an early glimpse of the annual Easter flower show. More than 1,800 Easter lilies are on display, waxen and proud, but some 18,000 other flowering plants also are in bloom. These range from multiflora and chameleon tulips, whose colors run the gamut of the color chart, to azaleas, rhododendrons, and new varieties of marigolds. The show will continue through April 16. A similar show is being held at the Lincoln park conservatory, with 1,200 Easter lilies in bloom.

POLAND PRESSES MOVE FOR PACTS WITH NEIGHBORS

Seeks Aid of Lithuania, Latvia Against Nazis.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, April 2.—Poland's ambition to play the leading rôle among the nations of northeastern Europe has been enhanced by the British government's willingness to defend Polish independence.

Warsaw today renewed pressure upon her neighbors, Lithuania and Latvia, to abandon their neutrality policy and sign pacts of nonaggression and friendship which would strengthen Poland's position against Germany.

Reports from Kaunas said that the new Lithuanian government is changing its attitude toward Poland and that the Lithuanian minister in Warsaw has been instructed to open negotiations about such a pact.

The unwillingness of the Latvian government to enter the Polish orbit has resulted in the adoption of extraordinary methods by Poland. Relations between Latvia and Poland were made more critical when Poland announced it would not permit 40,000 farm hands to work in Latvia this year. Lettish farmers urgently need these laborers and their highly developed agriculture will suffer unless the Poles change their decision.

Thus far Latvia has been unwilling to make political concessions in return for farm laborers since these have been largely recruited from the Vilna district, which is one of the most backward and poverty stricken districts of Poland.

Grateful articles have been published in the Polish press thanking the Latvians for teaching the Poles improved farming methods and enabling this small portion of Poland's unemployed peasantry to gain seven months of profitable employment abroad.

RUMANIAN FOREIGN MINISTER TO VISIT LONDON AND PARIS

BUCHAREST, April 2.—(AP)—Rumanian officials today disclosed that Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu would leave late this month on a tour of European capitals including Paris and London.

It was believed his trip was concerned with British and French efforts to form a bloc against any German aggression but officials declined to elaborate beyond announcing his itinerary. After stopping in London and Paris, Gafencu plans to visit Greece and Turkey.

Rumania today received sixty carloads of war materials from the Skoda works, second consignment since Germany took over the great arms plants in absorbing Czecho-Slovakia. The first shipment was thirty-three carloads.

RUSSIA REMAINS COLD TO PLEDGE OF AID TO POLAND

Awaits 'Earnest Action' by London, Paris.

MOSCOW, April 2.—(AP)—Soviet Russia remained unimpressed today by the British-French pledge to support Polish independence and awaited further indication that London and Paris were in earnest about building a "halt Hitler" front.

If they want Russian support they must "abandon this dangerous game of nonintervention and return to the policy of genuine collective security," said the government newspaper Izvestia.

The whole tenor of comment in the soviet press suggested that British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's statement to the house of commons Friday regarding Poland was no more convincing than previous declarations of support for Czecho-Slovakia.

Strengthen Defenses.

Brief summaries of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's retort yesterday at Wilhelmshaven, Germany, but no comment, were published.

The soviet union, meanwhile, continued comprehensive strengthening of its national defenses while awaiting decisive developments.

The Comsomol, young communist league, issued orders providing for the training of 100,000 girl tractor drivers, thus making possible the release of an equal number of men for service as army tank, truck, and ambulance drivers.

Marshal Semeon Budenny, vice commissar of defense, sponsoring a speed-up in activities of Ossoaviachim, the civil defense organization, urged every citizen to devote his spare time to acquiring proficiency in the use of some weapon.

Question British Policy.

Sadly surveying what it called "the European jungles," Izvestia asked what reason there was to suppose that the democracies would give Poland more support than they gave Spain and Czecho-Slovakia.

"If England and France, having promised support to Czecho-Slovakia, later demanded its capitulation to Germany, why should not German Fascism expect that England and France would act likewise in the case of Rumania and Poland?

"In Munich, supporters of the policy of nonintervention managed to deliver to Germany in a peaceful way what it was going to take by force. Are they not going to act the same way with regard to the Polish seacoast and Danzig after they have guaranteed Poland's independence without even deciphering what they mean by the word 'independence'?"

Japs Gain in China

(Story in adjoining column.)

Though Chinese reported their troops yesterday were closing in on Japanese in Yochow (1), Japanese reported gains in two other sectors. They reported 7,500 Chinese killed in a vain attempt to halt the Japanese drive west from Wuning (2). Japanese captured Kaoan (3) in their drive toward Changsha.

Four Ex-Presidents Made Life Senators of Nicaragua

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 2.—Four former presidents of Nicaragua, Adolf Diaz, Dr. Juan Bautista-Sacasa, Gen. Emiliano Chamorro, and Gen. José Maria Moncada, automatically became senators for life when the new congress convened yesterday. It was believed the congress would be strengthened by the experience of the former executives.

Japanese Slay 8,000 Chinese in Battles on Three Fronts

SHANGHAI, April 2.—(AP)—Japanese reported gains on three fronts deep in China's interior today in major battles in which they estimated Chinese dead at more than 8,000.

The heaviest fighting was at Wuning, Kiangsi province, where the invaders said 7,500 defenders died in a vain effort to block Japanese pushing westward after capturing the Siao river port 105 air miles south of Hankow.

In southern Shansi province, where indecisive fighting has been under way for months, Japanese commanders reported a Chinese force of 6,000 had been routed, leaving behind 600 dead.

Occupy Walled Town.

A third Japanese column pushing toward Changsha, Hunan province capital, from Nanchang was said to have occupied the walled town of Kaoan, thirty-five miles southwest of Nanchang on the highway leading to the provincial capital.

The Japanese launched their drive on Changsha, 300 air miles west of Nanchang, after a lightning-like stroke which resulted in the fall of Nanchang a week ago today.

Many of the Chinese casualties at Kaoan, they reported, were youths from 15 to 20 years old, whom they described as Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's "conscripted soldiers."

The advices failed to mention any Japanese losses on the three fronts. Chinese dispatches from Chungking, China's provisional capital, disputed the Japanese report that Kaoan had fallen, but acknowledged that desperate fighting was under way there.

Drive to Retake Yochow.

At Yochow, northern gateway to Hunan province, where the Japanese have been virtually stalemated for weeks, the Chinese said their forces were closing in on the city and that the Japanese were having difficulty in holding their position there.

Along the Han river, west of Hankow, Chinese announced they had crossed the stream and attacked Japanese positions on the east bank in a counteroffensive against the invading army, which has made repeated efforts to make a westward crossing.

In Kiangsu province the Japanese reported 6,000 Chinese surrendered on the north bank of the Yangtze, opposite Chinkiang, thirty miles east of Nanking. The area has long been a part of so-called Japanese occupied territory.

JAPAN AND REDS SIGN TREATY ON FISHING RIGHTS

Pact Ends Threat of War; Lasts Through 1939.

MOSCOW, April 2.—(AP)—Fears of serious trouble in far eastern waters over the Japanese-soviet Russian fisheries dispute were allayed today when Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov and the Japanese ambassador, Shigenori Togo, signed an agreement regulating fishing rights for the rest of 1939.

The last fisheries treaty expired in 1936 and Japan operated under year to year extensions. Each renewal of negotiations was attended by bitter bickerings, particularly the conferences for the present treaty.

A brief communique said merely that an agreement for 1939 had been signed and that the annual auction of Siberian fishing lots, scheduled for tomorrow, had been postponed one day "for technical reasons."

The communique did not bear out earlier reports in diplomatic circles that a five year agreement had been concluded giving Japan a long term concession which she wished.

Some Lots Withdrawn.

Soviet sources said Japan had agreed to the soviet union's withdrawal of six fishing lots from the auction, held annually in Vladivostok, including two lots on which Japanese canneries already had been built.

Japan warned Moscow some weeks ago that if an agreement were not signed by the beginning of the fishing season, usually in April, warships might be used to protect the Japanese fishing fleet, which would sail as usual for the fishing grounds off eastern Siberia.

The new fisheries agreement settled a grave dispute in which a major source of Japan's food supplies was at stake.

For decades Japanese fishermen have sailed north each April to work Russian fishing grounds off eastern Siberia, process their catch on Russian territory and carry it back to Japan to form a principal article of the nation's diet.

Based on 1905 Treaty.

The 1905 treaty of Portsmouth, ending the Russo-Japanese war, laid the groundwork for granting Japan fishing rights in the Bering, Okhotsk and Japan seas.

Part of the fishing grounds Japan held on lease, and for the rest Japanese were permitted to bid on an equal footing with Russians in auctions held every February in Vladivostok.

A new agreement with the soviet government on Jan. 23, 1928, granted fishing rights, provided for payment of royalties to soviet Russia based on the output of Japanese fish canneries on Russian soil and provided that auctioned lots might be held under lease as long as five years.

Expiration of the soviet-Japanese agreement came in 1936, just after Germany and Japan had announced their anti-communist pact.

Sign Fishing Pact

(Story in adjoining column.)

Russia and Japan yesterday signed a new fishing treaty, extending through 1939, in which Japan was given the right to fish in soviet territorial waters of the Bering, Okhotsk and Japan seas.

Demands Ecuador Quit League; Calls It a Failure

HACHA ADVISES CZECHS TO UNITE 'LIKE GERMANS'

PRAGUE, April 2.—(AP)—Dr. Emil Hacha, Czecho-Slovakia's last president, in a radio address today called upon Czechs to stand together for their national existence "after the example of the German people."

"The present generation has experienced the ascent of the German people out of deepest humility to immeasurable power," he said.

"The German people were able to accomplish this unexampled ascent only through their inner unity."

7 PERSONS PAY TAX ON $2,000,000 INCOMES IN JAPAN

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, April 2.—Modern Japan is self-sketched from one angle in facts revealed by the income tax returns recently published for 1938-'39.

These show that the Japanese nation consists of a vast peasantry and proletariat earning less than $10 a week; a small middle class of 1,500,000 [roughly one family in forty] earning less than $2,500 a year, and, at the other end of the scale, 3,223 persons with incomes of $50,000 a year or more. Right at the top are seven persons who paid income taxes this year on more than $2,000,000 each.

The typical middle class income is between $600 and $750 a year. In this category, the largest of the whole list, 340,872 persons paid income taxes. Next in numerical order came the 330,625 taxpayers assessed on incomes between $500 and $600.

ESPRIT DE FAMILLE

By CALEB

THE pedant might put it this way: "The externals of an organization's performance are conditioned by the internals of its coordination." The pedestrian would simply say: "How well a business gets ahead depends on how well its people get along." Both would be right—and both, if challenged for proof, could have pointed with the greatest of satisfaction to a certain gala dinner-gathering of Field employes which I attended recently.

At 6:15 our Wedgwood Room was crowded to the doors. Flanking a long central speakers' table on three sides were a hundred and fifty of the personnel of our fifth, sixth and seventh floors, seated at flower-decked tables in their brightest celebrative regalia. On inquiring the occasion—for I was an eleventh-hour guest—a chorus of voices informed me that one of our employes had been promoted to new duties as assistant to the head of another department, and this surprise demonstration was solely for his benefit.

The guest of the evening himself sat in pleased but undeniable abashment over this sudden publicity thrust upon him. After all, the entire affair had been planned and carried out in secret, and a collective tribute from one's fellows is always unsettling. No one, however, took the slightest notice. Impromptu speeches were followed by songs, and then dinner; Spanish dancing and piano solos were succeeded by laughter-punctuated Norwegian folk-songs, and an Italian flower-girl's gay foray among the tables—all commingled with conversation and the tinkle of china and silver in one festive medley.

Such spontaneous expressions of good will between and among Field employes are a frequent occurrence. The atmosphere of camaraderie and congeniality that pervades every such occasion is something for anyone to experience who has always thought of large business organizations as "coldly corporative." Certain it is that internal esprit de famille understandably explains the secret of good customer service, and why the latter is so vitally dependent on "how well people get along."

As I left the sociable disarray where cleaners would be quickly setting things to rights again, I wished that I could in some adequate way convey this sense of Field "family spirit" to the community world outside. Perhaps the simple recital is sufficient. After all, there are things that the writer's art can never be sure of capturing.

IF FRENCH UNITE THERE'LL BE NO WAR—DALADIER

Says Nation Wants Peace in Liberty and Dignity.

PARIS, April 2.—(AP)—Premier Daladier declared today that if Frenchmen are united they will have no war. He declared that men abroad know that France is determined to throw back all agitators of disorder.

Premier Daladier.

The plain-spoken premier at the same time delivered a glowing eulogy of President Albert Lebrun. This was received in political quarters as an open declaration of government support for his reelection next Wednesday at the national assembly in Versailles.

Both Lebrun and Daladier spoke at the dedication of a monument and at a memorial banquet in honor of the late Emile Loubet, president of France from 1899 to 1906, at the southern town of Montelimar. The ceremonies, the last of Lebrun's present seven-year term as president, were broadcast to the nation.

The president and premier entrained for Paris after the broadcast to enter the final phase of the presidential election campaign.

Paints Brighter Picture.

Although Lebrun has not formally declared himself a candidate for reelection, a majority of senators already has urged him to become the chief of state for another seven-year period to avert an internal political battle.

Daladier, who only Wednesday had broadcast to the world a somber review of possibilities of war, painted a brighter picture today.

"Impressed by the darkness of the skies, knowing all the destructive forces unleashed on Europe, but firm in the hope we have of the destiny of our country, without which Europe and the world would lose their reason for existence," he said, "I wish to free my conscience and express my full thoughts."

Then, turning to the president, he said:

"I raise my glass in honor of a republican who, in all the circumstances of his life, has never abandoned the fight for democracy.

Says France Wants Peace.

"I wish to associate in my toast all Frenchmen and all those who outside our frontiers do not despair of France and turn toward our country because they know that, whatever may be their fatherland or race, France wants peace.

"We all want peace in liberty and dignity.

"Men abroad know that France is determined to show the courage and firmness necessary to throw back all agitators of disorder and crime.

"We deserve peace. If we Frenchmen are united we shall not have war."

The premier's more optimistic attitude was attributed by many to the less belligerent utterances of Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini of Italy since France and Great Britain pledged support of Poland and began building a mutual assistance system in central Europe.

President Lebrun, speaking at the banquet, declared it was the duty of all Frenchmen "to subordinate private interests to the notion of public safety."

NEGROES ROB LIQUOR STORE.

Three Negroes obtained $102 last night in a holdup in the liquor store at 5302 Indiana avenue after compelling the manager, Louis Cohen, 520 Stratford place, two colored employés, and six customers to lie on the floor.

FRENCH SLAYER OF U. S. DANCER SIGNS APPEAL

VERSAILLES, France, April 2.—(AP)—Eugene Weidmann signed an appeal today against the Assize court verdict of Friday which condemned him to death on the guillotine for the murders of six persons, including Jean De Koven, a dancer of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The German first had refused to appeal, declaring he no longer was interested in his fate, but agreed to carry the case to the Supreme court after a conference with Mlle. Renee Jardon, former Wellesley teacher and a member of his defense staf.

Roger Million, who also was sentenced to death, and Jean Blanc, who was sentenced to twenty months' imprisonment, already had appealed. The Supreme court was expected to reach a decision within a month on whether to uphold the verdict or order a new trial.

SERB PREMIER AND CROAT CHIEF CONFER ON FEUD

ZAGREB, Jugo-Slavia, April 2.—(AP)—Premier Dragisha Tsvetkovitch arrived today from Belgrade for conferences designed to end the long feud between Serbs and autonomy-demanding Croats.

The premier called upon Dr. Vladko Machek, Croat leader, the first time that a Jugo-Slav premier has visited an opposition chieftain. They conferred briefly and Machek later returned the premier's visit.

Machek declared March 21 that Croats were determined to win autonomy and that it was immaterial to them whether the support came from democracies or Adolf Hitler.

[Jugo-Slavia, a kingdom of Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes, was formed late in 1918 by the union of south Slav parts of the former Austro-Hungarian empire with Serbia and later with Montenegro. Catholic Croats number more than 5,000,000 in Jugo-Slavia's population of 14,000,000.]

ARMY SENDS OUT RADIO ORDERS TO FAR FLUNG POSTS

Maneuvers Directed from New York Studio.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 2.—[Special.]—The army's general staf, headed by Gen. Malin Craig, took part in an unusual radio program here today, transmitting orders to posts in the Philippines, Hawaii, Alaska, the Canal Zone, California, Texas, Georgia, and Virginia. Orders were carried out in planes above Kelly, Randolph, and Langley fields, aboard the mine planter Ellery W. Niles in San Francisco bay, and at a number of land stations.

Gen. Malin Craig.

Presented as a preliminary to Army day, which will be observed next Thursday, the broadcast required more than 100,000 miles of circuits, and seventy-three microphone points.

The program provided a graphic hint of what might happen in war time.

Craig Talks to Manila.

Several hundred persons were in the Rockefeller center studio when the uniformed army men put on earphones and fingered their scripts. Gen. Craig first greeted his farthest outpost, the Manila headquarters of Maj. Gen. John H. Hughes. Gen. Hughes said it was 3:19 a. m. Monday where he was and the chief of staf replied, "It's good to hear your voice again, Johnny." The script read, "Gen. Hughes," not Johnny.

The next call was to Maj. Gen. Charles D. Herron at Honolulu who said it was 8:49 Sunday morning out there.

Maj. Lewis W. Amis at Juneau said it was 10:20 a. m. and Maj. Gen. David L. Stone at the Canal Zone informed his superior it was shortly after 2 p. m. Gen. Craig calling him Davey, said he was glad to get back on his getting all mixed up.

Gen. Craig then turned over the microphone to Brig. Gen. Lorenzo D. Gasser, chief of personnel, who called Randolph Field, Tex., where a cadet was put through his paces in a training plane with clipped wings, mounted on a pedestal in a darkroom.

Then, from Kelly field, the audience heard the drone of a real propeller as a student flyer did some instrument flying. During the landing, the officer in the plane several times added to his script the warning, "Get your left wing up!"

An Infantry Demonstration.

Maj. Gen. Robert Beck, in charge of operations and training, next ordered an infantry-artillery team demonstration at Fort Benning, Ga. The audience heard the artillery concentration on an enemy objective followed by the infantry attack. Col. E. R. Warner McCabe, intelligence chief, followed by broadcasting to Brig. Gen. Adna R. Chaffee at Fort Knox, Ky., who commanded the mechanized cavalry-air corps team there.

Heading the war plans division of the general staf, Brig. Gen. George V. Strong gave direct orders to Capt. Rubin aboard the mine planter in San Francisco bay, manned by coast artillerymen, and the splash of the mines could be heard.

A coast artillery salute to Army day from Hawaii preceded the broadcast from one of the army's famous "flying fortress" bombers over Langley field.

Closing, Gen. Craig invited all Americans to visit army posts on Thursday, and introduced the 160 voice chapel choir at West Point.

SAVE MOTHER AND TWO FROM FIRE.

Mrs. Amelia Makison and her two children, Oscar and Anna, were rescued by firemen early yesterday from their second floor flat when fire broke out in the building at 2445 Wentworth avenue. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

ADVERSE WINDS FORCE CLIPPER TO PASS UP MARSEILLES ON 3D HOP

BORDEAUX, France, April 2.—(AP)—The 42 ton Yankee Clipper alighted at 3:35 p. m. [9:35 a. m. Chicago time] today at the French seaplane base of Biscarosse in a flight from Lisbon, Portugal.

The big flying boat originally was scheduled to fly from Lisbon to Marseilles, but went to Biscarosse instead because of adverse winds. Biscarosse, in southwest France, is more than 300 miles airline northwest of Marseilles.

The Clipper, owned by Pan American Airways, left Baltimore last Sunday with twenty-one crewmen and technicians aboard for a survey flight. From Biscarosse the Clipper was scheduled to fly to Marseilles tomorrow morning, then hop to Southampton, England, on Tuesday.

ARGENTINA ACTS TO EXPOSE NAZI 'GRAB' PLOTTERS

Judge Probes Conspiracy to Seize Patagonia.

BUENOS AIRES, April 2.—(AP)—Federal Judge Miguel Jantus, acting under a law requiring him to intervene in any case in which Argentina's sovereignty might be involved, took charge today of an investigation of charges that Germans had plotted for colonization or annexation of Patagonia.

Patagonia is an extensive region of tableland in the southern extreme of Argentina, bleak, windy, and rainy, but with potential wealth in wool and oil. It is 257,058 square miles in area and has a population of 77,750. Cattle raising was the original industry in the region, but sheep later were introduced and found to flourish better.

The alleged conspiracy was brought to light last week by the newspaper Noticias Graficas. It published what was purported to be a facsimile of a report to the German government from a German embassy adviser describing Patagonia as a "no man's land" in which Argentina had "no right."

The German embassy yesterday denied that Germany harbored "aggressive intentions" against Argentina or had any intention of annexing Argentine territory.

Judge Jantus' entry into the case, however, was taken as an indication that the government believed sufficient evidence had been uncovered to place formal charges.

The judge conferred at police headquarters today with Police Inspector General Miguel A. Viancarlos, chief of criminal investigations. He said his mission was to "obtain complete information on this situation."

Alfred Mueller, diminutive factory hand, and Enrique Juerges still were held incommunicado, although neither was charged formally with any crime. Mueller's name was signed to the alleged document.

Police said that the statements of some German business men, called to headquarters by Viancarlos, indicated that they had been compelled to acknowledge Mueller as German Nazi chief in Argentina.

Juerges is the blond giant who sent the supposed German report to Argentine President Roberto M. Ortiz with a letter describing it as "trustworthy proof of Nazi penetration" and promising to furnish further proof at the request of the president.

Most prominent callers on Viancarlos, who himself called twice on President Ortiz today, were Hans Lahusen, exporter of about four-fifths of Patagonian wool and former vice president of the German chamber of commerce, and A. M. Delfino, president of a shipping line of the same name.

WHY THE MARKET WENT DOWN.

If intelligence and honesty characterized the administration of public relief, expenditures would be closely adjusted to the changing business scene. When industry expanded and used more help the unemployment benefits would be reduced. And when business declined and laid off employés relief expenditures would be raised. A relief administrator of integrity would never allow the public funds under his charge to be allotted to influence votes.

By these standards the handling of relief by the Roosevelt administration has been both grossly dishonest and unintelligent. That has been especially true during the last few years. The amount of goods produced in this country, as calculated by the federal reserve board, rose from an index of 76 in January, 1938, to an index of 100 in January, 1939. The number of persons industrially employed, as reported by the United States department of labor, rose from an index of 87.8 in January, 1938, to 89.5 in January, 1939, and the index of pay rolls from the same authority rose from 75.0 to 83.2 in the same period.

These official figures clearly prove that business was materially better in January, 1939, than in January, 1938, and the right kind of an administrator would have reduced the amount he spent for relief. A report of the treasury department, however, shows that the cost of WPA was 82 per cent larger in January, 1939, than in January, 1938, and that the total cost of recovery and relief in January, 1939, was 75 per cent larger than in January, 1938. With a decline in the need for providing for the unemployed the expenditures of the funds appropriated for them were almost doubled.

And further: One year ago congress appropriated 1 billion 400 million dollars for relief with the stipulation that it should be budgeted so as to cover needs until March 1, 1939. When congress was reaching a decision to authorize that amount business conditions were very bad. The fastest decline in business of record had taken place and there was no sign of an upturn. But in June a sustained revival got under way, which proved to be the fastest ever experienced. Conditions following June were thus very much better than the members of congress had any reason to think they would be. But relief expenditures were not cut on that account. Spending of relief money was stepped up to the fastest rate since the depression began.

While business last year was increasing at a record breaking pace the expenditures in the name of unemployment relief were made in a record breaking amount. The money which was to provide the means of life to those losing jobs in business recession was treated like a campaign fund. Mr. Roosevelt sought to purge congress of those who had opposed him by the use of funds intended for the unemployed.

When congress assembled in January of this year Mr. Roosevelt sent a message saying in effect: "You know all that relief money you appropriated; well, it's gone and I'll need an extra 875 million dollars for the rest of this fiscal year." The senators and representatives who had beaten the attempted purge, despite the use of the relief money against them, demanded that the new appropriation be cut down to what was actually needed. A senatorial committee, headed by leading Democrats, condemned the political administration of relief money and threatened to make the relief administrator tell all.

To take the heat off Mr. Hopkins the relief administrator was given a new job. Congress took the obvious step of cutting 150 million dollars from the amount Mr. Roosevelt asked. But Mr. Roosevelt immediately began a campaign to get the other 150 millions. And in a nearly complete about face congress is apparently about to give it to him, at least 100 millions of it.

Three months ago the country thrilled with the expectation of what a newly elected independent congress was going to do for the country. The relief money scandal was high on the list of things which cried out for attention. The handling of the two relief appropriations, of which we have given details here, shows that the hope that something constructive would be done by the present congress was probably ill founded. The record on other key questions has not been better. As confidence in congress has waned business has again turned down. This disillusionment about congress in all probability had more to do with the collapse of the stock market last week than did all the thundering of the dictators and politicians of Europe.

OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY.

As chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, Mr. Jesse Jones has appealed again to the commercial banks of the country to lend funds more liberally. He is particularly concerned about what he calls the borderline cases. Many such business enterprises, he says, "can be saved through secured loans to be repaid over a period of years."

The phrase "can be saved" is the most meaningful in his letter because of the clear implication that these prospective borrowers are already in difficulties, if not on the verge of bankruptcy, thanks to New Deal taxation and repression. It is to such borrowers that Mr. Jones invites the bankers of this country to advance the funds of their depositors.

The government used to examine the banks with a view to increasing the safety of deposits. Now the government intervenes to persuade bankers to assume risks with other people's money which the bankers themselves have rejected as too dangerous. Even with government interference on the side of conservatism, thousands of banks failed less than a decade ago because they had made imprudent loans. One is left to wonder what would happen if bankers generally followed Mr. Jones' advice to make highly speculative advances to businesses whose ability to repay has been gravely imperiled by crushing taxation and meddlesome regulation.

THE LESSON OF SIBERIA.

Mr. Chamberlain, speaking for Britain, has given Poland a loosely qualified promise of support against aggression; and Herr Hitler, in his reply at Wilhelmshaven, has been no less ambiguous as to his intentions.

Americans are fortunate in that they can—if they will—observe these increasingly vehement exchanges with the detachment which several thousand miles of open water make possible. Americans, it is to be hoped, will not again permit their emotions to overcome their well-founded reluctance to take sides in European quarrels. We made that mistake in 1917. We allowed ourselves to believe that our participation would transform Europe into something it has not been for centuries and probably doesn't want to be. We erred at great cost to ourselves in blood and money and out of the victory we won for French and British imperialism came the sorry world in which we live in 1939.

There will be little profit to be gained from an intensive study of the words uttered by Mr. Chamberlain and Herr Hitler. The ambiguities were not accidental but deliberate, and were intended to conceal the real designs. There were secret understandings on both sides in 1914 and it may safely be assumed that there are secret understandings today. If we are sucked into the conflict it will be because our administration is again naïve in its acceptance of propaganda and its belief that our interest lies with one or the other party to the quarrel.

The attention of Americans today can profitably be directed to such incidents of the last war as the Siberian expedition. The record of this adventure was effectively presented in the Graphic section of THE TRIBUNE yesterday. To this day nobody knows what American interest was served by our intervention in this remote theater of war. Maj. Gen. William S. Graves, who was in command of the United States troops sent to Siberia, wrote as long after the war as 1931 that "I must admit I do not know what the United States was trying to accomplish." All that we did accomplish was the extinction of several hundred American lives, the expenditure of a huge sum of money in maintaining an army of nearly 16,000 men in the field 7,000 miles or more from its source of supply, and the killing of an unknown number of persons, designated as the enemy, with whom our country had no conceivable cause to quarrel.

It is easy in the retrospect of the years to see that the Siberian, like the Archangel expedition, was a senseless procedure, without rational justification in relation to America's welfare. It is becoming easier with the years to see that American intervention even in the principal theater of the European war had that same quixotic quality. It cost us heavily; it brought little or nothing that we value. In spite of the victory we won, the world has not been made safe for democracy. The rights of small nations have not been preserved. Europe has not been freed from the menace of war and absolutism. In all these respects the Europe of 1939 is worse off than the Europe of 1914. Are we going to forget the cost and futility of our last intervention in the imperialistic wars of Europe and make the same mistake all over again?

THE GOOD NEIGHBOR POLICY—AS IS.

Edgar K. Smoot, an American engineer, went to Mexico in 1893. In 1899, forty years ago, he bought a parcel of land, thirteen acres, at Manzanilla, Mexico. Five years ago the Mexican war ministry sought to expropriate that land—that is, to seize it without paying for it.

Mr. Smoot took his case to court. He was more fortunate than most American investors. Last January he obtained a decree from the Mexican Supreme court forbidding the seizure. The subsequent happenings give an excellent illustration of the present character of Mexican justice.

First, the official Revolutionary party of the country, headed by President Cardenas, called a special session to investigate the "unpatriotic" action of the three judges who had upheld Mr. Smoot's contentions. Then Mr. Smoot, now 77 years old, was hauled out of his office and thrown into jail on a charge of smuggling.

In 1922 he obtained a government contract for construction of a bridge in the state of Sonora. The contract permitted him to bring in materials from the United States duty free. Now, seventeen years later, it is charged that Mr. Smoot brought in more lumber than was needed for the bridge, using it for other purposes. The difficulty of making a defense against such a charge, after so great a lapse of time, demonstrates why Anglo-Saxon countries have statutes of limitation.

Josephus Daniels, the American ambassador, protested vigorously to the Mexican foreign office. He pointed out, correctly, that whatever crime Mr. Smoot was alleged to have committed, public opinion in both Mexico and the United States would feel that he was singled out for persecution because of his successful action in the land case.

Mr. Daniels got what would be termed, in less exalted circles, the runaround. In view of the encouragement the Roosevelt administration has given President Cardenas to ignore American property rights in Mexico, both by its example in the United States and by its failure to insist that the Mexican government abide by well established principles of international law protecting the property of foreign citizens, Mr. Daniels should have expected little else.

IF THE WOOF WARPED.

[Topeka Daily Capital.]

Quite seriously, the department of agriculture recently proposed a label for rayon dresses which would tell the consumer what he was getting. It began like this:

"This garment has a breaking strength of sixty pounds in the warp and fifty pounds in the woof, and the percentage of fabric elongation at the breaking point was 10 per cent in the warp and 10 per cent in the woof."

Well, sir, that's going to be quite some label by the time they get through with it. The garment won't need any lining. The label will take its place.

Seriously, it seems doubtful that the average person would be deeply interested in the elongation of the woof, as long as it didn't warp.

A WALK IN THE PAST.

The walk we would like to take again but never will, because it will be walking in the past through a desolate present, is the full length of Vincennes avenue from its beginning at 35th and Cottage Grove to its dead-end at Washington park—two miles of old Chicago at its best and homiest. The street had been a wagon road of the pioneers, hence its slanting direction; and before that it was an Indian trail. It follows a ridge that was a shore line or sand bar of the geological Lake Chicago.

* * *

We have shuttled up and down this street many a time, from childhood to young manhood; and a certain glamor lingers. At 35th, old St. Mark's church, with a cracked bell which came from Camp Douglas, where confederate prisoners had been herded. . . . At 36th, a charming side street, where relatives lived and we often had Sunday dinner, and across the way a family whose granddaughter married Elliott Roosevelt. Then Aldine Square, like Berkeley Square of the drama; and the Carleton club, for whose baseball team [including three of our uncles] we were bat boy and water boy.

At 39th the street declines on the social scale into a corner saloon junction; but immediately, at Oakwood boulevard it rises to suggest the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne of Paris, on a smaller scale. Then the snug houses of the petit bourgeois until we come to Bowen avenue, where Judge Joel M. Longenecker has a mansion; and the Rueckheim home, with two fair daughters, at 42d. To the east, our old grammar school, across a great vacant lot, on which we behaved like Tom Brown at Rugby in Big Side and Little Side football.

* * *

At 43d, Storey's castle, already described here; at 47th, the home, like an estate, of Judge Moran. Then a break into woodland—oak, maple, and walnut; and to the east, off the ridge, a bog, full of marsh birds' nests, called "Sisters' Farm," now St. Xavier's academy. At 49th, after 1890, a four story flat building from the top windows of which we saw the great fire that wiped the World's Fair buildings out of existence. And then, a-foot or a-bike, into the sylvan loveliness of Washington park.

Quite a street it used to be, Vincennes avenue.

PRAYER FOR DEMOCRACY.

Deliver us from those who from the mold
Would resurrect the pagan gods of old,
And from the miserable mob who call
No more on God, nor any god at all;
Who bow to effigies of greed and lust
While temples totter, icons turn to dust.

Deliver us and our Democracy
From all such evil ways, and keep us free
From hatred and intolerant extremes.
Spare us our faith, our sanity, our dreams,
And of all blessings still vouchsafed to us,
Preserve our sense of the ridiculous.

Streets Named for Forgotten Folk.

To satisfy the craving of James Pontifex [3-29-'39] for information about certain streets in Chicago:

Halsted street was named after Caleb O. Halsted, a Philadelphian who speculated in Chicago real estate almost a hundred years ago. He seldom came here; William B. Ogden was his man on the spot. [Contrib Walter B. Smith.] It was first named Dyer street, after Charles Volney Dyer. Early directories spell the name Halstead.

* * *

Wilson avenue was named after a certain Wilson, prominent in the village of Ravenswood about seventy-five years ago. [Walter B. Smith again.]

* * *

Cornelia avenue was named after a 7 year old girl, Cornelia Dyer, who is still living. . . . Grace street, four blocks north of Cornelia, was also named after a child—the daughter of Walter S. Gurnee, a subdivider.

SORROW IN LENT.

I shall renounce the hope I hold
(And hold more dear than minted gold)
That some day on this garden walk
We two shall stand in cheerful talk.
But Sorrow whispered, calm and still,
That you surrendered at my will.

My pear trees, misty white in bloom,
The rich hues spread on Autumn's loom,
These I renounce with Lenten prayer.
But She said only, standing there,
These you renounced what time you went;
A fast, indeed, but not for Lent.

What from my love's wealth may I yield,
Waiting to see this tomb unsealed?
You strung gay words once, Sorrow said,
Now count them off and break the thread.

Daughters of the Revolution, Arise!

On the southern edge of the village of Mokena, Ill., seven or eight miles south of La Grange and a mile or so west of route 45, is a small abandoned graveyard. One small stone still stands erect, bearing the inscription: "Chas. S. Denny. Hopkins, N. Y. Mil., Am. Rev." Is this indeed the grave of a revolutionary soldier? If so, why is his grave so neglected? CHAULMOOGRA OIL VALUABLE IN ARTHRITIS.

As yet—no one has been able to understand the whys and wherefores of arthritis. The disorder remains one of the most baffling, insidious ailments known to mankind. While it may not shorten one's days, nevertheless it pursues its victims with a surfeit of prodding pains, as well as crippling deformities, making life anything but joyous.

The very fact that scores upon scores of remedies have been proposed emphasizes our ignorance. Some benefit results from such measures as the injection of colloidal sulphur or the taking of powdered sulphur orally, the use of a solution of gold, of intravenous vaccines, of honey bee stings [formic acid], of sunlight and physiotherapy. One method will aid one group while another will fail utterly.

In a discussion in this column, published some months since, attention was called to the growing interest in chaulmoogra oil. This followed the suggestion of P. A. McIlhenny—made nearly ten years ago—that injections of this material would bring about restoration of joint movements in some sufferers or complete abatement of the disease in others.

For some time physicians have looked upon this particular preparation as the best treatment for deprosy, and a brief article in the British Medical Journal in 1881 extolling its virtues in rheumatism was overlooked apparently until some one observed that lepers rarely if ever developed arthritis. Since McIlhenny's pronouncement, others have reported cases in which a large number of arthritics were not only eased of all pain but rigid joints of long standing regained useful movements. French medical men, especially, seized upon the recommendation and many excellent reports have appeared from noteworthy clinics.

Camp Stanley details his experience with fifty cases. He utilized the crude oil and doses varied from one-fifth to one teaspoonful. In some instances it was possible to use the product by mouth. The proper amount was inclosed in capsules which would not dissolve until they reached the intestine, thus avoiding the possibility of nausea. Whenever it was thought advisable to administer the drug deeply within the muscles a local anesthetic was required.

Some cases needed four treatments, with an average of 25; one received as many as 78. It was not uncommon to note relief from all distress after the first three or four. Two "shots" per week were well tolerated. The percentage of improvement ranged from ten [in one subject] to one hundred in nine. With the majority, however, 70 to 90 per cent of function was regained.

Just why this management should prove efficacious is difficult to determine. It has been pointed out, however, that the substance contains elements which will prevent the growth of certain bacteria—chiefly the bacillus of leprosy. It may be that the staphylococcus and the streptococcus—ordinarily thought to be responsible for arthritis—are not influenced by the oil directly but by some of its by-products. But the fact remains that this long series of substantially restored persons must be regarded as significant.

Another factor, too, may be considered—namely, that most afflicted individuals need calcium. In other words, their excretion of this mineral is far greater than normal. It has been shown—beyond question—that the retention of lime within the body is marked when this oily compound is prescribed. Stanley—as have other authors—hoists the white flag when called upon to explain just why this drug exerts so favorable an effect.

Of the medicine itself a good deal is known. It is derived from seeds of a tree indigenous to India. It is said that the natives have long employed the powdered seeds mixed with butter for the purpose of anointing painful joints.

There seems to be but little objection to this plan of procedure, although—as the quantity is increased—systemic reactions, slight fever, headache, and itching may manifest themselves for a few hours.

THE DIABETIC'S FEET.

S. E. writes: Why are diabetics always cautioned to pay particular attention to the care of the feet?

REPLY.

Decreased circulation is characteristic of the malady. This gives infection a chance to flourish. Gangrene is an aftermath of many minor injuries to the foot. If corns and calluses develop they must be removed immediately. Foot hygiene for a diabetic is as follows: A daily foot bath followed by the use of lanolin or cocoanut oil. If the toes are inclined to rub together keep them separated by a tuft of cotton. Use clean socks daily and avoid those with holes or rough darns. Do not place the bare feet on the floor. Do not sit crosslegged, as this interferes with the circulation. Select shoes that fit well.

DOESN'T HAVE TO SHAVE.

W. L. writes: My brother is 25 years old and does not have to shave. Can something be done so that he can grow whiskers? Is there some trouble with his health?

REPLY.

Your brother should be thankful that he does not have to go through the trouble of shaving. In a certain percentage of cases, disturbances of the ductless glands are responsible for lack of hair. In other cases it is due to a personal peculiarity. It is of no significance and no treatment is necessary.

VIRUS DISEASE.

A. S. writes: What is a virus disease?

REPLY.

A disease which is caused by an extremely minute living organism, which differs from a bacillus or a microbe in that it cannot be seen under the most powerful microscope. Human beings, animals, insects, or plants may be attacked. There are about thirty-five such diseases preying upon mankind, among which may be listed colds, measles, yellow fever, etc.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO.—The Japanese, who are among the world's smallest peoples, are growing taller year by year. Some scientists believe they will become as high in stature as occidentals in two or three generations.

This will mean that they will have to gain about six inches in height, for the average Japanese man of today is 5 feet 4 inches and a woman 5 feet 1 inch tall.

What makes it seem likely that they will make the grade is the fact that their abbreviated stature is due largely to the shortness of their legs. Japanese are relatively large from the hips up.

This can be seen on trains and other public places where peoples of various nationalities sit together. It will be observed that the heads of the Japanese are, in proportion to their height, far nearer the level of those of Americans and Europeans. A glance downward, however, will show that while most occidentals have their feet firmly on the floor, the legs of a good many Japanese barely touch it.

The growth of Japanese feet was stunted by centuries of squatting on floors. Japan had no chairs until Commodore Perry introduced them eighty years ago.

The Japanese adopt a peculiar method of squatting. They sit with their feet bent beneath their bodies. This not only impedes the flow of blood, which naturally stunts the growth, but also disfigures the shape of the legs. Most Japanese are bow-legged.

This state of affairs, however, is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. This is because the youths have, on the one hand, taken up western sports such as baseball, tennis, and skiing and track and field exercises, and on the other, have stopped squatting in the traditional manner. They now sit on chairs in their homes as well as in schools and offices.

Their diet has also undergone a tremendous change. From rice and fish the young people of the cities are turning more and more to bread and meat. This, according to nutrition experts, has had a lot to do with improving the stature of the people.

The majority of Japanese boys and girls over 18 years old are taller than their parents. In many cases the difference in height is more than 4 inches. Usually this is the case in families which encourage western sports. It is an interesting fact that the average height of members of Japan's basket ball team to the Olympic games in Berlin was greater than that of any other team. Each member was over 6 feet tall.

The gain in height is not limited to men. Even more remarkable strides have been made by the feminine sex. This is particularly true of girls in the cities.

Most scientists believe the present increase in height is merely the normal growth of a people whose physical development was stunted by centuries of squatting and lack of gymnastic exercises. Like Japan's dwarfed trees their growth was artificially stunted and they are only now removing the obstructions in the path of normal growth.

SHARE IN ESTATE.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man died leaving property in Florida, title being in his name only. There is no will. A widow and two children [both minors] survive. The income from this property is sufficient to support the children after the mother marries again.

1. What legal procedure and on what grounds can she now become sole owner?
2. Can she then give clear title if she should sell?
3. In case of her death would the husband become an heir to said property?

W. H. B.

1. The children would inherit a share in their father's estate. The mother could force a partition sale and buy in the property at such sale but the children would have a share in proceeds.
2. Not without court proceedings.
3. Yes, as to her share.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CITIZENSHIP PAPERS.

Chicago, March 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I had my first paper but it is now void. Can I get my second papers without a first paper? I married an American girl on Sept. 5, 1931.

2. Is my wife still a citizen? Can she vote? F. P.

1. If the inquirer was married to an American citizen after Sept. 21, 1922, he may apply for final papers without a declaration of intention [first paper].

2. Under the facts stated, yes. Under an act of congress approved Sept. 22, 1922, the citizenship of married women on and after that date is independent of that of their husbands. It is understood that citizens are eligible to vote, if otherwise qualified.

There is enclosed a circular showing the procedure and requirements for naturalization under the general law. There is also enclosed a Form A-2214 [application for final papers] which the inquirer may submit, if he desires, after complying with the instructions on page 4 thereof.

ADMINISTRATOR'S ACTIONS.

Chicago, March 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—An administrator was appointed. He paid all bills and collected rent from two flats. The first flat was occupied by administrator or heir and paid rent to Feb. 1; the second flat, rented by heir, rent paid to March 1. He asked the heirs to sign release of duty, estate having closed in October, no sale being made.

1. How can another administrator be appointed?
2. Can the new administrator collect rent from the first administrator's unfinished business and during absence of administrator?
3. What happens to the one month rent of the second flat which he did not list?

E. P.

1. If the estate has been closed we do not understand why you wish to appoint another administrator. If you mean merely another manager for the property, the heirs can do this informally.
2. The administrator does not necessarily have anything to do with the management of the real estate. In general, the heirs can give any powers that they wish to the new property manager.

FROM RELIEF ADMINISTRATOR LYONS.

Chicago, March 27.—I was very interested in your editorial "Handcuffed to Relief," which appeared on Sunday, March 26, and heartily agree with the principle of encouraging persons on relief to accept private employment even when this employment proves temporary.

This policy was adopted by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission when it was administering relief and has been retained by the Chicago Relief administration. In view of this, you may be interested in the inclosed bulletin which was released to the staf of the Chicago Relief administration on Jan. 29, 1937, and also in copies of notices which have been released to those persons calling for relief grants over a period of several months.

My personal feeling is that the relief problem can be solved only through a return to normal employment of persons now being aided, and a means of bringing about such a return has been one of my major concerns. As a consequence continuous attention has been and is being given to this important question.

LEO M. LYONS,
Commissioner of Relief.

[Excerpts from Mr. Lyons' bulletins: Jan. 29, 1937: "In order that clients may accept temporary employment, special and immediate consideration will be given to persons who are obliged to reapply for relief upon the loss of such employment. If the client reapplied for relief within three months of the date on which he went to work, in such a case, his case may be accepted, upon proof that he is unemployed, and relief immediately approved for one month by the intake supervisor. During this one month period full investigation shall be made of the case by the case worker."

Jan. 3, 1939: "You should continue your efforts to secure employment. If any employment you may secure proves temporary immediate consideration will be given to your request for reinstatement if you find it necessary to apply for assistance on losing such employment."]

MILK PRICE FIXING.

Chicago, March 30.—I am one of those ordinary American citizens whose pay depends on the market value of his production, that is, what the other producers are willing and able to pay for it. I object to being set upon by a bunch of price fixers who combine and conspire to set their prices arbitrarily sky high because this impoverishes me and deprives me of many necessities of life.

I have been buying my milk from the stores that sell it at the lower level, which is none too low when you consider that the actual producer, the farmer, gets only about 3 cents a quart for it.

If the Illinois general assembly passes the bill it is now considering to fix the price of all milk at the higher level, here is another one that's through buying milk, and then the government can worry some more about the farm problem and the unemployment situation. They ought to know what is causing it all. But I guess they are just playing dumb. W. B. RAND.

THE LONGEST RAILROAD?

Chicago, March 30.—THE TRIBUNE, on March 29, reports that Mr. E. J. Engel becomes president of the Santa Fe, the longest road in the country from point to point. The Southern Pacific railroad's main line from New Orleans, La., to Portland, Ore., via Houston, San Antonio, El Paso, Phoenix, Los Angeles and San Francisco is 3,271 miles long, or 724 miles longer than the Santa Fe from Chicago to San Francisco.

ERWIN BAUMRUCK.

A TIMELY WARNING.

Chicago, March 31.—My sister, a Republican judge of election, tells me that in her precinct at the last general election over a dozen Republican ballots were discarded [not counted] due to voter using a check mark instead of a cross.

Not one Democratic ballot had to be thrown out because of wrong marking.

So, please, Republicans, use a cross on April 4. M. K.

ELECTION BOARD EFFICIENCY.

Chicago, April 1.—Realizing that I would be out of Chicago on election day, April 4, I made a special trip to the election commissioners' office to take advantage of the absentee voting privilege. I was taken care of very discourteously by several men who told me that my registration card was not in file, therefore, I could not vote. Because of a change of address it was necessary for me to reregister on March 4, 1939, and, in fact, I even recognized the man who took care of my business that day. When I suggested that my card might be misfiled, I was told that this was impossible, and that nothing further could be done for me. What happened to my card and how many more were destroyed?

PEARL O. OLTMAN.

THE COMPLETE ISOLATIONIST.

Chicago, March 28.—Born and raised in Germany I wholeheartily concur with W. E. Hutch in his protest against hyphenated individuals, societies, bunds, foreign days and so forth. Either we are Americans or we are something else. No one can serve two masters. In the same vein I protest against those fellows whom I see standing in uniform in front of a certain office building with placards voicing their disapproval of some European happenings. This is an absolutely self-sufficient nation that should keep its nose out of other people's business. And what about our metropolitan papers with their foreign news smeared all over the front page? Can they not relegate to the inside pages matters that are of no concern to us? M. STEPHANY.

GAAR WILLIAMS.

Chicago, March 30.—It made me very happy to know that you are reprinting Gaar Williams' cartoons. Hope you reprint all of them, for as long as I can remember all of his cartoons were "best"—not just a selected group.

BICYCLES AREN'T BUILT FOR TWO, SCHOOLS TEACH

Safety Lessons Started to Prevent Accidents.

"If the boy next door nearly ran into you with his bicycle last week but is more careful this week don't wonder why. He hasn't lost his spirit. He has had a safety lesson in school.

This week in all public schools pupils will be taught the seven major sections of the city trafic code for regulation of the operation of bicycles. The rules are being taught at the request of William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools.

650 Cyclists Hurt Last Year.

"Thousands of boys and girls are looking forward to happy times with their bicycles," Johnson said in a bulletin to school principals issued yesterday. "But last year 650 boys and girls were seriously injured by bicycles in Chicago. Few of them realize the hazards that accompany bicycle riding."

The bicycle code prohibits riders from hanging on another moving vehicle. Another person cannot be carried on a handlebar, frame, or fank. Every moving bicycle must carry a lamp visible for 500 feet at the front and have a red reflector button in the rear.

All bicycles must have horns or bells. The cycles must be operated close to the right hand curb of the roadway and cyclists should not ride abreast of each other. Cyclists are subject to the same trafic rules as other vehicles. Riding on sidewalks is prohibited.

Stiff Fines Are Provided.

The penalty for violation of the law is $5 to $10 fine.

Twenty safety rules for bicycle riders are included in Dr. Johnson's bulletin. They include: Pedestrians have the right of way; signal when you intend to stop or turn; always ride in a straight line; keep both hands on the handlebars; don't weave in and out of trafic; keep your bicycle in perfect mechanical condition, and be sure its brakes operate perfectly.

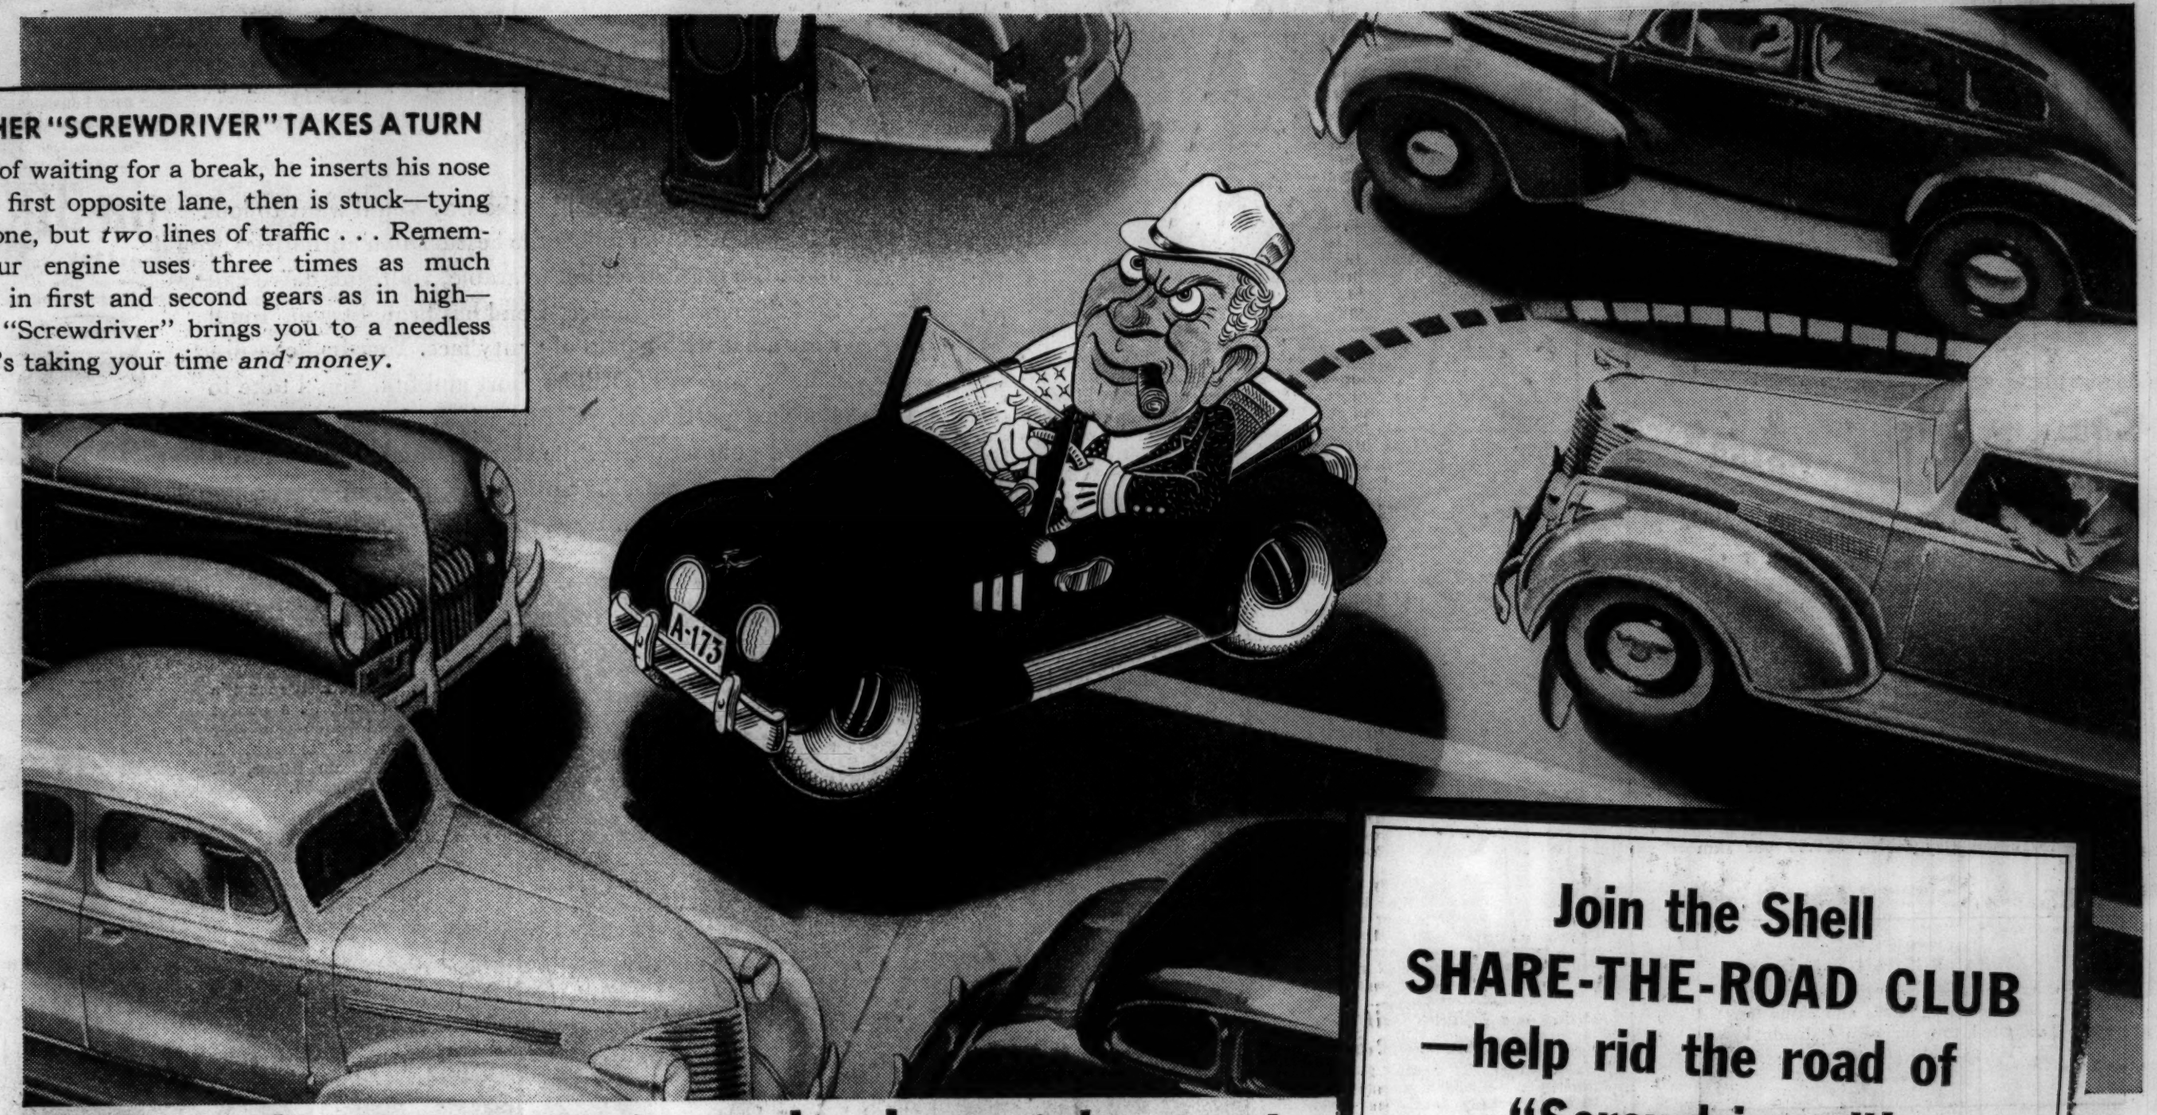
STOP TRAFFIC BONERS—

and you cut STOP-and-GO 25%!



ANOTHER "SCREWDRIVER" TAKES A TURN

Instead of waiting for a break, he inserts his nose into the first opposite lane, then is stuck—tying up not one, but two lines of traffic . . . Remember, your engine uses three times as much gasoline in first and second gears as in high—when a "Screwdriver" brings you to a needless stop, he's taking your time and money.

Traffic authorities agree it can be done right now!

"Thoughtless or incompetent drivers are themselves responsible for at least 25% of the traffic delays. Without rebuilding another mile of street or road—without spending a dollar—one-fourth of all our nerve-racking, time-wasting, fuel-wasting 'stop-and-go' could be eliminated."

Lew Wallace

Past President, American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators

SHELL'S study of traffic conditions leads to another great advance in the fight on Stop-and-Go driving. First came Super-Shell Gasoline, to cut the cost of Stop-and-Go. Now comes a plan to cut the amount of Stop-and-Go—by 25%!

"It can be done"—this is the opinion of traffic experts all over the United States. "Public opinion can do it—look how it reduced traffic casualties."

NEW EXPLOSIVE MADE FROM AIR, GAS AND STEAM

Both Cheap and Powerful, Scientists Report.

Baltimore, Md., April 2.—(AP)—Discovery of new, cheap and powerful high explosives was announced today by the American Chemical society. The discovery means, it was stated, that limitless quantities of high explosives can be made from air, natural gas, and steam alone.

Dr. H. B. Hass reports new high explosive.

A new chemical synthesis, discovered at Purdue university, extracts from natural gas two new explosives, each as destructive as nitroglycerin. The new explosives have both peace and war uses, but their greatest value is in peacetime pursuits.

Reported by Prof. Hass.

These announcements were made on the eve of the society's ninety-seventh meeting. The synthesis was reported by Prof. Henry B. Hass, head of the chemistry department, Purdue university. The Hercules Powder company, Wilmington, Del., collaborated and already has made the explosives.

One of the new explosives is made from methane, which is common "fire damp," or marsh gas, and abundant in natural gas. The other is from ethane, a colorless, odorless gas also found in natural gas. Each condenses to a solid when treated with formaldehyde. Nitrogen is then added, making the explosive compound which can be substituted for nitroglycerin, the explosive base of dynamite.

Cheapness Big Feature.

The war value of the natural gas explosive is chiefly in saving money. Glycerin for nitroglycerin comes from fat, which means from food. In the world war the glycerin raft up in price to a dollar a pound compared with peacetime cost of 15 cents. It also drained some precious food supplies.

Uncle Sam is sitting pretty on the supply of the new explosive because this country produces 98 per cent of the world's natural gas. The total in this country last year was two and a half trillion cubic feet of natural gas of which half went to waste.

Announce $30,000 Gift to MacMurray College

Jacksonville, Ill., April 2.—(AP)—Clarence P. McClelland, president of MacMurray college, announced today a gift of $30,000 from James E. MacMurray, former state senator from the 5th Illinois district and one time steel corporation president. McClelland said MacMurray's total donations to the women's college totaled $2,250,000. His latest gift, the college head said, will be used to pay half the cost of an addition to the Jane residence hall to house twenty-four students. MacMurray now lives in Pasadena, Cal.

FALLS DEAD ON STREET.

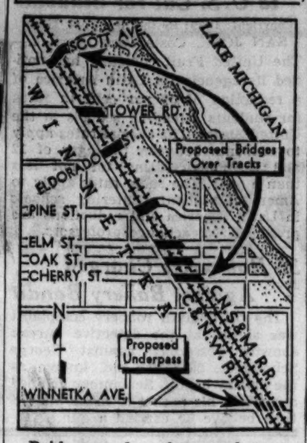
Work Under Way



Bridges and underpass between Winnetka and Kenilworth which are expected to reduce auto fatalities. Trains began operation over temporary tracks yesterday to permit construction work.

Chicago and North Western railway trains began operating yesterday over three and a half miles of temporary tracks between Kenilworth and Winnetka to permit the building of a $3,450,000 grade separation project between the two communities. Westbound trains will use the temporary tracks until the west half of the viaducts are constructed. After that the eastbound trains will be shifted to these tracks.

Iowa Twins to Celebrate 83d Anniversary Today

Riverside, Ia., April 2.—[Special.]—Frank and August Rummelhart, among the oldest native Iowa twins, will observe their eighty-third birthday tomorrow. Frank is the father of eleven children. He has thirty grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

FASCISTS TRAIL IN BELGIAN VOTE; CATHOLICS GAIN

BRUSSELS, April 3.—[Monday]—(AP)—Liberals and Catholics piled up heavy gains at the expense of Fascist Rexists in incomplete returns from yesterday's general election. On the basis of early tabulations the Rexists received only about one-half as many votes as they polled in 1936 when they won 20 of the 202 seats in the chamber of deputies.

In the Cantons of Eupen, Malmedy and St. Vith, which Belgium got from Germany at the end of the world war, the pro-Nazis appeared to have won seats in the chamber.

Communists gained slightly at the expense of Socialists, and Flemish Nationals, who have been accused of separatist ambitions, improved their position by a small margin.

FALLS FROM WINDOW, DIES.

Joseph Richardson, 30 years old, colored, 4731 St. Lawrence avenue, died yesterday in County hospital. He fell from a second story window at 4616 Evans avenue Saturday.

ROOSEVELT AND AIDS CONFER ON PROBLEMS CONFRONTING NATION

Warm Springs, Ga., April 2.—[Special.] — President Roosevelt today turned from international problems to domestic troubles in conference with Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins and Thomas G. Corcoran, two of his trusted advisers. Corcoran joined the presidential party last night. He had been in Florida.

The three canvassed the legislative situation. The problems confronting the nation, they found, have not changed much since November. In the four months only two major measures have been acted upon by congress, the RFC lending power and reorganization. Both have been passed.

It is understood that the trio considered what measures should be scrapped, although the President did not announce his conclusions.

EIGHT of the next ten bald-headed persons you meet became bald because they failed to rid their scalps of dandruff infection. At various times they obtained temporary relief by removing the surface particles of dandruff with lotions and washes. But while they were experimenting, the underlying causes of dandruff were damaging their hair-growing structure and leading them to baldness.

There are three major types of dandruff. Each demands a different treatment. Twenty years of experience qualifies The Thomas' to determine which type of dandruff is causing your hair loss, and endows Thomas experts with unusual skill and ability in administering corrective treatment.

Let The Thomas' help you to get rid of dandruff, overcome scalp itch, and promote normal hair growth on the thin and bald spots. They have helped a quarter-million other persons. Doesn't it seem reasonable that they can help you, too, to retain or regain your hair? Call today for a free scalp examination.

STUDENTS PLAY WITH TOYS TO LEARN PHYSICS

House of Thrills Set Up at U. of Chicago.

In a spacious room atop the Physics building of the University of Chicago is a toy house, a tiny locomotive, and a little doll. The toys—and 250 other simple pieces of apparatus—are part of the "House of Thrills," designed to illustrate everything in physics from basic laws to the latest wonders of the cosmic ray.

The exhibit was given its final touches yesterday by Prof. Harvey B. Lemon, member of the university's physics department. He devised the layout as a means of aiding students to grasp the meaning of physical laws. The laboratory is open only to students in the university and teachers.

Use of Lightning Rods.

The tiny house in the laboratory, set amid a group of experiments dealing with electrostatics, magnostatics and electromagnetism, is used to show how lightning rods deflect bolts of lightning.

Bolts from twelve to fourteen inches long are supplied by a high voltage frequency generator adjoining the house. In the roof of the house are two small lightning rods which can be raised by pressing a button. When the miniature bolts are sent flashing toward the house from the generator they are deflected by the upraised rods and pass into the air as light blue flames.

Principles of energy, power, and force components are demonstrated by the toy locomotive. The engine is set on a circular track. The track is mounted on a wheel equipped with roller bearings. When the current is applied the locomotive starts moving forward. The recoil of the tracks is demonstrated as the wheel on which the track is mounted moves backward.

Stop, Look, and Listen!

An adjoining experiment in elastic and inelastic impact is accompanied by a card reading: "Remember that the momentum of a passenger train going 60 miles per hour may be as much as 1,000 times that of your automobile going at the same speed. If the car and train collide, the shock to your car is about 1,000 times as great as the train and the damage to yourself in proportion. Stop, look, and listen!"

The doll—as yet unnamed—is no ordinary creature. She is composed of fluorescent materials and her services are utilized in demonstrating important physical facts in the composition of vacuum tube lamps, sun lamps, and X-ray equipment.

Another apparatus is one showing molecular activity. This physical phenomenon generally is regarded by students as one of the duller subjects when expounded in the classroom. In Dr. Lemon's "House of Thrills" it is both simple and graphic.

Jiggle Like Real Molecule.

To an electrically charged "big molecule" are attached fifty vibrating rods with a steel ball at the end of each. As the current is applied the steel balls jiggle in a pattern precisely like that of a real molecule.

Not far from this exhibit hang two coppered-covered balls, apparently identical. The visitor pushes the first ball. It swings easily. The second ball is pushed. But, because it is filled with lead, it does not yield so easily. Thus is demonstrated the basic principle of inertia.

Other exhibits include devices illustrating principles of work and heat; a reproduction of Galileo's experiment on an inclined plane, showing the properties of uniformly accelerated motion; the Harty disk, which shows the differences between concave and convex mirrors and lenses, and devices demonstrating how the eye works.

Marks Her 100th Birthday; in Illinois for 95 Years

Quincy, Ill., April 2.—[Special.]—Miss Carrie R. Crippen, who knew Lincoln and who heard him debate Stephen A. Douglas in Quincy in 1858, observed her one hundredth birthday here today. She was born in Virginia and came to Illinois by canal boat and stage coach when she was 5 years old. Miss Crippen walks with the aid of crutches as the result of a fall nine years ago. Otherwise her health is excellent. She is widely read and finds the radio a constant delight and is well posted on current events.

Girls Repair Sod at Night

Ellen Chloupek, age 19, Evanston high school senior, was arrested for driving on parkway along lake front when her auto made deep ruts. Friends set out to help her repair the damage last night. Left to right: Miss Charlotte Lape, Miss Chloupek, Betty Beckwith, Ann Young, and Marcia Lape.

18TH SNAKE BITE PROVES SERIOUS FOR ZOO CURATOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA, April 2.—Douglas D. H. March, curator of the old Panama zoo, was in a serious condition in the hospital here tonight from a bite by a ferdelance snake [allied to the rattlesnake, but has no rattles] while extracting venom. It was the eighteenth time he had been bitten by poisonous reptiles of ten different species.

March lost consciousness three minutes after he was bitten. At the hospital physicians said he had regained consciousness but internal hemorrhages made his condition grave. He had been warned three years ago when bitten by a coral snake that the next bite might prove fatal.

A native of Pottstown, Pa., March has been handling snakes for 35 years.

Bermuda-N. Y. Clipper Sets Record with 60 Passengers

Port Washington, N. Y., April 2.—(AP)—The Atlantic Clipper, forty-one ton flying boat of the Pan-American Airways, broke another record today when it brought 60 passengers from Bermuda. This was the greatest number of passengers ever carried in a heavier than air craft. The previous record was 44, set by the Clipper Saturday on its flight to Bermuda.

LOOT HOME OF JEWELRY.

Charles Daily, 7646 Kingston avenue, notified police last night that burglars broke into his home and stole jewelry valued at $280.

Judge Please Note

There were big ruts through the nice new grass of the parkway at the foot of Greenleaf street in Evanston yesterday. They perturbed Policemen A. E. Feeley and Bert Schlenger. The policemen trailed the rut marks to a parked car and arrested Miss Ellen Chloupek, 19 years old, 1114 16th street, Wilmette, a senior in Evanston High school.

With Miss Chloupek, talking over a sorority tea, were Misses Charlotte and Marcia Lape, 18 year old twins, 2537 Eastwood avenue; Miss Betty Beckwith, 18, of 801 Chase street, and Miss Ann Young, 17, of 2736 Lincolnwood drive, all of Evanston. They went along. Miss Chloupek, after some telephoning, put up $10 bond and all left the station.

Several hours later the two policemen were startled to find the same five girls back at the same spot. But this time they were in overalls and shirts and had rakes and grass seed along. They were repairing the damage. The policemen supervised the job. The girls were somewhat cheered when Policeman Feeley told them, "That's the right spirit. I'm going to put in a word to Magistrate Harry H. Porter in the morning. It ought to help."

FOUND DEAD ON PORCH.

An unidentified man about 45 years old was found dead of a heart ailment yesterday on the front porch at 1604 Bryn Mawr avenue. A painter's union card on the body bore the name Otto J. Anderson.

$250,000 SOUGHT TO SELL CITY AS SPORTS CAPITAL

Business leaders yesterday started a campaign to raise $250,000 to advertise Chicagoland as the summer sports capital of the world.

Announcement of the program was made by the Association of Commerce through its president, Oscar G. Mayer.

The advertising budget, Mr. Mayer asserted, would be expended in a carefully devised promotion program involving magazine, newspaper, and radio exploitation. This part of the long range program is expected to be fully developed by July 1.

Association officers and special committees will conduct a series of more than fifty business clinics in the next three weeks. Approximately 100 executives will be invited to each.

"Chicago commercial interests," Mr. Mayer said, "have initiated no unified effort for business stimulation since the closing of A Century of Progress exposition. Recently similar expansion and promotion programs, such as we are devising, have been tried in Cleveland, Minneapolis, and other cities and have aided business."

200,000 ATTEND FLOWER SHOW; SICK GET BLOOMS

More than 200,000 persons visited the thirteenth annual flower show at Navy pier which ended last night.

At the conclusion of the show, thousands of cut flowers and small pot plants were loaded into automobiles by women garden club members and taken to hospitals and charity institutions. This was the first distribution by the exhibitors and members, and follows the plan established by the Plant, Fruit and Flower guild in its annual distribution of lilacs.

Next year's flower show will be held from March 30 to April 7, probably at Navy pier.

Fare from Latin America to U.S. Cut for Students

36 Robberies Charged Against Bakery Bandit

The thirty-sixth robbery complaint was signed at the detective bureau showup yesterday against George Schommer, 34 years old, known as the bakery bandit. Schommer gripped a comb in his pocket to make his victime believe he carried a gun.

MERCHANTS PLAN FIGHT ON INDIANA INCOME TAX LAW

Lafayette, Ind., April 2.—[Special.]—Members of the Indiana Independent Grocers and Market Proprietors' association will devote a considerable part of their annual business meeting here tomorrow to planning a fight against the state's 1 per cent gross income tax law. Fort Wayne and Gary associations of food retailers will coöperate in the fight. Indiana merchants are demanding repeal of the McNutt-McHale-Townsend Democratic machine measure, described as confiscatory. Hundreds of merchants have refused to pay the tax since 1936 and the state is preparing to collect through foreclosures. Merchants say they will resist to the limit. Indiana is the only state which has such a law. Retailers get an exemption on the first $3,000.

Without exception, Chicago Labor says:

"For Work and Wages Retain MAYOR KELLY!"

MAYOR EDWARD J. KELLY
Labor's Trusted Friend • A Mayor with a Heart

"WORK AND WAGES"... that was Mayor Kelly's solemn promise when he first took office. It was a promise that he meant—and KEPT—with all Chicago benefiting.

It was Mayor Kelly, up from the ranks of labor himself, who backed the legislation at Springfield and Washington for getting the unemployed off the streets and into useful jobs ... who stimulated private industry to new courage ... who mapped out a program for putting at least 50,000 unemployed craftsmen at work on projects for improving and beautifying Chicago.

There is less labor trouble in Chicago than in any other large city. Why? Mayor Kelly is the only executive in the United States who has the confidence of capital and labor.

The subway is just one of the projects launched by Mayor Kelly

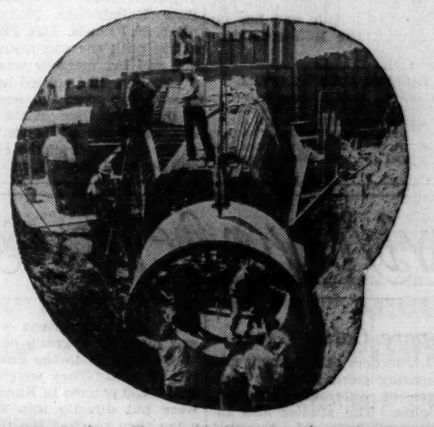
"Get men to work all over Chicago by intelligent programs," that's what Mayor Kelly says and that's Mayor Kelly's constant objective.

And he's been wholeheartedly FAIR to organized labor ... supporting organized labor's principles and defending wage scales and working conditions in accord with American standards.

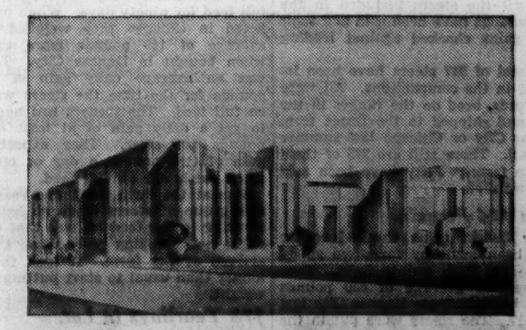
Labor—all labor—has gone forward under Mayor Kelly. Let's keep Labor going forward by keeping on the job the Mayor who understands Labor ... and that's Edward J. Kelly!

Thousands of Workers like these subway diggers are and will be employed because Mayor Kelly fulfilled Chicago's dream and started the subway. Their wages and the materials used will mean $100,000,000 in additional business for Chicago.

Thousands of Men are Paving Streets—more than at any previous period, thanks to Mayor Kelly's planning.



Men at Work all over Chicago, like these men who are building new sewers—made possible by Mayor Kelly's all-Chicago program.



Better Schools and more of them are a part of Mayor Kelly's program, such as the new technical high school pictured above.

All Over Chicago scenes like this are being enacted as Mayor Kelly has provided jobs at useful public work, improving the city without special assessments. Every section is benefited impartially and Mayor Kelly plans even more.

LABOR DIVISION OF THE ALL-CHICAGO COMMITTEE FOR THE RE-ELECTION OF MAYOR EDWARD J. KELLY, NINTH FLOOR, CONWAY BUILDING

Vote on Tuesday, April 4th, to Retain Mayor Edward J. Kelly

★ A SQUARE DEAL FOR LABOR AND INDUSTRY ★

SUBURBS PASS UP JOINT ELECTIONS, WASTE $200,000

Amendments Proposed to Force Consolidation.

A survey showed yesterday that a majority of Cook county suburbs have failed to take advantage of legislation, passed in 1935, which permitted them to cut the costs of government by consolidating municipal, school, and park district elections. As a result, taxpayers have continued to foot the bill for separate elections held on two or three different days.

Within a few weeks the legislature will be asked to adopt new amendments forcing local governments throughout Illinois to hold all their elections at one time. The 1935 amendments were not compulsory. Sponsored by State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, they merely gave legal authority for combining elections in the same community.

Reduce Costs by Two-Thirds.

In cases of acceptance, all elections were to be held on the first Tuesday in April. They were to be held in the same polling places during the same hours and to be conducted by the same officials. The cost was to be apportioned among the political subdivisions participating.

Thus, a set of governments supported by the same group of taxpayers—a municipality, a school board, and a park board—were empowered to eliminate two out of three election costs or roughly to reduce election costs by two-thirds.

The probable saving for Cook county alone was estimated at $200,000. This was to be a saving in polling place rental, salaries for election officials, and supplies.

Adoption Urged by Jarecki.

To spur action on the amendments, County Judge Jarecki called a meeting of country town officials and explained the changes in the law. He pointed out the economies which were made possible and urged adoption of ordinances for merging the elections.

None of the suburbs in the 202 precincts outside Chicago under the board of election commissioners changed their usual procedure, records show. As far as could be learned, no action was taken by the rest of the county suburbs under County Clerk Michael J. Flynn.

There is no central authority, however, in Flynn's territory with regard to local elections. It was explained that a few towns may have combined two of the three elections without being noticed. In no case were all three consolidated.

Most of the municipal elections will be held on April 4 this year, although a few are set for April 18. All of the school elections are set for April 8 or April 15. Park board elections will be held on April 4, 11, and 18.

Hold to Old Custom.

In a few communities municipal and park elections fall on the same day. Wherever inquiries were made, however, it was found that this has always been the custom and has no connection with the 1935 consolidation bills.

RAYMOND E. DURHAM, PRESIDENT OF MUSIC FIRM, DIES IN THE WEST

Raymond E. Durham, president of Lyon & Healy, Inc., died suddenly yesterday in Chandler, Ariz., where he and Mrs. Eleanor Gregory Durham had been vacationing for several weeks. He was 61 years old. His association with the music company began in 1922, first as vice president and director, then as president since 1925. Previously he had been connected with the Corn Products company of New York and the Jewel Tea company. For many years he had been identified with the banking business in Chicago. During the war he served as state fuel administrator. Surviving, besides his widow, are a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Poor of Johannesburg, South Africa; and two sons, Robert Gregory Durham, a law student at Yale, and Raymond E. Durham Jr., associated with his father at Lyon & Healy. The family home is at 2 Kent road, Winnetka, to which the body will be brought later in the week.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the First Presbyterian church of Evanston with burial in Graceland cemetery.

Celebrates 103d Birthday; Survives 9 of 10 Children

Milwaukee, Wis., April 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. Marcjanna Ptak, who has survived nine of the ten children she bore, celebrated her 103d birthday today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Rose Kalmbacher, 2218 East Eden place, St. Francis. Mrs. Ptak remained active until she was nearly 100 years old, and her memory was clear until a year ago. She settled in Milwaukee seventy-five years ago, one of the first of the Polish immigrants to form the Polish settlement now occupying much of the south side of the city. Her second husband died eleven years ago.

George F. Harding, Republican National Committeeman, Dies

George F. Harding, Republican national committeeman for Illinois, died yesterday in his home at 4853 Lake Park avenue. He was a leader in his party for more than thirty years, an art collector, and one of the largest real estate owners in Chicago.

Mr. Harding would have been 71 years old Aug. 16. He rallied from a gall bladder operation on Jan. 21 and was able to leave Passavant hospital. He went out for automobile drives after that until a week ago, when his condition became serious.

At his bedside when he died at noon yesterday were his daughter, Mary, who is Mrs. John Walker Thompson of Milwaukee, and his secretary, Miss Jessie Katz.

Funeral at 3 P. M. Tomorrow.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the home. The Rev. Von Ogden Vogt of the First Unitarian society of Chicago will officiate. Burial will be near Monmouth, Ill. Brief services will be read there Wednesday morning.

In his long and active career Mr. Harding was scornful of danger. He was one of the first automobile owners in Chicago. He won many victories on the lake in power boats when they were new. In 1911 he purchased an airplane, a frail craft which crashed several times but never injured him seriously.

Tours Europe in Plane.

In 1931 he purchased an expensive cabin monoplane, employing a trans-Atlantic flyer, William S. Brock, to pilot it. In his air travels over this country and Europe Mr. Harding had two minor accidents. Once his craft narrowly escaped colliding with another plane. Last November his chauffeur driven car was wrecked in a collision but he was only slightly injured.

Some say similar luck attended his political adventures, for after three turbulent decades of Chicago history he emerged as Republican national committeeman for Illinois. To win this honor he defeated Frank L. Smith at the national G. O. P. convention in 1936.

The question of filling the vacancy until the 1940 national convention rests with the Republican national committee. Among the names which probably will be considered are those of Charles G. Dawes, former Vice President; C. B. Goodspeed, treasurer of the national committee, and Hill Blackett, who has been active in both national and local fields. All are Chicagoans.

Held Four Public Offices.

Mr. Harding was not active in the present mayoral campaign. Last November the Democrats sought to make capital of his comparative silence in the campaign for United States senator, although he did take the stump several times on the south side.

When the G. O. P. was booming in Chicago Mr. Harding was an alderman, a state senator, city controler, and county treasurer. During this period he carried on the real estate business inherited from his father.

All in all, his profits were sufficient to enable him to add substantially to the art collection started by his father, the late George F. Harding Sr.

The vast assortment of objets d'art was valued at $5,000,000 several years ago. It is housed in a museum adjoining his home at 4853 Lake Park avenue.

Intended Collection for City.

Mr. Harding in 1932 announced he intended to will the collection to the city. It would be left to the Art institute, he said, if that organization agreed to keep it intact.

Patterned after an ancient French château, his museum contains one of the best private collections of armor in the world. He boasted of paying as much as $75,000 for a single armorial item. There are about sixty pieces, mounted on figures in battle array.

Also warlike in character is the Harding assemblage of antique firearms and cutting weapons. Many are inlaid with precious metals, or decorated with ivory.

Harding was born in Chicago. He was graduated from Phillips Exeter academy in 1887. He went on to Harvard university and Harvard law school. Active in sports, he became a football star. During vacations he assisted his father in the real estate business and property management.

Later he established his own real estate business. He became president of the Chicago Real Estate Loan and Trust company in 1905, soon after he was launched on his political career. He was also chairman of the board of Consumers company at the time of his death.

In City Council 10 Years.

As alderman of the 2d ward he was known as the "millionaire alderman." It was said his annual salary was spent in giving feasts to his supporters. He was a supporter of one former Republican mayor from the start, quitting him in 1931, however, to back former Judge John H. Lyle in the mayoral primary race of that year.

After ten years as alderman, he was elected state senator from the 1st district in 1912. In 1918 he was appointed city controler, serving until 1922. As controler he signed the vouchers by which so-called expert fees were paid out, and he became one of the defendants in an unsuccessful taxpayers' suit to recover this money.

He was county treasurer for four years, until 1930. This was another stormy time for Harding, because of the constant struggle in which the late Mayor A. J. Cermak, then president of the county board, took the offensive.

The G. O. P. eclipse was well under way when he completed this term of office. Harding, however, continued to be an important factor in all political discussion and planning.

His club affiliations included the Chicago Athletic association, Illinois Athletic, Chicago Yacht, South Shore Country, and Chicago Riding.

Mr. Harding married twice, to Ellen Osborne Davis, and Katherine Fay, both deceased.

Besides Mrs. Thompson he is survived by two grandchildren, Penelope and George Harding Thompson.

PRIEST WALKS IN WITH HANDS UP; SUBDUES GUNMAN

Leads Fugitive from N. Y. Home of Hostages.

New York, April 2.—(AP)—A priest called from his Palm Sunday devotions stepped into an apartment filled with tear gas today to persuade a gunman to surrender. The outlaw, a paroled convict, had seized a fear-stricken couple as hostages after his escape from a street gun battle with police.

The dramatic denouement, of which the hero is the Rev. Francis X. Quinn, followed the holdup of an Eighth avenue cafe by a trio of bandits who scattered in flight as they exchanged gunfire with police.

One of these, John Naumo, 23 years old, took refuge in the building at 301 West 22d street, officers said, and running to the fifth floor thrust a pistol in the faces of Merton A. Nicholas, 63 years old, and his wife, Sarah, as they answered their doorbell.

Building Is Surrounded.

More than fifty policemen surrounded the building, jamming rooftops and the hallways. Some clambered up the fire escape, where they smashed a window.

"Don't come in or I'll get a couple of you," Naumo warned. Mrs. Nicholas screamed to police to desist.

Tear gas bombs were discharged into the kitchen of the apartment, but Naumo shut the door and escaped to another part of the apartment.

Naumo then shouted through a window he would talk with a priest. Father Quinn was summoned from the Church of the Guardian Angels, a few blocks away. "All right, father; come in with your hands up," said Naumo when the priest arrived.

Hour Talk Brings Surrender.

The priest talked calmly to Naumo for more than an hour and the gunman finally said: "All right, father, I'll go along. I'll surrender."

Naumo was booked for armed robbery. He said he had considered killing the elderly couple and himself rather than be captured, because he faces about 60 years in prison for time he now owes, due to parole violations.

When asked what he had talked about in persuading the outlaw to surrender, the priest said: "Why, I talked to him about it being Palm Sunday, and about his mother. When I told him it would be better to risk sixty years in prison than an eternity in hell he gave up."

Edward Gunther, 27 years old, described as a confederate of Naumo, was captured as he fled in another direction from the cafe where patrons and employés were robbed of $350 in cash and jewelry. The third man escaped through a subway entrance.

AVIATOR GIVES BLOOD TO VICTIM OF RARE DISEASE

A blood transfusion was given Mrs. Eugenia Mitchell in the Elmhurst hospital last night in an effort to overcome the ravages of streptococcic viridans, a rare disease that is usually fatal.

The donor was R. L. Simons, 3302 Kenilworth avenue, Berwyn, who recovered from a similar attack some years ago. He is a commercial airplane pilot. If Mrs. Mitchell is to recover it is imperative, physicians said, that she receive transfusions from persons who have recovered from the disease.

Mrs. Mitchell's condition still is critical, her physician, Dr. E. W. Gutzmer of Villa Park, said last night. She is 25 years old and lives at 344 Chase avenue, Lombard.

STATE WITNESS IN BOND FRAUDS CASE KILLS SELF

New York, April 2.—(AP)—Patrolman James J. Sweeney, 34 years old, an important state witness in Special Assistant Attorney General John Harlan Amen's investigation of bail bond frauds in Brooklyn, was found shot to death today in the bathroom of his Brooklyn home.

Dr. Gregory L. Robillard, assistant medical examiner for Kings county pronounced his death a suicide.

Sweeney testified last fall against Police Lieutenant Cuthbert Behan in a hearing on a charge that he did away with important police records relating to bail bonds. Behan subsequently was charged with grand larceny.

The Behan case was an important factor that led to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman's appointment of Amen to investigate law enforcement in Brooklyn. The charges involved were the first matters taken up by Amen.

URGE NEW VOTE ON BLUE ISLAND'S SCHOOL TAX HIKE

The Blue Island high school board will meet tonight to adopt a resolution asking for another vote on a proposed increase in the school tax rate so that the suburb's community high school can be reopened. A proposal to boost the tax hike was defeated for the fifth time Saturday by the narrow margin of sixteen votes.

John Joens, school board president, estimated that the 1938 tax levy will produce only $81,000 for educational purposes. Expenditures in the last school year were $110,000. The board seeks to raise the tax rate for educational purposes from $1 to $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation, and advocates that the rate for building maintenance purposes be increased from 37½ to 50 cents.

Father on Relief

A father who is on relief shared in the loot of a burglary gang of which his son and daughter were alleged members, according to disclosures made by Shakespeare avenue police last night. He is William Mathiesen, 3069 Gresham street, father of seven children.

Eight persons, including Miss Laverne Mathiesen, 18 years old, and William Mathiesen Jr., 17, are under arrest. According to Sergt. James Lynch she acted as lookout in two crimes. Among the other prisoners is Edward Jachimek, 17, of 933 North Mozart street, Laverne's sweetheart.

The elder Mathiesen's rôle in the burglary operations, Sergt. Lynch said, was to accept loot obtained in two thefts. This loot was made up mostly of jewelry and bolts of cloth. Mathiesen did not sell any of it, but converted some of the cloth to his own use, Sergt. Lynch said. Virtually all was recovered.

WELFARE AGENCY IN 19TH YEAR OF AIDING MANKIND

Goodwill Industries today will begin its nineteenth year of turning castoff articles into a livelihood for handicapped men and women. Walter C. League, superintendent when the welfare agency was founded in 1920, still is at his post.

Goodwill Industries is now located in a four story factory building at 2425 South Wallace street. It has only one goal: To provide work, instead of charity, for every handicapped man and woman who is able to work. To do this it collects discarded clothing, furniture, and other articles, which handicapped men and women recondition and sell.

In 1920 the group was able to employ only nine men at such work. Now it pays a living wage to eighty-one men and women, all of whom would be unable to work except under the sheltered conditions the organization provides. Eighty-five per cent of the wages come from the sale of reconditioned articles.

"But we need Goodwill Industries ten times as large as we have now," Mr. League said yesterday. "Chicago has 1,200 handicapped persons, most of whom could do the kind of work we are providing."

FIGHT FOR LIFE OF WOMAN SHOT WITH HOODLUM

An operation was performed yesterday in St. Bernard's hospital to remove four bone splinters from the brain of Mrs. Alice Janssen, who was found shot and seriously wounded Saturday in an automobile near 64th street and Harvard avenue. Beside her in the car lay the body of Joseph Carville, a minor hoodlum. He had been shot four times. Dr. Samuel L. Governale, who performed the operation on Mrs. Janssen, said it will be several days before she will be able to be questioned. Police said the couple had been living under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith in an apartment at 1623 East 69th street.

PARENTS' PLEAS FAIL TO WIN CONFESSIONS FROM 2 IN CCC KILLING

Mount Carroll, Ill., April 2.—[Special.]—Pleas of their parents today failed to induce John Collins, 17 years old, and his brother, Clarence, 15, to tell about the holdup slaying on Friday of Lieut. Paul La Master, commander of a Negro CCC camp near here.

The two prisoners, whose home was at 2625 West Lake street in Chicago, have been identified by three camp enrollees as the pair who walked into the camp office as Lieut. La Master was counting a $2,000 pay roll, shot him five times and fled with $1,300.

John Collins was known to many members of the camp, from which he was discharged dishonorably three months ago.

Two troops of Boy Scouts and about a hundred members of the camp hunted again today for the missing money and guns.

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including all necessary laboratory tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. (at 159 or 169 N. Dearborn St.) can have certificates same day.

Don't be numbered among the thousands to die this year of neglected venereal infections, but visit your doctor or this reliable clinic!

EVERY year many thousands of comparatively young men and women have their lives cut short by the disastrous complications resulting from neglected or improperly treated venereal diseases.

And needlessly, too, for syphilis and gonorrhea can almost always be cured when competent medical treatment is started in time and continued faithfully!

Therefore, if you know or suspect that you have a venereal infection, don't deliberately invite early death by neglecting it or trying to cure it yourself. For unless you secure proper medical attention at once, consequences of a dreadful nature may easily occur.

Neglected or improperly treated syphilis, for example, may cause you to drop dead of a heart attack, bring about the loss of sight or hearing, lead to a stroke of paralysis or apoplexy, or result in a nervous breakdown that may end in insanity! And neglected or improperly treated gonorrhea may cause a sight-destroying eye infection, sterility, stricture, crippling arthritis, or serious prostate, bladder, kidney and other troubles!

Secure tests of cure!

Thus you can see how vitally important it is to have reliable medical treatment—followed by dependable tests of cure! Such treatment and tests can be had from any capable private doctor, or you can get them inexpensively at the Public Health Institute.

The physicians of the Institute are unusually thorough in making their tests of cure. Syphilis patients receive three different types of blood tests, including spinal fluid examinations when necessary, while gonorrhea patients get repeated microscopic smears. In addition, searching physical examinations are made to rule out other evidences of infection.

Having given more than 5,000,000 examinations and treatments for syphilis and gonorrhea since 1920, the Public Health Institute is qualified to render a medical service of the finest possible type. It is doubtful if money can buy more expert venereal disease attention than that which the Institute affords at low cost!

No one is turned away!

Because the Public Health Institute was organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, it is able to provide specialized venereal disease treatment at charges to fit the smallest income. The cost of a physical examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including blood tests, urinalysis and microscopic smears, is amazingly moderate, while individual treatments are available at fees so low that any employed person can readily pay them.

Nor does the Public Health Institute stop there in its efforts to make dependable venereal disease treatment available to the entire community. Even persons who are temporarily short of money can make arrangements to be cared for!

You've hit your inner stride
....when you regain healthy per-i-stal-sis

You swing into action freely... there's drive in your step... when you hit your inner stride!

To hit that stride, you must keep the contracting and expanding motion in the intestines steady. This motion is called per-i-stal-sis. If it's rhythmic and even, you can feel carefree. If it's halting, you're hampered by constipation.

To get back in stride, you'll probably need a gentle (yet thorough) flushing out. That's when Eno comes in handy!

What fluid-action does

Eno helps bring moisture from other parts of the body down into the intestines. It does more. It sets up a mild stimulation. This fluid-action — and stimulation — help eliminate accumulated waste matter. What a relief for you!

Now normal peristalsis is possible. You've taken the first step back to regular schedule!

Alkalizing plus cleansing

You take Eno in water. It sparkles. It tastes good. Moreover, it helps neutralize excess stomach acids... an important extra benefit.

Off stride? Feel drive... swing ...balance return, once you regain healthy peristalsis, hit your stride. Buy Eno today at any drug store.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

There is, we suppose, a market for a dentifrice that tints the gums a rosy hue. In Paris they are rather widely used and one new to the American market—American made and containing a coloring agent approved under the exacting food and drug act—is catching on very well.

The idea is to tint the inner mouth so that the contrast between pale gums and glowing red lipstick is lessened. It's described as a "cosmetic" tooth paste. Women who show their gums when they speak or smile and who feel that the line of color demarcation is unattractive can use this to tone down that sharp contrast. The gums but not the teeth are made rosy; teeth, as you might expect, actually look whiter by contrast.

The harmlessness of the coloring is guaranteed. It's most important to follow the directions with precision. Otherwise the trick doesn't quite come off. The paste—a brilliant pink, by the way—must be used on a brush that is quite dry or almost so. You must brush the gums as well as the teeth—an idea your dentist will endorse in any case. And splash as little as possible.

Easter Benefit Busies Women of Lake Forest

BY JUDITH CASS.

NINE Lake Forest young women will boil and dye today more than 1,600 eggs that have been donated to the Easter sale of the parish guild of the Church of the Holy Spirit. The eggs come from generous dairies and from such chicken fanciers as the H. Foster Straws and the Owen Wests.

The egg boilers and dyers will assemble early this morning in the parish house next door to the church and they hope to be through by dinner time. If they are not they will have to continue their work tomorrow, for nary an egg can remain in its natural state for the sale. Some will be transformed into golden eggs filled with the tiniest candies obtainable. This is a complicated process, for the raw insides must be blown out of the shell through a wee hole. Through the same infinitesimal hole the candy is inserted, the hole is sealed and the shell gilded.

Also Offer Flowers, Goodies and Balloons.

Eggs are not the only Easter things that will be sold next Saturday for the benefit of the guild, for there will be flowers and plants of all sorts, homemade goodies to eat, balloons and grab bags, and a puppet show. The plants, large and small ones, come from such well known greenhouses as those of the Wests, the Straws, the Laurance Armours, the Philip Armours, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, the Edward Berminghams, the Joseph M. Cudahys, the James Norrises, the Donald Douglases, the Philip Swifts, Mrs. John R. Thompson, and Mrs. Fred Koch. Mrs. Frank Hixon usually contributes plants to the sale, but her greenhouse is being renovated so she has none to give this time.

Mrs. Walter Cobb Coleman will be in charge of the balloons and grab bags, assisted by Mrs. Wyndham Hasler, Mrs. W. Edwin Stanley Jr., and Mrs. Chauncey K. Hutchins. Those who will work on the eggs today and who on Saturday will be selling those that are not ordered in advance are Mrs. Calvin Fentress Jr., Mrs. John P. Bent, Mrs. Robert Macdonald, Mrs. Gordon Kelley, Mrs. John McMillan, Mrs. Edward B. Smith, Mrs. Hugh Johnston, Mrs. Charles H. Morse Jr., and Mrs. John M. Simpson.

Welcome Edward F. Swifts Home at Dinner Party.

The dinner party at the Edward F. Swifts' in Lake Forest Saturday night was planned as a surprise birthday party for him, but he wasn't surprised, so it turned out to be a welcome home party for both of them. Also, it was a celebration of Mrs. Swift's prowess as a fisherwoman, for on their recent trip to Australia she landed a black marlin swordfish that was only seven pounds lighter than the largest ever caught by a woman.

The 816-pounder wasn't to be seen on Saturday, for the Swifts haven't yet found a way to get it here from Auckland, New Zealand, but they haven't given up hope of some day having the stuffed giant to exhibit to their friends.

The junior Louis A. Fergusons were instrumental in getting up the party. The Swifts arrived at home early last week from their three month trip.

Frances Bell Engaged to Wed Gilbert H. Osgood.

At a tea in their home in Hubbard Woods on Saturday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell announced the engagement of their second daughter, Frances, to Gilbert H. Osgood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Osgood of Kenilworth.

Miss Bell attended the North Shore Country Day school and Smith college. She made her debut a few years ago at a tea in the gardens of her parents' home. Mr. Osgood is a graduate of Exeter, Princeton university, and the Harvard law school. No date has been set for the wedding. Miss Bell has three sisters, Mrs. Geoffrey de Freitas of London, the former Helen Bell, whose wedding took place last summer; Miss Margaret, and Miss Nathalie Bell.

Some Glencoe residents [the Roy Belknaps] recently sent a night letter from the west coast recounting their doings and ended it, The weather has been terrible. The telegraph clerk was unwilling to accept the comment about the weather, and when the Belknaps insisted, called the office manager to his aid. The manager explained how unusual it was to have so much fog and rain, and earnestly entreated them to at least change the message to The weather has been somewhat unfavorable. The Belknaps held out for their original statement.

Bus Incident.

Two friends secured opposite aisle seats on a No. 51 Sheridan road bus, and they managed to continue their conversation despite the humanity that shifted back and forth between them. One of the two, a Miss Ruth Schmid, approached the climax of a tale she was telling when she suddenly, to her astonishment and that of her friend, found herself smoking a pipe. The explanation: A man trying to push through the crowded aile thrust his hand, holding his pipe, to the side, and the tale teller opened and shut her mouth at an inopportune moment.

Good Morning!

"Wife, Husband, Friend!" "Goon, Goof, Gadfly" would be a better title.

For the wife acts like a spoiled and idiotic brat, the husband really DOESN'T have good sense, and the friend—ha!—just a beauteous, buzzing, stinging lady who brings unrest wherever she goes!

This is a comedy with music.

The wife thinks she can sing—and can't. The husband doesn't know he has a voice, but is to learn he has, when "discovered" by the "friend"—an opera star of note, who devotes her time during the film's duration to making a star of hubby and endeavoring to break up the combination known as Mr. and Mrs. Boland.

The story is a fairly engaging frou frou, and acting and direction are excellent.

None of the singing is done by the three principals, and no effort is wasted in trying to convince you that when you hear the musical notes they are issuing from the assorted throats of Young, Baxter, and Barnes.

See you tomorrow.

Decatur Girl Wins Metropolitan Opera Prize and Contract

New York, April 2.—[Special.]—Miss Annamary Dickey, soprano, and Mack Harrell, baritone, today won the Metropolitan opera competition for young singers from a field of six finalists. The six were survivors of fifty-four singers heard on twenty-six Sunday afternoon radio programs and 659 singers who had auditions.

Annamary Dickey.

Miss Dickey and Harrell were rewarded for their victory with Metropolitan contracts, checks for $1,000 each, and silver plaques attesting their accomplishments. Winifred Heidt of Detroit, Mich., and Jean Merrill, a native of Everett, Wash., runners-up to Miss Dickey, received $500 each and optional contracts.

Miss Dickey is the daughter of Dr. J. H. Dickey, a Decatur, Ill., dentist. She made her first appearance in competition singing in the 1930 Chicagoland Music Festival. Then only 15 years old, she won third place in the soprano division of the woman's vocal contest.

Harrell is a native of Greenville, Tex., and now a resident of New York.

Dodge City, Kas., April 2.—It is difficult to believe that this peaceful, orderly little Republican town once was called the Babylon of the Plains, once echoed to the gun-roar of bad men, that Bat Masterson shot it out with a killer on the main street, that hundreds of thousands of cattle plodded through here on their way to market, that this once was the last frontier. . . . Boot Hill, a tiny plot of cemetery, offers evidence that all of these things were true. While a score of movie stars were parading through the town, as part and parcel of the stupendous ballyhoo for Warner's "Dodge City," your correspondent separated himself from the thousands who jammed the streets and inspected Boot Hill, so named because of the practice of removing the victim's boots and using them as his or her last pillow. Because freight charges on lumber were prohibitive, those shot down were buried, as the guide explains: "Without benefit of coffin, ceremony, or prayer." I saw the headstones of "Toothless Nell," a dance hall girl shot down in a barroom brawl, and near her rested Spider Baine, Horsethief Pete, and Two Gun Heiney.

Priscilla Lane, a favorite of fans.

Dodge City was a great town in the roaring days of 1870 because it was the place appointed for the cattle going north to be classified and passed on, and new contracts made for the following year. In addition, it was the center of the government freighting business, with this town as the hub of the distributing system to the frontier forts. It was the Barbary coast of the cattle trails and dance halls and gambling houses operated on a 24 hour schedule. To keep peace there was a vigilante committee, and cowboys and freighters and mule-skinners were compelled to check their guns at the marshal's office when they arrived in town.

Less than seventy years later a crowd estimated at 35,000 people is lining the same streets to watch Errol Flynn, Ann Sheridan, Frank McHugh, Gloria Dickson, Humphrey Bogart, Wayne Morris, Jane Wyman, Buck Jones, Priscilla Lane, Alan Jones, Alan Hale, John Garfield, Hoot Gibson, and twenty other movie players at close range. The tenants of Boot Hill would be astounded had they lived to see it. "Toothless Nell" possibly would have made a pass at Errol Flynn or John Payne or Gilbert Roland.

Ever since this Santa Fe special left Los Angeles it has been besieged by movie fans and they have been getting what Phineas T. Barnum would call the greatest show on earth, free. At each stop, we've introduced the movie stars. Errol Flynn, Priscilla Lane, Wayne Morris, Humphrey Bogart, and Buck Jones win the greatest ovations. Gilbert Roland imparts a touch of linguistic culture to the observation platform proceedings by delivering his speech in Spanish.

The movie stars have not displayed any particular oratorical talent to date on these observation platform soirées. The first one to be introduced steps out rather abashedly and says: "It is nice to be here. I wish you could all come along with us." . . . The second one says, "It is nice to be here." . . . The third one, not hearing what the first two have uttered, steps to the mike and sparkles: "I wish you could all come along with us. It is nice to be here." . . . After the fortieth player has said practically the same thing, the crowds can be pardoned the dazed expressions that spread over their eager faces. . . . Possibly Gilbert Roland also expresses the same thought in Spanish.

There are other visitors to a transcontinental train, but they do not go to the observation platform to gape at the klieg kids. At each station cats and dogs rush out of the underbrush and make a bee line to the middle of the train, the dining car, where they howl for scraps of food.

Up above, a paragraph, we noted that the movie stars had not as yet scored bull's-eye from the observation platform. The possible exception was Maxie Rosenbloom, the fighter who turned square and became an actor. At Cimarron, Rosenbloom stepped confidently to the microphone and said: "Ladies and gen'mun, it is nice to be here in Cimarron, from the picture of the same name." Quite pleased with this nifty, Rosenbloom waited confidently for the laugh that should follow by all laws of night clubs and vaudeville. No laugh came, only a deathly hush. The crowd stared at Rosenbloom impassively. He stared at the crowd hopefully. It was no contest. Rosenbloom retreated abashedly: "They don't get my type of comedy," he said defensively.

This has been a grand experience and this little city, in the heart of the dust bowl sector, is a revelation and an instruction in the way the other half of the country lives. No longer is this a cattle country. The acres where millions of buffalo roamed now are planted to wheat. The people who are here from surrounding towns uniformly are well groomed, well fed and all of them have their own cars. . . . Except "Toothless Nell," queen of Boot Hill.

At Eastertide a Lady's Fancy Turns to Hats

BY RHEA SEEGER.

It's not Easter without some spring whimsy masquerading as a hat. Fanciful creations are everywhere, on or off the brow. . . . All of them are targets for wise cracks, telling lifter-uppers to the ladies dashing about under them.

Straw hats, a little bit daft in structure, are engaging trifles for any one's attention. Colored straws, in odd and unusual shades such as bronze green, chocolate and citron, come with streamers of chiffon jersey hanging down the back. Others are trimmed with picot edged ribbon in huge pompons or balls, with sharp outlines achieved with bows snipped in half.

High, small crowns sliced off flat at the peak manage to shock the bystanders, but they're worth the dither.

The most bewitching affairs are the flowered hats. Pale green clover blossoms on a white hat are clouded in navy blue veiling. Roguish pill boxes of piqué have a couple of yards of white dotted veiling whirling dizzily over the pie pan area of the hat itself. A stiff little black derby number, which perches rakishly on one side, has a long swoosh of black veiling sweeping over the right shoulder. And a typically zany idea consists of a thin white headband holding a cluster of snowy white birds in the center of the forehead.

A leaf green soft felt has two fragile looking orchids as a double headlight effect with fuchsia veiling over them. Sky tickling feathers and quills trim the primmest yet smartest of sailors, and lots of the feathers are made of the same fabrics as the hat. One utterly mad quill is made of white dotted silk. Tiny buds appear on other quills.

SYNOPSIS.

Ross Craddock's father turned Craddock House into flats and installed his old maid cousins, Mary and Lucy Craddock, in a flat apiece, on either side of the one occupied by Ross. After Mary's death Lucy prepares to take a trip, despite an order from Ross to vacate her flat because she objects to his attentions to her foolish young niece, Mavis Grey. Their cousin, Peter Renshaw, is staying in Mary's flat while he settles her estate. Lucy gives her cousin, Lee Fenton, permission to use her flat while she is away. Lee, who is in love with Peter, has just escaped an unpleasant experience with a married man. Rush, the porter, mutters belligerently to Lee against Ross. Mrs. Green, the charwoman, says she is ill and asks Lee for a drink of brandy. That evening Peter prevents Bobby Foster, Mavis' suitor, from making a scene in a night club where Mavis is with Ross. Peter is awakened in the night by a crash. He sees Mavis running from Ross' flat and Ross cut and bleeding. Mavis had thrown a decanter at him. Peter lets Mavis stay the rest of the night in his flat. Later he is again awakened and sees Mavis again coming from Ross' flat. She says she went to retrieve her purse. Lee awakens from a nightmare to find herself covered with blood. Her bloody footsteps lead from Ross' door. Lee knows she walks in her sleep. In terror she washes away the bloodstains and goes to tell Peter. Ross' valet arrives and finds Ross has been shot and killed. He summons the police. An old maid tenant tells how she saw Mavis coming from Ross' flat twice. It is learned that Lucy did not go on her trip and that she arrived at the home of a friend at 3 in the morning. Rush turns over to the police a cigaret case he found belonging to Bobby Foster. Lucy admits coming to Craddock House after 2 a. m. and seeing a figure hurrying out of the door and going up to find Ross murdered. She fled after finding Mavis' compact. Lucy tells that Ross was married years before to an actress, that he was never divorced and had lately stopped paying her.

INSTALMENT XXXI.

A MURDER VERDICT.

Lee's eyebrows went up.

"Was Ross really married?" she said. "I'm not surprised, you know. Lucy used to drop hints. I suppose that was why she was in such a flap about Mavis."

"You think Mavis knew?"

"Well, you'd think Lucy would have told her if she wanted to put her off."

"You'd think so. Well, she told Abbott, and I dropped in on old Prothero on my way back and he told me all about it. She was an actress in a small way—name of Aggie Crouch, but her stage name was Rosalie La Fay. Ross Married her on one of his leaves in 1917. He was over age and compos mentis, and she was a perfectly respectable girl, so Uncle John had just to swallow her down.

"But by the time the armistice came along Ross was through and they separated. Uncle John made her an allowance of three hundred a year on condition she kept out of everybody's way. Somewhere about 1925 he reduced it to two hundred—he'd had some losses—and in 1931 it came down with a run to a mere fifty. Prothero says it was all he could manage. When he died four years ago Ross cut it down to twenty-five, and a year ago he stopped it altogether.

"You know he really was a swine, Lee. The woman wrote the most imploring letters—said she couldn't get a job, and wouldn't he do something for her? Prothero tried to persuade him, especially in view of the fact that all the leasehold property was due to fall in and he could quite easily have let her have the original three hundred a year again, but he wouldn't hear of it. By the way, she'll come in for most of that property now."

"What!"

"A bit of a turn of the wheel, isn't it?"

"I thought it came to you."

"What came from my grandfather comes to me. He left it like that in his will. But most of those leaseholds came to Ross from his mother without any settlement, and the wife will get all that. Prothero says that was one reason why he was so anxious that Ross should make a will. He said he wrote to him urging him on these grounds only last week, and he says Ross had half agreed to do something about it, but it didn't get any farther than that."

"Does she know?" said Lee.

Peter nodded.

"Prothero wrote yesterday and she rang him up this morning from Birmingham. He said she sounded very upset and wanted to know when the funeral was, and would he advance her some money at once because she would like to send a really classy wreath. He was rather relieved to know that she had got his letter because, I gather, she never stays anywhere more than about a month and he wasn't quite sure whether he'd got the right address."

"I suppose," said Lee and then she hesitated. "Peter, it is beastly to think of these sort of things, but—do you suppose she knew—about the money, I mean?"

Peter shook his head.

"My child, I'd love to suspect Aggie, but I'm afraid it can't be done. You see, she couldn't possibly have known that Ross hadn't made a will, and if he had, she could bet her boots she wouldn't get a penny. All very vindictive and anti-social our Cousin Ross' views on matrimony. Anyhow, she was in Birmingham—at least I suppose she was—old Lamb might be asked to check up on that. I did have the bright thought that Miss Bingham might be Aggie in disguise, with an accomplice in Birmingham telephoning to old Prothero, but I'm afraid she's been here too long for that. No, I don't think we can fix it on Aggie."

. . . . . .

The inquest took place at half past two on Friday afternoon. No adjournment was asked for by the police and the jury arrived without difficulty at a verdict of willful murder against Robert Foster. Indeed, after the evidence of the hall porter at the Ducks and Drakes, reluctantly corroborated by Mr. Peter Renshaw, and the very voluble testimony of the unfortunate Bobby's landlady, Mrs. Nokes, and her husband, they could hardly have done anything else.

The cigaret case was produced and identified and the finger prints sworn to. No young man could have done more to put a rope about his own neck. Three witnesses to swear to a threat to shoot Ross Craddock. Finger prints on the bannisters of Craddock House and on the door of the room in which the murdered man had been shot. His cigaret case picked up in the hall. Absence from his room at the material time, between one-thirty and three in the morning. And, most damning of all, the strong motive of jealousy acting on a mind unbalanced by drink. A very neat case, the only thing lacking to complete it being the person of Robert Foster.

"That ass Bobby's done a bunk," said Peter in Lee's ear after a brief interchange of words with the inspector. "Old Lamb's as sick as mud—says somebody must have tipped him the wink, and I rather gather that he thinks it was me. As no one told me that Bobby had been plastering the whole place with finger prints and dropping cigaret cases, I don't very well see how I could have blown the gaff."

"Ssh!" said Lee. "They're going to begin."

Peter's heart warmed to Inspector Lamb when he found that Miss Lee Fenton was not to be called as a witness.

Miss Mavis Grey was called, but failed to answer to her name.

Lucy Craddock gave her evidence faintly, but steadily.

Yes, she had seen some one come down the steps of Craddock House as she approached. The time would be about two-fifteen a. m. No, she could not say whether the figure she saw was that of a man or a woman. It was just a dark moving shadow. Her narrative remained clear and made a visible impression on the jury.

Miss Bingham enjoyed herself a little too obviously and deprived her evidence of its full effect. Juries do not care for a biased witness.

If Mavis Grey had been in court, she would have profited to a considerable extent from the malice of Miss Bingham's attack. A pretty girl and a spiteful old maid—the picture could hardly have failed of its effect. But Mavis Grey, a most material witness, was not in court. Mavis Grey was absent, and so was Bobby Foster. Mavis Grey and Robert Foster. Robert Foster and Mavis Grey. A verdict of wilful murder against Robert Foster. Warants out against Robert Foster and Mavis Grey.

Peter and Lee took Lucy Craddock back to her own flat.

"Dear Phoebe is very kind, but I told her I must come home."

She cried all the way back in the taxi, but her chief concern seemed to be for the presumably unchaperoned flight of Mavis and Bobby.

"And I suppose it will be quite impossible for them to arrange to get married if the police are looking for them. O, my dear, it is really all quite dreadful and I can only feel thankful that poor Mary was spared."

★ Your Stars Today ★

By WYNN

Monday, April 3.

Do yourself the favor of taking a second look today. The first glance and the first opinion are likely to leave something to be desired, so don't act or decide in a hurry. And keep away from subjects and people that bring conflicts.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, from this birthday to next, is still one of personal reaping, plus growing ambition; but don't force. More opportunity from June on. Avoid friction with superiors. Danger: Now to April 18, and Dec. 6 to Jan. 27, 1940.

Tomorrow.

An opinionated set of vibrations to deal with; in the old rut.

Don't throw away the tougher portions of asparagus stalks. Save them for soup. Cook them in boiling, salted water just as you cook the tender stalks, then use asparagus trimmings and the liquid in which they were cooked to make the soup. Put the cooked trimmings through a sieve.

Cream of Asparagus Soup.

[Serves Four.]

1½ to 2 cups cooked asparagus
3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon minced onion
3 tablespoons flour
Salt, pepper
3 cups milk and liquid in which asparagus was cooked

Rub the asparagus through a sieve. Melt the butter and sauté the onion in it for a few minutes. Add flour and seasonings and blend. Add milk and stir until sauce is thickened and smooth. Add asparagus pulp and more seasoning if needed. Serve hot with a garnish of parsley.

LEFTOVER ASPARAGUS IN SALADS.

If you have asparagus left there may be enough for a salad. If so, poke a few stalks through a ring of green pepper, lemon, or pimiento and serve on lettuce with French dressing or mayonnaise to which catsup or chili sauce has been added. Or place two or three stalks on a slice of tomato, garnish with chicory, and top with dressing.

OTHER USES FOR LEFTOVER ASPARAGUS.

Leftover asparagus may be cut in pieces and added with sliced hard cooked eggs to a cream sauce. This combination is good toast, in patty shells, or baked in a casserole.

Add the asparagus to an oven casserol of vegetables, meat and vegetables, noodles, macaroni, or spaghetti. Or add it to a cheese souffle or fondu.

Tray Cloth with Crochet Edging Is Practical Gift

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

As a dainty and practical gift, a tray cloth with a fine white crocheted edging has no peer. This design is especially attractive to needleworkers because there is no trick in making it. The cloth measures 8 by 10 inches. The edging is composed of a chain stitch and double crochet and is finished with a dainty border.

For instructions in crocheting the tray cloth, No. X-233, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Mlle. Boulanger and Pupil Charm Eager Audience

BY CECIL SMITH.

Nadia Boulanger, the noted French music pedagog and mentor of young composers, made her first Chicago appearance as a pianist in the Arts club last evening, playing a two piano recital with her 26 year old Parisian pupil, Jean Françaix. An eager audience came to listen with hushed concentration, for Mlle. Boulanger's lectures at the Arts club and elsewhere last January had introduced her as a deeply learned and inspiringly communicative musician.

Last night's concert again gave evidence that the art of music knows no more selfless, unassuming votary than Nadia Boulanger. Here was no attempt to impress an audience by outer superficialities of glittering brilliance or calculated showmanship. Quite a bit of the music—Mozart, Bach, and Schubert—was peaceful and lyric. Not many performers would venture to include so many slow movements in a single program.

But Mlle. Boulanger [and her gifted pupil as well] has no ear or mind for mere externals. Almost mystically the two players seemed to be intent on revealing to us an inner beauty, an exquisiteness of melodic contour or harmonic color, in each phrase. Few living musicians would dare dream of being able to maintain unbroken the spell of such chaste yet heartwarming lyricism.

Yet when teacher and pupil together demonstrated for an hour and a half how beautiful music can be when the true inward spirit actuates the outward mechanics of playing, it never became like some special cult. Rather it was one of those rare occasions when music uncovers the universal importance it is so often glibly said to have.

The program was about evenly divided between old music and new. Three young contemporary composers were represented—Lennox Berkeley, an Englishman living in Paris, by three superficially witty short pieces; Dinu Lipatti, 27 year old Rumanian now also living in Paris, by the world première of a suite for two pianos, in one movement; and Mr. Françaix by his Concertino, originally written for piano and orchestra. The Berkeley and Françaix works were heard for the first time in Chicago.

The program was a highly significant one, both for the insight it gave into a nobler standard of musical performance than usually prevails in Chicago, and for its glimpse of the fertile activity of the young composers who profit from Mlle. Boulanger's guidance.

ROLAND HAYES RECITAL

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Roland Hayes made one of his rare local appearances yesterday when the Chicago Urban league, an organization devoted to the study of interracial problems, presented the famous Negro tenor in an Orchestra hall recital.

Mr. Hayes can sing standard European music with great purity of style. He can vitalize the spirituals of his own people by bringing to them that certain idiomatic quality—a compound of zest and simplicity and something else—which no white ever seems quite able to duplicate. These two types of ability Mr. Hayes demonstrated in striking fashion in yesterday's first and last groups, respectively.

For his ancient Italian, French, and English songs he trotted out that finely grained pianissimo which he is able to preserve in all its delicacy through phrase after phrase and which he is able to color subtly without ever endangering the general serenity of the music. A spiritual such as "Every Time I Feel the Spirit" Mr. Hayes performs with a rhythmic lift which does not become rowdy but which derives some of its exhilaration from the nearness of its approach to that quality.

The unaffected fervor and the untutored imagination which went into the composition of "Lit'l Boy"—a spiritual built on the supposed dialog between Christ as a boy of 12 and the doctors and sages of the temple—were preserved in all their wonder by the tenor's delivery.

The Illinois Symphony orchestra, long famous for the number of present day composers who appear on its programs, broke with tradition yesterday and regaled its Great Northern theater audience with Bach, Handel, Mozart, and Brahms. Albert Goldberg conducted. Oscar Chausow served as violin soloist, performing Mozart's fifth concerto with suavity of tone and agility of finger.

A pause at Kimball hall in the late afternoon found the Federal and Laredef Glee clubs, William Eugene Myricks, director, singing with an intense, emotionally potent tone color and with great care for proper blend and for expressive inflection.

House Frock Has Demure Air

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

We've been thinking that perhaps it's time for a little demureness in the realm of frocks for the home and country, so we designed this simple model that you can wear around the house, out to market, at the beach, and at your country place. It is easy and comfortable to wear, since it buttons down the front. It is easy to make and equally simple to launder, since there is no intricate trimming nor plaits.

Sketched at the left is a version with rickrack trimming. You will notice that the braid outlines the seams too. A brightly sprigged print would be perfect for this version.

More tailored but equally smart is the other suggestion. It has a scalloped collar and cuffs to contrast, and there are two diminutive pockets at the bustline. Buttons may be arranged in groups. Dark prints and polka dotted materials are effective.

Both versions of the pattern make up beautifully in silks, cottons, and linens.

Style No. 2708 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

The sprightly spring edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is on sale at the Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 15 cents the copy, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY.

The twenty-fifth annual Service club revue has been scheduled for Nov. 4. The revue will be held at the Auditorium theater and the cabaret following will be given in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House. The cabaret previously has been given in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House, but last year there was not enough space, so the larger room has been engaged for next fall.

Mrs. George Shields III. again will be in charge of the cabaret. Miss Mary Louise Laird and Mrs. John Cameron are in charge of the advertising and Mrs. Robert Cavenaugh will take care of the boxes and the patroness seats. The other chairmen have not been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes Jr. are being congratulated on the birth of their first child, a daughter, at Passavant hospital yesterday. Mrs. Barnes is the former Miss Clarice Hamill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill of Lake Forest.

Show Newest Fashions at Tea and Supper Today.

A preview of the latest fashions will be shown at tea from 3 until 5 o'clock and at supper from 10 until 12 o'clock today in the Pump room of the Ambassador East hotel. Among those who have made reservations for tea are Mrs. Leander McCormick, Princess Rostislav, Mrs. Thomas Gowenlock, Mrs. Benjamin H. Marshall, Mrs. W. Edwin Stanley Sr., Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Frank Osborne, and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams. Some of those who will model the fashions are Miss Eleonore Thompson, Miss Charlotte O'Brien, Mrs. Richard Vincent McNellis Jr., and Mrs. Robert Harvey.

The annual meeting of the Dobbs Alumnæ will be held this afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II. at 12 Scott street. Miss Jessie Orr White, head of the English department of the school, will be the especial guest at the tea. Miss Bonnie-Jean Clark is president of the alumnæ group.

Mrs. William McCormick Blair returned on Saturday from Boca Grande, Fla. Her sister, Mrs. Louise DeKoven Phelps, who was with her, will not return until next Friday.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

"Nation shall rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom. . . . In your fortitude you shall gain mastery of your souls."

This text from the words of Christ was used by Canon Charles E. Raven, chaplain to King George VI. of Great Britain and master of Christ's college, Cambridge university, last night at Sunday Evening club, Orchestra hall, as he referred to present international uncertainty.

"This was something more than a pulpit platitude," Cannon Raven declared. "It was the fact that in tragedy men can feel the birth pangs of a new age. Through our agony we can enter into an eternity of triumph—a resurrection!"

Canon Raven referred to worldly hopes of Christ's disciples as they went down to Jerusalem for the first Holy week. He said they hoped for high positions in the new kingdom.

"But when they saw all their pretty hopes smashed at Calvary, they were made fit for the power that was able to turn the world upside down," said Canon Raven.

A special papal blessing to all the Chicago faithful was imparted yesterday by Cardinal Mundelein in observance of Palm Sunday at Holy Name cathedral. The cardinal has just returned from Rome, where he participated in the election of Pope Pius XII.

Urges Moviegoers Force Improvement in Quality of Films

San Francisco, Cal., April 2.—(AP)—Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, national president of the Motion Picture Research council, urged the public today to use "pressure" on film exhibitors as a means of bringing about improvement in the quality of the country's cinema entertainment.

He proclaimed the council's interest in the Neely anti-block booking bill, upon which the United States senate interstate commerce committee is to start hearings tomorrow.

Dr. Wilbur, president of Stanford university, said the prohibition of block booking would make it necessary for producers to sell their films to exhibitors on a merit basis, and that the public then would have a better opportunity to influence film quality by supporting only "good" pictures. Dr. Wilbur made his remarks in a written statement.

One of the aims of the council is to have films graded at the producer's office according to suitability for audiences of different age levels.

Health Without Fat Should Be Diet Aim of Business Woman

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

How to satisfy a healthy appetite without putting on weight is the problem as constant with the business woman as her clothes and budget.

At a recent career conference it was made plain by speaker employers that the overweight employé is not a favored one. The prejudice is, right or wrong, that the heavy person cannot and does not get around as quickly and smartly as the person of normal proportions.

A properly balanced diet, habitually followed, not only equips the body with nourishment and energy but satisfies the appetite as well.

The sedentary life of the business woman, with comparatively little exercise, is definitly antipathetic to the digestion of heavy food and, consequently, the digestive tract refuses to function normally. A full meal at dinner time with meat is recommended, of course, but a business woman's lunch should consist of foods that are easily digested and contain sufficient nutritive value for mental and physical efficiency.

The convenience of modern transportation discourages walking. And the occasional bursts of energy for fresh air indulged in are not particularly helpful. So that a business woman can and should look upon her noonday meal as a great aid in figure control. We would argue for more out of door exercise, of course.

The Housewife

The woman who enjoys arranging flowers and makes of the task a fine art never has enough containers. She'll be delighted with a find of ours—a tall, graceful wicker basket, shaped a little like a vase, and holding an inner water container for flowers. This is available at an amazingly low price in two colors—natural and deep reddish brown.

It's ideal for long stemmed tulips, calendulas, euphorbia, for zinnias, asters, fruit blossom branches, and sprays of lilac. EDITH WEIGLE.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

According to foreign bridge publications "par contests" are becoming increasingly popular throughout Europe and even in faraway Australia. In this form of contest players are given specially prepared hands which they are supposed to bid and play exactly as in a rubber bridge game. The object, of course, is to come as close as possible to the bidding that has been approved by the committee and then to play the hand in such a fashion as to insure success. Here is an interesting example from an English par contest:

East, dealer.

NORTH
♥ 7 5
♦ J 10 9 6

WEST
♠ K 10 5
♥ A J 8 4
♦ K Q 2
♣ A 6 4

EAST
♠ Q 8 6 2
♥ K Q 9 3 2
♦ 7
♣ J 9 2

SOUTH
♠ 7 4 3
♥ 10 6
♣ K Q 10

The bidding recommended by the English committee is:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

The instruction sheet accompanying the hands commented as follows: Normal bidding arrives at a game contract, although the duplication in diamonds and the bad lie of the black suits make it possible for the game to be defeated. If West, playing Culbertson, opens with one no trump, East should respond three hearts."

Regardless of the bidding, however, the West player was instructed to consider himself declarer at a contract of four hearts and North was directed to open the jack of diamonds. The "par" in connection with this hand affected only the North-South players who, of course, were the defenders. It was pointed out that South had the opportunity to make a splendid defensive play on the very first trick. This involved the refusal to put up the diamond ace, even though there was a singleton diamond exposed in dummy. I thoroughly approve this line of defense. From South's point of view it should be a winning play to duck the first diamond. Admittedly a diamond trick will be lost, but inasmuch as West is marked with the king and queen of diamonds it is very likely that two club tricks will be salvaged by the defenders in exchange for the one trick they have conceded.

The English committee neglected to point out, however, that even with this good defensive play by South excellent subsequent defense would be required if the declarer took full advantage of his opportunities. Suppose, for example, the play proceeds as follows: West [the declarer] wins the first trick with the diamond king and immediately ruffs a diamond. He enters his own hand with a trump to the jack and ruffs his last diamond. One more lead of hearts cleans up the trump situation and now declarer leads a club to the ace and exits with a club. If South cashes his king and queen of clubs he opens the way to a splendid coup by declarer. After cashing two clubs South must lead a spade, otherwise declarer will discard a spade from his own hand while ruffing in dummy. But when South leads the spade West can make the excellent guess of putting up his own king. Now if North wins with the ace he will have to return a spade from the J-9 and declarer can let this lead ride to his own hand. Conversely, if North refuses to take the spade king declarer can lead toward the queen and still hold his spade loss at one trick.

It is obvious therefore that South, after winning with the club queen, must not cash the king, but must shift immediately to a spade. Against that defense West is truly helpless. If he puts in the ten North covers with the jack, thus forcing dummy's queen and preserving a tenace over declarer's king. If declarer puts up the spade king North wins and now has a safe exit card in a club. South wins with the king and returns another spade, thus taking his partner out of the ruinous end-play.

I am inclined to think that the committee should have pointed out the various pitfalls involved in this hand aside from the opening lead and the winning or ducking of that lead by South.

AMUSEMENTS.

CUBS DEFEAT SOX, 19 TO 10, FOR THIRD STRAIGHT

18 DOUBLES POP INTO CROWD IN PHOENIX PARK

Champions Take 5-3 Lead in Series.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Phoenix, Ariz., April 2.—The Cubs beat the White Sox, 19 to 10, today for their third straight in the desert series and a 5 to 3 edge in the entire spring set. There was a lot of heavy slugging, such as homers by Bill Herman, Hank Leiber, Luke Appling, and Al Bejma. But some of the eighteen doubles were spurious because of an overflow crowd which circled the diamond and late in the game encroached on right field up to the heels of the infielders.

The Cubs made fourteen hits in the first five innings off Thornton Lee and Jess Dobernic, and were slowed down only momentarily by Clint Brown, who entered the stuffy scene at the start of the sixth.

It Was Almost Brutal.

The attack on Lee included the homer by Herman, doubles by Jim Gleeson, Phil Cavarretta, and Gus Mancuso, and a single by Joe Marty for a total of four runs in the first inning and singles by Stan Hack, a walk, a double by Leiber, and another single by Marty producing three runs and Lee's retirement in the second.

Dobernic's unhappiness consisted of the four run fourth and the two run fifth. In the fourth Herman, Gleeson, and Mesner knocked doubles. In the fifth Leiber knocked his homer and Cavarretta a double, one of three he made during the afternoon.

Brown held the Cubs hitless in the fifth, but they got going again in the seventh. An error, Cavarretta's third double, a single by Bob Garbark, and Steve Mesner's second double were good for a pair of Cub runs. The Cubs finished off with four runs in the eighth.

The Sox didn't get their offensive started against Vance Page until the fourth. After two were out in that inning a double by Mike Kreevich, a single by Joe Kuhel, and a single by Eric McNair netted two runs. Appling's homer was the main factor in the Sox's three run farewell to Page in the fifth.

Higbe Is Wild.

Walter Higbe finished for the Cubs and though he had his strike out ball working he was wild and pitched the homer to Bejma and doubles to McNair, Mike Tresh, and Larry Rosenthal.

The game obviously was very fuzzy, but the big crowd seemed satisfied with the show and few attempts were made to restrain the folks who swarmed almost the entire premises. The teams expect to get back to baseball playing tomorrow in Tucson. There were 62 total bases today against 10 in Yuma the day before yesterday, which should round out your idea about today's affair.

BRUINS DEFEAT RANGERS, 2-1, TO TAKE SERIES

Hill's Goal in 3d Overtime Wins Battle.

Boston, Mass., April 3 [Monday]—[Special.]—The Boston Bruins ended one of the most bitterly fought playoff series in the history of the National Hocky league with a goal in the third overtime early this morning to whip New York's Rangers, 2 to 1, and qualify for the finals in the Stanley cup competition.

Mel Hill scored the winning goal, his third sudden death goal in the seven game series. It came after eight minutes of the period.

Play Leafs for Title.

As was the case in the two previous games, Hill was assisted by Bill Cowley, veteran center. The teams had battled almost 108 minutes when Roy Conacher started the winning rush, carrying into Ranger territory, and passing into the right corner, where Cowley outfought two Rangers to gain possession of the puck. He angled it to center and the speeding Hill blasted a twenty foot drive past Goalie Bert Gardiner.

The victory of the Bruins, who won the league championship with the second greatest point total in the league's history, came after three straight losses to the Rangers. Boston had won the first three games when the Rangers started a comeback which produced a 3 to 3 tie after a New York victory Saturday night.

A record crowd of 16,891 packed Boston Garden to see the Bruins gain the right to meet the Toronto Maple Leafs in a best of seven series for the world championship. The set will open Tuesday in Boston.

Both Score in Second Period.

Both goals in the regulation time came within two minutes of each other in the second period. Ray Getliffe gave Boston a 1 to 0 lead by caging Gordon Pettinger's pass from the edge of the crease and Murray Patrick, burly son of the Rangers' manager, lashed home a 50 foot shot to tie it up.

A woman was injured and two men were arrested as a result of missils thrown during the game. Police said James Fay, 24, and Lothrop Weld, 16, were charged with disturbing a public assembly. Authorities said Fay hurled a bottle and Weld a potato. The injured woman, who declined to give her name, received treatment for a cut over her left eye, believed to have been inflicted by a firecracker.

GERMAN BARBER SHOP PET TAKES BEST DOG TITLE

It's Ferry von Rauhfelsen of Giralda, No Less.

IS YOUR DOG A CHAMP?
Turn to the back page for diagram pictures of champion dogs. You may compare your pooch with the standards shown and see wherein he falls short.

Ferry von Rauhfelsen of Giralda, a sleek, agile Dobermann-Pinscher which two and one-half months ago was a pet in a barber shop in Augsberg, Germany, last night was selected as the best dog out of 1,272 pure breds entered in the 38th annual International Kennel club dog show. The victory by this "immigrant dog" was the climax of the two day show held in the International Amphitheater. More than 18,000 visited the show, an increase of 80 per cent over the 1938 attendance.

Ferry was bought in Germany by McClure Halley, manager of the Giralda Farm Kennels owned by Mrs. Geraldine Rockefeller Dodge, Madison, N. J. Halley discovered the dog during a European trip to purchase show dogs. He stopped in Augsburg, Germany, last January, saw Ferry in a barber shop, purchased him and then sailed for America to get his find ready for the Westminster Kennel club show in New York in February.

A Tour of Triumph for Ferry.

In this show, which had an entry of 3,070 dogs, Ferry swept through the Dobermann classes with ease, then went on through the variety group judging to the best in show award. Since then he has been shown three times, capturing the highest honors in Detroit, Rochester, and last night in Chicago.

When Lewis Worden judged the working breeds he quickly eliminated all the entries except the Dobermann, the Chicago boxer, Lisl Von Der Blutenau of Tulgey, Wood, a collie, a Corgi, and a German Shepherd. After making another inspection of these five he placed the Dobermann first and the Chicago boxer second in the working group.

New Yorker Scores a Double.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Duke of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., registered a double win in the sporting dog group when George Thomas, the veteran all around judge, picked their champion pointer, Pennine Paramount of Prune's Own, as the best gun dog in the show and awarded second place to their beautiful orange Belton English setter, Marco of Maridor.

It was all Nornay Saddler, the smooth Fox Terrier from the Wissaboo kennels, Long Island, in the terrier group judging. Competing against a classy field of terriers from all over the United States, including the Kerry blue champion Bumble Bee of Delwin, the best American bred terrier of 1938, Nornay finally was picked. This smooth fox terrier came to Chicago with a record of having won forty American bench shows.

California Dog Wins.

An enthusiastic crowd that applauded its favorites in the ring watched the group judging which preceded the best in show award. No Chicago dog could survive the stiff competition in the nonsporting breeds which was topped by a stylish Dalmatian, Champion Four-in-Hand Mischief. This dog traveled the longest distance of any dog winning in the show, the S. Four-in-Hand kennel being located in El Monte, Cal. This Dalmatian has won this honor sixteen times and six times has been picked as the best dog in show. A Chicago chow, Champion Lu Tang's Son Too, owned by J. C. Siebert of Chicago, was placed second to the Dalmatian.

The east won top honors in the hound group. Judge William H. Pym placed the famous eastern beagle, Champion Meadowlark Draftsman, first. Second in the group was A Young Man's Prayer.

Dear Lord, they talk of war,
These mighty men of state;
Have they forgotten days of youth
Before they tasted hate?

See, Lord, I am so young,
I like to laugh and run,
To work and play and sing
And rest when day is done.

I like to walk at even
And watch the stars above;
Have these men never known
A young girl's precious love?

Lord, let them remember
What hell a war can bring;
How love gives way to bitter hate
And youth forgets to sing.

So, Lord, I beg of thee
Peace to this world please give,
For see, I am so young,
And, Lord, I want to live.

RALPH SHAKES OFF RIVAL WITH 69 ON FINAL 18

Burke, Little Tie for Third Place.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Augusta, Ga., April 2.—Ralph Guldahl, a young man noted for his concentrated caution, today chose the thirteenth hole, of all of them, to become a gambler and thereby win the sixth annual Masters' golf championship on the Augusta National course.

Ralph Guldahl.

The decision on the 480 yard thirteenth ultimately brought the national and western open champion a seventy-two hole total of 279, the lowest score by three strokes in the six year history of the most exclusive party in the game.

Two years ago Guldahl became so twisted on the 12th and 13th holes that he yielded six shots to Byron Nelson, the eventual winner. Last year he three putted two of the last three greens, finding himself tied for second with Harry Cooper.

Uses Spoon for Eagle 3.

Today was a different picture, the big Texas boy said. He knew at the afternoon turn that it was up to him. He knocked a four iron four feet from the 10th pin for a birdie. On the thirteenth tee, the footing was uncertain because of recent rains. Guldahl slipped a bit on his tee shot, but the ball went straight, if only 220 yards from the brook ringed green. He reached for a spoon after looking at a downhill lie which seemingly called for an iron shot and a safe par five, then planted the ball five feet from the flag and holed it for an eagle three.

That eagle, as the minutes went on for a gallery of nearly 8,000, became the difference between Guldahl and an old friend, Samuel Jackson Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Sammy was two shots behind Guldahl at 54 holes, Ralph having a 210 to his 212. Sammy broke the world's record in the national open of 1937, but nine holes later Guldahl came in to break his mark and win. A few weeks ago, the two teamed up to win the international four ball matches in Miami, thanks largely to Ralph.

Sam, who has not been playing well of late, decided to come back this afternoon, scurrying around in a brilliant 33, which gave him a one shot edge on Ralph at the 63d hole. Guldahl soon adjusted that by his four iron shot to the tenth flag of the last round. Then he added the reckless eagle, and not even an overshot 17th green, after a perfect drive, could hold him.

Burke, Lawson Shoot 282.

The Masters is still the Masters in every sense of the word, judging by the performances of the men who chased Guldahl and Snead to the finish. Tied at 282 were Billy Burke of Cleveland, O., 1931 national open champion, and Lawson Little of Bretton Woods, N. H., one time double winner of the American and British amateur titles. Burke, who led the first round with a 69 and was only two shots away at the 36th, came through with a fine 71 this morning and hung a 70 onto that this afternoon.

Little, playing the final rounds with Guldahl, spurted up within two shots of Ralph with a morning 68, but needed a 70 on the final round.

The 283 bracket was occupied by Gene Sarazen of Brookfield Centre, Conn., like Burke one of the elder masters. After having shot a record tying 66 yesterday for the 36 hole lead, the Connecticut farmer came back today with a pair of par 72s. He was one shot in front of Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y., the man whom he tied with a double eagle in the 1935 tournament, eventually beating him in the playoff.

Picard Does a Fadeout.

Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., who won nearly all the way in last year's Masters, was all over the forestry at the tenth this morning, and in the water at the 12th for a 76, and his afternoon 71 gave him 289, a shot behind Nelson, who three putted the third, fourth and fifth greens of the final round after being only two shots back of Guldahl.

Robert Tyre Jones Jr., the inspiration of the Masters, had one of his poorer years, finishing in 33d place with a 304. Sharing that position with him were such able gents as Walter Hagen, Harry Cooper, and Jimmy Demaret. Bobby had rounds of 76, 77, 78, and 73. His best performance in his own show was a tie for 13th in 1934. Last year he finished 16th.

Guldahl Steady All the Way.

This morning Guldahl jumped into a one shot lead over Sarazen, with a two stroke advantage on Snead, Burke, Little, and Nelson, by shooting his 70. His steadiness was re-

BEARS TO OPEN SEASON AGAINST RAMS SEPT. 15

Night Game Scheduled on Soldiers' Field.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Chicago's 1939 professional football season will open on Friday, Sept. 15, with a night game between the Bears and Cleveland Rams on Soldiers' field, it was revealed yesterday with the release of the official fifty-five game National league schedule.

The championship race has been shortened one week, play begining six days later than last fall and ending a day sooner. The Chicago Cardinals, under their new coach, Ernie Nevers, will share in the opening day festivities, meeting Detroit in Detroit on Sept. 10. Davey O'Brien, the Texas Christian passing star, will make his professional debut that day with the Philadelphia Eagles in a game against the Pittsburgh Pirates in Philadelphia.

Season Closes Dec. 3.

Washington and New York close the season again in New York on Dec. 3. The championship playoff between the western and eastern division champions will be played on Dec. 10 on the field of the western division winner.

After the Bear-Cleveland game, Chicago will be without professional football until the Cardinals return to the city on Sunday, Oct. 1, for a night game against the Detroit Lions on Soldiers' field.

Green Bay Replaces Bears.

Unusual features of the schedule are the absence of a Bear-Detroit game on Thanksgiving day and the visit of both Chicago teams to New York to meet the champion Giants, who play the College All-Stars in THE TRIBUNE'S sixth annual charity game late in August. Manhattans Lose Opening Game to Pittsburgh, 3 to 2

BY OFFSIDE.

The Morgan Sport club of Pittsburgh, Pa., which eliminated Sparta, the defending champion, yesterday continued its success against Chicago teams by beating the Manhattan Brewers, 3 to 2, in the opening of the two game, total goal series to determine the western representative in the national challenge cup soccer finals.

The speed of the eastern team was the deciding factor in the game, played before a crowd of 3,000 in Sparta stadium. The Brewers took the lead a minute after play opened on a goal by Bill Gonsalves, but Tony Monaco tied it up at the six minute mark and the deadlock prevailed at the intermission, each team having missed several scoring chances.

The Brewers went on attack with the reopening of play, and took over the lead again four minutes through the period on Fabri Salcedo's shot. Steve Slaka then went to work for the Morgans, tying the score and then driving in another goal after twenty nine minutes, to give the easterners the lead.

The series will be concluded Sunday in Pittsburgh. Lineups:

MANHATTANS [2].	MORGANS [3].

The Spartas defeated the Schwabens, 5 to 1, in a game preceding the cup match. An upset marked play in the International league, the Swedish-Americans defeating the leading Vikings, 3 to 2, to take the league lead. Other scores:

GIANTS TOUCH OFF 14-5 BLAST UNDER FELLER, INDIANS

Jurges, O'Dea Get Homers in 14 Hit Rout.

Baton Rouge, La., April 2.—(AP)—The hard hitting New York Giants bunched 14 runs into three innings today to crush the Cleveland Indians, including Pitchers Bob Feller and Willis Hudlin, 14 to 5.

While Cliff Melton was holding the American leaguers to four hits and two runs in six innings, the Giants went to work with an extra base attack centered around homers by Bill Jurges and Ken O'Dea.

Feller felt the brunt of the Giants' wrath. After getting past the first two innings satisfactorily he was hammered for eight hits and ten runs in the next two, necessitating relief by Hudlin. A couple of errors helped the Giants crowd four runs into their first inning against Hudlin, but he settled down to blank them for three innings thereafter.

One of the Indians' runs came on a homer by Oscar Grimes in the fifth.

Cub Scouts Hit Trail in Quest of a Shortstop

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Phoenix, Ariz., April 2.—The Cub shortstop situation is acute and Manager Gabby Hartnett isn't trying to conceal the fact that he is more than slightly worried. But he has hopes. The Cub scouts, Messrs. Clarence Rowland and Jack Doyle are on the trail, the former in Florida and the latter in Texas. Presumably Rowland is shadowing the St. Louis Cardinals, who are not hard to deal with on a cash basis. Doyle phoned from somewhere in Texas last night that he had spotted a few prospects, but Gabby refused to reveal the identities of the athletes. Gabby and Doyle will confer on the matter next Saturday in San Antono.

The Cubs-Sox circus train rolled out tonight for Tucson, Ariz., where the big leaguers are scheduled to put on the ninth number of their spring act tomorrow. Bill Lee will start for the National league champions and go the distance unless he encounters difficulties similar to his recent experience in Los Angeles when the Sox blasted him for eight runs in three innings. Bespectacled Bill Dietrich and Art Herring will work for the Sox.

Jack Hayes, the Sox regular second baseman whose right knee underwent an operation last November, took his first fielding exercise yesterday and today. But he can't move for grounders hit to either side and is destined for many more weeks of cautious training.

Today there were about 5,000 spectators in a park built to accommodate 3,000. The overflow was so heavy that there wasn't more than 20 feet of playing space behind the first and third sacks. Anything hit into the field crowd was an automatic two base hit.

Augie Galan was fortunate enough to escape the afternoon's ordeal of trying to fish batted balls out of the overflow crowd. Augie complained that his stomach was acting up. Jim Gleeson, the fellow purchased from the Yankees' Newark farm, played left field.

The Sox suffered slightly this afternoon, but tonight rewarded themselves financially. Five of them whipped a five man Cub bowling team in a two game set, the winning margin being 75 pins. The Sox team was made up of Dykes, Rosenthal, Webb, Bejma, and Rigney. The Cubs wer represented by English, Herman, Root, Hack, and Hartnett. The beating cost the Cubs $50.

The point totals in the championship series found Jahncke with 27, Lehman with 26, J. Breanon Cleary's Sparkler III. of New Orleans, 24; Paul H. Smart's Melody of Noroton, Conn., 22; Gale, 21; Stormy, 18.

DORAIS SPEAKS AT NOTRE DAME ROCKNE SERVICE

South Bend, Ind., April 2.—[Special.]—Members of the Notre Dame Villagers, Monogram, and St. Joseph Valley alumni clubs today paid tribute to the memory of Knute Rockne, who was killed eight years ago last Friday in a plane crash.

The Villagers organization, composed of students from South Bend and vicinity, joined with the alumni in attendance at a mass said in Dillon hall chapel by the Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C. S. C., vice-president of the university; and at a communion breakfast in the dining halls.

Charles E. [Gus] Dorais, University of Detroit athletic director and quarter back of the Notre Dame team that Rockne captained in 1913, and Father O'Donnell, spoke at the breakfast.

The three groups combined for an inspection tour of the Rockne Memorial fieldhouse, recently opened and to be dedicated in June, and for a visit to Rockne's grave. Father O'Donnell led in prayer, and each of the organizations placed a wreath on his final resting place.

GREAT BRITAIN'S POLOISTS DEFEAT ALL-STARS, 15-7

San Francisco, Cal., April 2.—(AP)—Great Britain's international polo team defeated the Western All-Stars, 15 to 7, today in the first of a series of three games.

The Britishers scored three goals in the second period and maintained the advantage throughout. Although the two squads rated nearly equal on handicap terms—the Britishers 31 goals and the Americans 29—the match developed into a rout behind the shooting of Robert Skene, No. 1 for the visitors.

The outstanding shots were in the fourth period when Aidan Roark, No. 2 man for Great Britain, drove the ball through from ninety yards out and in the fifth period when Gerald Balding, captain and No. 3 on the winning team, made a sixty yard penalty shot. The ball traveled to the side, but Skene deflected it with his mallet while it was in flight and steered it through for the score. Skene was the leading scorer with seven goals. Summary:

GREAT BRITAIN [15].	ALL-STARS [7].
Robert Skene ....No. 1	C. B. Wrightsman

6 OF CHICAGO'S BANKS RANKED AMONG LARGEST

Institutions Are Rated on Basis of Deposits.

Six banks in Chicago are included in a tabulation of the 150 largest banks in the English speaking world, released yesterday by the California bank, Los Angeles. The banks are rated on the basis of their total deposits.

The Chicago banks included in the compilation and their ranking are: Federal Reserve bank [9], Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company [12], First National bank [14], Northern Trust company [40], Harris Trust and Savings bank [59], and the City National Bank and Trust company [100]. The reserve bank is a "banker's bank," owned by the member banks of the federal system and operated under government direction.

Banking Based on Deposits.

Deposits of the American banks in the tabulation, which is the 1939 issue of an annual brochure, are as of Dec. 31, 1938. For the other banks deposits are from the latest statements available.

Combined total deposits of the 150 banks were $57,484,604,686, exceeding by 3 per cent the former all-time peak of $55,632,733,504 in the 1937 issue [for the 1936 year-end.] The present peak is 71 per cent above the depression low point of $33,523,082,172 in the 1933 issue [for the 1932 year end] and 35 per cent above the pre-depression high of $42,707,221,068 in the 1931 issue [for the 1930 year-end].

Ninety-five of the banks listed are American institutions, with total deposits of $36,368,141,092. There are 55 British banks, with total deposits of $21,116,463,594. Of the 95 American banks, 20 have head offices in New York City. The deposits of these 20 total $17,245,468,749.

The first 1939 edition of Rand-McNally bankers' directory, also released yesterday, reveals that there are 257 commercial banks in the United States that have resources of more than 25 million dollars each. Twelve Illinois banks are included in this group.

Total resources of the banks in this list amount to $37,610,679,000. The Illinois banks have total resources of $4,785,761,000. New York state ranks first both in the number of banks in the 25 million dollar class and in total resources.

Following New York in the ranking are Pennsylvania, California, Ohio, Texas, Illinois, Massachusetts, and Missouri in that order.

J. P. Morgan & Co. Lists Deposits at $514,978,543

New York, April 2.—(AP)—The international banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., including Drexel & Co., of Philadelphia, reported today in a condition statement as of March 31 deposits of $514,978,543. This compared with $521,164,653 as of Dec. 31. Holdings of United States government securities increased to $333,488,583 from $298,529,130. Cash on hand and on deposit in banks decreased to $119,590,562 from $164,137,704. Total assets were stated to be $570,640,379, against $562,343,544 at the close of 1938.

Barkley Trust Indenture Bill Draws New Attack by Bankers

The revised Barkley trust indenture bill drew renewed criticism from bankers last week after a senate subcommittee reported favorably on the measure. The bankers' opposition to the bill is based on the grounds that it substitutes the theory of administrative discretion for the principle of "full disclosure" which has been the fundamental feature of earlier federal securities legislation.

Senator Barkley, author of bill opposed by bankers.

The bill is sponsored by the Securities and Exchange commission. Under the term of the bill the SEC would be given broad discretionary powers to regulate the activities of corporate trustees. The measure was reintroduced at this session of congress after it failed of passage at the last session. Its senate sponsor is Senator Alben W. Barkley, Democratic leader.

Bankers Protest Revision.

Meeting in Chicago in a regional conference, the Investment Bankers' Association of America protested the revised bill which the SEC had said, in a statement to the senate committee, overcame the bankers' principal objections.

The association's objections, signed by Jean C. Witter and John K. Starkweather, were sent by wire to Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman, and other members of the senate committee on banking and currency.

"This new draft [of the bill] is highly objectionable to our business and a serious deterrent to business expansion," the banking group said. "We find it hard to believe that the senate is preparing to add still further to the burdensome restrictions now hampering business, particularly in view of the fact that the SEC have presented such slight proof to show any pressing need for it."

Object to Federal Control.

Witter had previously summarized the association's objections to the measure at a luncheon during the Chicago meeting last week.

Chicago bankers' opposition to the Barkley bill is set forth in a letter filed with the congressional committee. Presidents of five large Chicago banks signed the letter in which various proposals contained in the bill are criticized.

OIL FIRM MAKES CHICAGO BANK BOND TRUSTEE

Texas Corp. Turns to Western Agency.

The Texas corporation has named a Chicago bank—the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company—as trustee for its $40,000,000 issue of 3 per cent debentures to be offered soon.

The selection of a Chicago trustee was welcome news to Chicago financial men, who have repeatedly complained that many companies operating in the middle west have their financial arrangements handled in New York instead of Chicago.

The Texas corporation's last debenture issue in 1936, moreover, was placed in the hands of a New York trustee, the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company.

Predict Shift to Chicago.

Trust department officials in La Salle street institution predicted that the big oil producer's shift to Chicago for the trusteeship of its new debentures would lead the way for other companies, including many western railroads, to follow suit. Such a migration would bring direct cash benefits in trustees' fees and also would add to Chicago's prestige as a financial center.

The Continental Illinois bank was the trustee for Texas corporation's $100,000,000 of debentures issued in 1929. These were later retired and then the trusteeship for the 1936 debenture financing of $60,000,000 was placed in New York.

Trustee Business Sought.

The corporate trustee business is sought by banks and trust institutions because it brings income from fees at the time the securities are issued and also often means additional income as long as the securities are outstanding and pay interest. When trustees serve as paying agents, as they frequently do, they receive a percentage fee on all money paid in interest on the bonds or debentures.

The trustee performs a number of duties to protect the securities holders. These include authentification of bond certificates, holding of title to property mortgaged to the bondholders, and foreclosure on property holders, and foreclosure in case of default.

Fees Are Explained.

The base fee paid the trustee when the bonds are issued runs about 50 cents per $1,000 bond, in addition to a flat acceptance fee of $1,000 on the issue. If temporary certificates are issued and later are exchanged for permanent certificates, as is often the case, the trustee also receives an exchange fee of about 25 cents per $1,000 and another 50 cents per $1,000 for authenticating the permanent certificates. On interest payments, the trustee's fee usually runs ⅛ of 1 per cent of the coupon interest paid.

Temporary certificates are issued by companies when the time elapsing between the date of their decision to sell new bonds and the actual offering date is insufficient to permit the engraving of permanent certificates.

If Texas corporation issues temporary and then permanent certificates the Continental Bank's basic fees as trustee will exceed $50,000, based on the above "normal" rates. In addition, the bank's fees on the 3 per cent interest coupons would amount to another $30,000 over the twenty year life of the debentures, if they all should remain outstanding. Interest payments will be reduced, however, by retirement of the debentures at the rate of $1,000,000 a year after 1949.

British Holders of Czech Bonds Urged to Report

LONDON, April 2.—(AP)—The Bank of England today asked British holders of Czecho-Slovak government bonds and other Czecho-Slovak obligations to make reports to the British treasury. Announcement of the request came from No. 10 Downing street and was interpreted as an indication the government might try to collect from Germany because of the absorption of Bohemia and Moravia. The statement said, however, that the government did not "accept any responsibility for obtaining satisfaction."

Sales last week, 7,139,570 shares; preceding week, 4,994,840; year ago, 7,372,510.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 2.—Last week's events in Europe and the lack of effective steps at home to bring about recovery were mirrored in tumbling prices on the New York Stock exchange. Leading stocks broke from fractions to more than 8 points and drove the list to its lowest level since the "Munich crisis" of last September.

Trading was not exceptionally heavy in the early part of the week, but it picked up swiftly toward the close. Sales averaged more than a million shares a day, the total turnover amounting to 7,139,570 shares. Friday and Saturday were exceptionally heavy days.

There was little hesitation among observers in placing the major blame for the market's weakness on the German-Polish situation and related questions.

Speeches Hold Attention.

From Monday to the close Saturday the cables were closely watched as Premier Edouard Daladier outlined France's position, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain spoke to the house of commons and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler—the cause of it all—answered the British premier. The contents of Hitler's speech, however, were not known until after the close of the market Saturday.

For the first three days of the week dealings were dull and prices on the whole were lower. On Thursday the market started out to follow the same pattern, but soon a wave of selling rolled over the list and depressed prices 2 to 4 points. On Friday selling reached almost panic proportions and the averages broke through their previous lows. On Saturday the list rallied.

Few Stocks Escape.

Few stocks escaped unscathed in the week's liquidation. Heavy industrial shares bore the brunt of the attack, finishing the week with a loss of 8.72 points in the Dow-Jones averages. Rails were down 2.49 points and utilities 1.55.

Although the threat of war was considered the prime factor in the selling, market analysts found contributory reasons. One observer stated that a cause of Friday's break was the growing belief among traders that domestic business is not living up to expectations.

The technical position of the market itself was considered another cause of the wide decline. Selling by chart followers also did its part in the fall. Devotees of the Dow theory believe that if the industrial index breaks through its old low and its action is confirmed by the rails and utilities the market is in for a bear phase.

The action of the market Friday after it had punctured its old low apparently touched off the selling of a band of chartists throughout the country with an estimated strength of 100,000.

MINE DEATHS DROP.

Mine fatalities for the first two months of this year were 38 per cent under the total for January and February of 1938, James McSherry, state director of mines and minerals, announced.

BRITISH STOCK MARKET VEERS TO WAR ALARMS

LONDON, April 2.—(AP)—War fears were reflected in the zig-zag pattern of London stock trading last week. On Friday, however, there was a slight hardening of the market on announcement of the British-French pledge to back Polish independence with arms.

Prime Minister Chamberlain.

The London market's slightly firmer tone appeared before Friday's long slide in Wall street prices. The reaction to Prime Minister Chamberlain's declaration was seized upon as a bit of optimism in striking contrast with other developments.

The flight of gold to the United States thus far in 1939, according to one estimate, now exceeds £150,000,000 [$750,000,000]. In all of 1938 £400,000,000 [$2,000,000,000] was shipped to the United States.

Britain Pays More to Borrow.

Another index of concern over the European future was seen in the high price the British government was forced to pay for borrowings. The treasury bill rate jumped to the highest point since April, 1932.

A few bursts of activity followed such rallying points as the British decision to double its territorial army, but the improvement was not maintained and prices slumped slightly further at each recession.

Price levels, however, in both the industrial and domestic rail group as well as the badly hit high grade group were slightly higher than the lows touched in the September crisis.

Full realization of the probable cost of further army expansion, which some thought might necessitate government borrowing beyond the already proposed total of £350,000,000 [$1,750,000,000], brought a slump in high grade issues Thursday.

Market Rallies on Friday.

Chamberlain's momentous announcement on Friday was just in time to start a rally in market prices.

After a quiet week, the Paris bourse showed an unexpected rally upon Chamberlain's declaration. Amsterdam showed no notable change during the week, quotations maintaining a steady level with satisfactory resistance.

The Berlin boerse was more lively than it had been for some time.

FINDS 7 STATES ARE CHEATED ON CIGARET TAXES

The public administration clearing house, Chicago, said yesterday a report to the federation of tax administrators and the national tobacco tax conference indicated cigaret tax evasions cost seven states an estimated $3,150,000 annually.

The clearing house estimated losses as follows: Iowa, $1,000,000; Texas, $750,000; Georgia, $400,000; Oklahoma, $300,000; Arkansas, $300,000; Mississippi, $250,000, and South Carolina, $150,000.

Shipping of cigarets by parcel post was described as the commonest method of evasion. The cigarets, the report said, are shipped either in bulk to an agent and then distributed to the consumer, or, "as is the growing proportion of cases, are shipped directly to the consumer together with a supply of order blanks for reorder."

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Commerce

MONDAY, APRIL 3, 1939.  29

U. S. IS LARGEST BORROWER FROM CHICAGO BANKS

Uses Nearly 40 Pct. of All Deposits.

The United States government is the biggest borrower at Chicago banks. It has the use of nearly forty per cent of the aggregate deposits of the city's banks.

The March 29 statements of condition issued by the banks disclosed that their total investments in federal government bonds amount to $1,192,975,000. This compares with the aggregate deposits of $3,089,735,000.

The ratio of government bond investments to total deposits in Chicago banks corresponds closely to that for banks throughout the country. Certain individual banks have less than that proportion of their funds invested in government paper, but all banks have substantial holdings.

Federal Bond Holdings Decline.

In the first three months of 1939 the total government bond investments of Chicago banks declined about $16,000,000. The shrinkage exceeded by a small margin the increase shown in the total loans and discounts, which were about $13,000,000 greater on March 29 than at the close of 1938.

One Chicago bank, the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, owns more than a half billion dollars of government bonds. Its March 29 statement listed holdings of governments at $536,774,000. Three months earlier the total was 15 millions larger.

The First National Bank of Chicago on March 29 was carrying $346,592,000 of government securities in its investment amount. This was an increase compared with $338,788,000 reported in its 1938 year-end statement.

Changes in Holdings Shown.

Holdings reported by the Harris Trust and Savings bank were $49,179,000, an increase of more than five millions over the December total. The Northern Trust company cut its government investments to $90,823,000 from $108,693,000 at the end of last year.

The interest earned by the banks on government securities is comparatively low. In the absence of demand for commercial loans, however, the banks have the choice of leaving idle an excessive proportion of their resources or accepting the meager rate which the govenment is willing to pay for the use of money. Moreover, Chicago banks, and banks all over the country, are carrying abnormally large reserves of idle money on which they are earning no return.

Banks Have Much Idle Money.

This idle money is left on deposit with the central banks of the reserve system. Every member bank of the federal reserve system is required by law to carry specified minimum balances with the central banks as a protection for their depositors. The balances for years have exceeded the legal minimum by a wide margin. The last report of the federal reserve board showed excess reserves of all banks in the country amounted to 3½ billion dollars.

MARCH RECEIPTS OF LIVE STOCK MOST IN 5 YEARS

The Chicago stockyards last month handled the largest March receipts of live stock in five years. An abnormally large run of hogs and lambs offset the decreases in cattle and calves. The combined total of all classes at 797,767 compared with 685,347 in February and with 726,024 a year ago.

Hog receipts at 301,509 showed a slight increase over the 299,347 received during February. Only once before in the last twelve years were hog receipts larger in March than in February. The increase was attributed to the larger number of summer and early fall pigs raised last year and the earlier movement to market from most sections. A year ago the March hog run was 290,815.

Chicago receipts for three years follow:

	March. 1939.	1938.	1937.
Cattle	146,947	160,932	172,511
Calves	31,656	33,281	37,992

Smaller Banks of City Report Rise in Loans

Most of the outlying banks of Chicago and the smaller downtown institutions increased their loans during the first quarter of 1939. Although combined deposits of the city's 57 reporting banks were lower on March 29 than they were at the end of December, a number of the outlying banks reported increases.

Loans and discounts of all reporting banks advanced 13 million dollars during the quarter to $632,901,000 on March 29. Total deposits aggregated $3,089,735,000, a drop of about $300,000,000 from the December level. A summary of the statements appeared in Saturday's TRIBUNE.

Loans advanced by the Chicago City Bank and Trust company increased to $7,384,000 on March 29, from $6,879,000 on Dec. 31. Deposits advanced to $24,537,000, from $23,825,000.

Drovers National Bank Figures.

The Drovers National bank, in the stockyards district, reported deposits totaling $24,795,000, against $27,245,000 in December. Loans fell to $3,730,000, from $3,866,000.

Loans of the Live Stock National bank, also serving the stockyards area, advanced to $4,933,000 from $4,634,000 in December. Deposits totaled $23,516,000, a drop of $3,273,000.

Loans of the Mercantile Trust and Savings bank, in the downtown district, advanced from $3,749,000 to $3,813,000 during the three months. Deposits declined from $16,741,000 to $15,079,000.

Another downtown bank, the National Boulevard, showed a similar trend, its loans rising from $2,521,000 to $2,752,000, and its total deposits shrinking from $16,582,000 to $14,897,000.

Mid-City National Lends Less.

The Mid-City National bank's loans and discounts fell from $3,123,000 to $3,038,000 during the quarter, and its total deposits dropped from $11,016,000 to $10,244,000.

Loans and discounts of the Lawndale National bank declined $20,000 during the three months to $1,457,000. Total deposits of $12,489,000 represented a $15,000 advance.

The Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank reported total deposits of $11,241,000 as of March 29, against $12,230,000 at Dec. 31. Loans and discounts were $4,163,000, against $4,298,000.

The South Shore National bank, which opened on Jan. 21, issued its first bank call figures. Loans and discounts totaled $111,000 and deposits were $819,000.

Other Increases Shown.

Moderate increases in both loans and deposits during the first quarter of the year were shown in the figures of the Cosmopolitan National, the I. C. National, South East National, Drovers Trust and Savings, and the University State bank.

The Sears Community State bank had larger loans and smaller deposits. Loans of the Austin State and Hamilton State banks declined and deposits advanced.

PHONE STATISTICIANS BUSY AGAIN; GIVE YOU THE RIGHT NUMBER?

New York, April 2.—(AP)—If you are a man, woman or child and did not receive 220 telephone calls in 1937, something is either wrong with you or with the American Telephone and Telegraph company statisticians.

As far as the statisticians are concerned, they saw nothing controversial about the matter in a volume entitled "Telephone and Telegraph Statistics of the World," issued today. They claimed they had counted 28,300,000,000 telephone conversations in the United States in 1937.

Americans in Europe, the report showed, found the telephone situation different overseas. Back home there were 15.09 telephones for every 100 people, but in the United Kingdom there were only 6.41 per 100, in Germany, 5.31; in France, 3.7, and in Italy, 1.38. Why, in some of the countries there weren't even telephones in the American bars.

The Continental United States had 39,245,069 telephones. When the telephones in Hawaii, Alaska, Porto Rico and other American areas are included, the total comes to close to half the world's total that only a statistician could tell the defference.

Americans answered their telephones at the rate of 900 calls every second, day and night. They practically always admitted they were feeling fine and how are you?

HEARINGS ON RAIL BILL BY WHEELER TO START TODAY

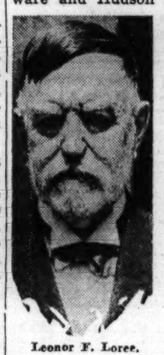
Washington, D. C., April 2.—(AP)—The senate interstate commerce committee will begin hearings tomorrow on a broad program of railroad legislation.

Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.] of the committee, co-author with Senator Truman [D., Mo.] of the program, invited officials of the Association of American Railroads to give their views first.

The Wheeler-Truman program would include: [1] Giving the interstate commerce commission rate making jurisdiction over all forms of transportation; [2] establishment of a three judge court to supervise reorganizations; [3] empowering the I. C. C. to regulate or abolish railroad holding companies, and [4] granting of authority for the I. C. C. to prevent use of railroad funds for other than railroad purposes and to examine the books of railroad holding companies, railway associations, banks, and railway equipment companies.

D. & H. Cuts Its Holdings in N. Y. Central

New York, April 2.—(AP)—The Delaware and Hudson company in 1938 disposed of 105,400 shares of its holdings of New York Central railroad stock, the D. & H. annual report disclosed today.



Leonor F. Loree.

The shares were part of an original 495,000 share block representing a 10 per cent interest in the New York Central, acquired in the open market as an investment by the company in 1932 under the generalship of Leonor F. Loree, former head of the D. & H. Loree retired and was succeeded by Joseph H. Nuelle last year after guiding the destinies of the company since 1907.

Bank Loans Reduced.

Proceeds from Central shares sold, together with cash from disposal of certain other securities in the company's investment fund, were used to reduce bank loans from $10,379,471 to $3,965,357, and for cash advances to subsidiaries.

Principal controled companies are Delaware and Hudson railroad and Hudson Coal company.

While the report did not say, Wall streeters said indications were the Central shares were sold "at a loss." They were acquired in 1932 at an average price of $22.36 a share, and the 1938 highest price in the New York Stock Exchange was $21.75.

20 Million in Securities.

Marketable stocks and bonds in the company's investment fund, on the basis of cost values, were reduced during 1938 to $20,374,942 from $33,556,169, the balance sheet showed.

Delaware and Hudson company for 1938 reported consolidated net loss of $5,397,451 after charges, against net loss of $2,499,716 in 1937.

Hudson Coal company for 1938 reported net loss of $36,976, against net loss of $1,639,500 in 1937.

As previously reported, Delaware and Hudson railroad for 1938 showed net loss of $156,204, against net loss of $998,165 in 1937.

STEEL INDUSTRY DOUBTFUL OVER SECOND PERIOD

March Fails to Bring Definite Upturn.

Second quarter prospects for the steel industry are unsettled, the magazine Steel said yesterday in its weekly review. Failure of a definite upturn in sales during March has made it difficult to determine the trend of the industry this spring.

The automobile industry is the major factor in the sluggish movement in the steel business. Renewal of buying in March by automobile manufacturers was awaited expectantly but did not materialize. Purchases were small and only for early requirements.

Hesitancy of the motor car makers resulted from uncertainty regarding spring sales. Assemblies last week declined about 3,400 units to 85,980. March output was the smallest since 1934 with the exception of 1938.

Production Rate Uneven.

The drop in steel sales especially in the last weeks of March was registered in the uneven progress of the national operating rate. Last week ingot production declined 1 point to 54.5 per cent of the industry's capacity. In 1938 in the same week operations were at 36 per cent.

Pig iron production in March averaged 77,182 tons daily, Steel estimated. This compared with 73,578 tons in February and 47,426 in March, 1938.

Steel business last month held steady with the February rate.

Structural Steel Active.

A promising factor for the second quarter is the strength in structural steel sales, the magazine said. Demand for tin plate also is expected to expand beyond the present 60 per cent production ratio. Demand for railroad materials has been quiet.

Steel making in the Chicago district last week fell 3 points to 53.5 per cent and in Youngstown, 4 points to 50 per cent. Production in Birmingham, New England, Cincinnati, and St. Louis declined abruptly. At Pittsburgh, however, operations gained 1 point to 49 per cent; Detroit, 2 to 74; Buffalo, 4.5 to 42, and Wheeling, 3 to 66.

Scrap markets were holding steady. Steel's composite price for scrap was unchanged at $15.04 per ton and for finished steel, $56.50.

TARIFF BOARD PREDICTS DIP IN GERMAN TRADE

Washington, D. C., April 2.—[Special.]—As long as the German price level and the exchange value of marks remain as at present, many imports from Germany will tend to decline as a result of the application of United States countervailing duties April 23, the tarif commission reported today.

Imports from Germany reached a low level of $64,000,000 in 1938.

Mine Shutdown Slated Today as Wage Parley Is Recessed

New York, April 2.—(AP)—A shutdown tomorrow affecting much of the nation's soft coal industry was indicated tonight when a joint subcommittee of miners and operators adjourned without agreeing on a new contract for the Appalachian region. The negotiators had sought to draft a new labor accord to supplant a two year pact which expired at midnight last Friday.

Secretary Perkins.

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the operators, said the conference—now in its third week—would be resumed at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Asked whether the stalemate presaged a shutdown in the industry, he referred the question to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers [C. I. O.]. Lewis would not comment.

From another source, however, it was learned that no formal instructions to stop work would go to the miners, but that work would automatically cease on the theory that the miners were without jobs because of lack of contract. Today's meeting lasted four hours.

Consumers Well Supplied.

A spokesman for the operators pointed out that large consumers would not be adversely affected immediately by a shutdown because of heavy advance purchases and a large supply of mined coal still available.

Secretary of Labor Perkins had telegraphed the negotiators an appeal that an agreement be reached today.

The negotiators replied that the "joint subcommittee of the Appalachian coal conference is continuing its consideration of the matters referred to it by the conference in an effort to arrive at an early agreement if possible."

Miss Perkins said that if the agreement were not reached by midnight thousands of miners would be thrown out of work tomorrow.

Expiration of the old two year contract so far has not affected the industry, for Saturday was a national miners' holiday and Sunday always is an off day.

Some mines already announced they would be closed tomorrow—chiefly for repairs—regardless of the outcome. Miners at other pits were ordered not to report unless they were advised of an agreement.

The joint subcommittee of eight men, striving for an agreement to be presented to a larger committee, consisted of four men for each side, led by Lewis as head of the U. M. W. of A., and O'Neill.

Any agreement reached here would affect only the 338,000 miners in the Appalachian field, but would be used as a basis for contracts in other fields.

Alabama Mine Suspends.

Special agreements were made to continue work in most of the other fields, but one exception was Alabama, where the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company suspended operations until April 17.

When the joint conference convened the miners demanded a daily raise of 50 cents over the existing scale of $6 in the north and $5.60 in the south, and a 6 hour day, 30 hour week.

The operators replied with a demand for a 50 cent daily wage cut, but later rescinded that and urged ratification of the old contract.

UAW DELEGATES REVOLT AGAINST CIO RED SCHEME

Deny Jobs to Three Ousted Union Aids.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., April 2.—[Special.]—Delegates attending the Auto Workers' convention here tonight rebelled against a C. I. O. scheme to put three communist supported ex-vice presidents back in powerful jobs. They adjourned until tomorrow after refusing overwhelmingly to hear a plea by Sidney Hillman, convention mouthpiece of John L. Lewis, dictator of the C. I. O.

Just before 10 p. m., when the convention was about to adjourn, Robert Travis of Toledo asked the delegates to grant a request of Hillman that the session be extended indefinitly and the rules suspended.

"The C. I. O. is carrying this thing too far," shouted a delegate from the Dodge local, leaping to the floor. "I was sent here to oppose dictation by the communist party, the Socialist party, and the C. I. O. I am a C. I. O. man and I will be a C. I. O. man, but this is too much. It's time to quit!"

Jobs Voted Out of Existence.

CHIEF AIRCRAFT CONCERNS EARN MORE ON SALES

Ratio of Profits Shows Increase in 1938.

Fifteen leading makers of aircraft and parts earned a higher ratio of profits compared with sales in 1938 than in 1937, a survey by Standard Statistics company indicated yesterday. Net income of the group totaled $19,141,000 in 1938, or 12 per cent of sales, compared with $10,189,000 in 1937, or 8.6 per cent of total sales that year.

Total sales of the group in 1938 were $159,804,000, against $118,812,000 in 1937. United Aircraft was first in sales in 1938 with $36,800,000 and net income of $5,426,000. Curtiss-Wright was second with sales of $33,103,000 and profit of $3,599,000.

AMERICANS PAY HALF BILLION IN ESTATE LEVIES

Such Taxes Set Record During 1938.

Americans paid more than a half billion dollars in 1938 for the privilege of passing on their property to heirs and beneficiaries. A survey just completed indicated that a total of $531,873,000 was collected by federal and state governments in estate, inheritance, and gift taxes. This is the highest figure such taxes ever have reached.

Reuben A. Lewis Jr.

Revenues of the federal government from estate taxes reached the record total of $382,175,386, according to the compilation made by Reuben A. Lewis Jr., executive vice president of the Metropolitan Trust Company of Chicago. The collections surpassed by more than $100,000,000 the highest previous collection year.

Federal and State Taxes.

Federal gift taxes totaled $34,698,000, an increase of $10,000,000. In 1936 taxes totaling $160,000,000 were paid on gifts made in anticipation of increases in the federal tax rate. Complete figures on state inheritance and estate taxes for 1938 were not available, but it was estimated that at least $115,000,000 was realized from such levies. This was moderately higher than the estimated 1937 collections. The states report their revenues on such taxes at various times of the year and a complete tabulation is not yet possible.

Last year's collections by states in inheritance and related taxes did not equal the totals which were attained in some previous years. In 1931, the total amounted to $185,322,000.

Value of Property Unknown.

Available data do not permit an accurate reckoning of the total amount of property that is passed on in the United States in any single year. Tax rates and exemptions vary in different states. Figures of the federal treasury, however, indicated that a total of $10,000,000,000 [gross value] is bequeathed annually.

After the federal and state tax collectors take their slices the amount remaining for the beneficiaries is greatly reduced.

Illinois citizens, the compilation disclosed, paid a total of $29,720,467 in inheritance taxes in 1938 and $1,811,643 in gift taxes.

AMERICAN WOOLEN ARREARS.

Investors' Guide: In 1929 American Woolen preferred dropped to $16 a share and I bought fifty shares. It has sold higher than that price most of the time since and is now about twice what I paid. Dividends have been scarce, however, and I understand the accumulations of back dividends now amount to nearly $26,000,000, or some $70 a share. The balance sheet shows net working capital of $30,000,000, so why doesn't the company use some of this to reduce preferred arrears?—B. T.

Answer: Most of the company's working capital is in inventories which cannot be paid out in dividends. Actual cash on Dec. 31 amounted to $3,009,000, and this balance was made possible by borrowing $2,000,000 from banks in 1938.

Being the world's largest maker of woolens and worsteds, American Woolen must keep large inventories on hand to carry on its business. As a result, price fluctuations causing inventory losses or profits are a big factor in influencing the company's earnings results.

Net losses have been incurred in all but three of the last eleven years of operations. Although preferred dividends have continued to accumulate, the company has eliminated nearly $9,000,000 of preferred arrears that otherwise would have piled up by buying preferred shares on the open market since 1931. For the 123,000 shares bought it paid an average price of $26.45 a share.

FEW SHOW GAINS.

Investors' Guide: Now and then you see in the paper that some company did better in 1938 than in 1937, but for the most part profits seem to be lower. Taking business by industries, were there any groups which made more money last year than the year before? I suppose aircraft makers might be one.—R. M. T.

Answer: You are right about aircraft earnings. Their profits were higher in 1938 than in 1937.

Only two other groups of a total of thirty-eight showed increases, however. These were foods and the shipping and shipbuilding industry. These results are based on a compilation made by the Standard Statistics company covering 1,898 companies.

Decreases in profits were largest in the case of railroad equipment manufacturers and smallest for beverage makers.

For all the companies profits were down 42 per cent in 1938. Investors' Guide will send a detailed summary of the study on request.

UAW DELEGATES REVOLT AGAINST CIO RED SCHEME

Refuse to Give Jobs to 3 Ousted Officials.

the three communist supported vice presidents whose jobs were voted out of existence yesterday on the orders of Lewis to end factionalism within this faction of the United Automobile Workers of America.

Communism within the original organization caused a factional fight last spring which virtually wrecked the U. A. W. At that time Homer Martin, international president ousted Frankensteen, Mortimer, Hall, and the secretary-treasurer, George Addes.

Lewis intervened in the union's affairs and had the four restored to office and the factional fight became worse. Last January the executive board met in Detroit and ousted Martin, who still had strong support among various locals.

Martin and his followers set up an independent union at a convention in Detroit early in March. Thus the united auto workers became two separate organizations. Roland J. Thomas was named president of the C. I. O. faction.

Get Hillman to Intercede.

With their vice presidential jobs voted out of existence yesterday the three communist supported ex-officers were out in the cold.

The three spent most of today with Hillman trying to induce him to find places for them and the plan eventually worked out was understood to be a realignment of districts and the appointment of the three ex-vice presidents to the executive board as members at large.

The convention voted earlier today to prohibit members of the executive committee from holding district or local office. Three board members who will have to give up local jobs under the order are Walter Reuther, hea dof the Detroit West Side local; Emil Mazey, head of the Detroit Briggs local, and Richard Leonard, president of the De Soto local.

Reuther and Mazey have been leading a "middle of the road" campaign and supporting Thomas for election to the presidency since the convention was opened. The three ex-vice presidents have been opposing Thomas, but were understood to have agreed today to withdraw all opposition if given jobs on the board.

Little business other than election of officers remains before the convention, which probably will adjourn tomorrow.

LUMBER ORDERS FOR WEEK 14 PCT. ABOVE YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., April 2.—(AP)—The National Lumber Manufacturers' association tonight reported new business during the week ended March 25 was 14 per cent larger than that of the corresponding week of 1938. Production for the week was 6 per cent in excess of that of a year earlier and shipments 5 per cent less.

19 STATE BANKS TURN NATIONAL IN FIVE YEARS

Nineteen Illinois state banks obtained national charters in the last five years, a report by Edward J. Barrett, state auditor of public accounts, disclosed yesterday.

The conversion of the state banks into national banks was prompted in many instances by a desire to release stockholders from the double liability requirement of the state charter.

Ten of the banks were in the Chicago area. They are: Live Stock National bank of Chicago, Liberty National bank of Chicago, North Shore National bank of Chicago, Upper Avenue National Bank of Chicago, First National bank of Winnetka, Cook County National bank of Homewood, Merchandise National bank of Chicago, I-C National bank of Chicago, First National Bank of Highland Park, and Skala National bank of Chicago.

BOARD OF TRADE'S 92D YEAR TO START WITH GONG TODAY

The Chicago Board of Trade, founded April 3, 1848, in what was then a prairie village, will launch its ninety-second year when trading begins with the sounding of the opening gong today.

Members of the grain exchange are proud of its historical record, but displeased with its trading record of recent years. Trading volume in 1938 was the smallest since compilation of this data was begun, and transactions thus far in 1939 have lagged behind the 1938 level.

Oldtimers at the board said yesterday that the exchange was founded by a group of citizens anxious to end the unscrupulous practices of "sharpers" who dealt with farmers who brought their grain to Chicago for sale.

"How I Got a Loan of $100 without embarrassment or delay."

"I needed $100 in a hurry. I dreaded to ask friends for a favor. And I had no security for getting a loan at a bank. What was I to do? Fortunately, I heard about Household Finance and so went to a nearby office. The manager was courteous and friendly. He merely asked me a few simple questions. The next day I got the money with 20 months to repay. Only my wife and I signed the papers. I was delighted to get a loan so simply and promptly."

Whether you are married or single, if you need a loan of $20 to $300 the manager of the Household office near you will be glad to discuss your problem with you in complete privacy and without obligation. Why not phone or visit him today?
